We are sorry, in a way, to see the formal installation of the official publicity agent at the Capitol, for the once sharp edge of news getting has been dulled all too frequently in recent years and with reportorial initiative still further blunted the public in the long run will get less rather than more exclusive news. Next thing you know the Senate will be insisting upon having questions presented a day ahead in writing.

HOOVER FAVORS MOVE FOR JUNE RECESS, REPORT

Congress Leaders Said to Have Won Executive at Breakfast.

FINAL VOTE ON TARIFF MOVED TO NOVEMBER

SENATE MAY RECEDE ON DEBENTURE FIGHT

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

President Hoover is understood to have agreed yesterday to the plans of congressional leaders for a recess not later than June 10, until September 9, with a final vote on the tariff set for two months later.

Senator Watson, majority leader of the Senate; Speaker Longworth, and Majority Leader Tilson were his breakfast guests. The conference was said to have been for the purpose of acquainting the President with the legislative situation and with the recess plans of the leaders.

With a view to getting away not later than June 10 and quite possibly before, the House conferees, it is believed, are preparing to reconsider their refusal to confer on the farm bill so long as it contains the debenture provision. A realization that their attitude was untenable may also have something to do with this.

A Gesture for the Farmer.

When the farm bill was sent to the House by the Senate, there was a disposition on the part of some to send it right back on the ground that the Senate had usurped the House's authority. But instead, the House passed a resolution saying that the Senate had done wrong, but that the former was not one to let a technicality stand in the way of aiding the farmer, so it would send the bill to conference.

But the House conferees, as soon as they met the gentlemen from the Senate, told them that the debenture provision would have to be stricken out before they would put their hands on it. Presumably, they were acting on the instructions of House leaders.

It developed, therefore, that the magnaminous spirit of the House, as expressed in its resolution, was mere "bunk.". The Senate conferees, headed by Senator McNary, pleaded with the gentlemen from the House to lay the debenture fight aside and that other differences in the bill be first reconciled. With these differences reconciled they said they could most likely go back to the Senate and get it to recede on the debenture. But the House conferees were adamant, despite the resolution passed by their body.

Recess Desire Aids Agreement.

The way is being paved now, though, with the yearning to go home, or at least to get away from Washington, for the representatives to get together with the senators on the other differences and then an effort will be made to have the Senate recede on the debenture.

The Senate Democrats and Progressives, having stimulated interest in their debenture plan, will probably be in a more relenting mood with the

MRS. WILLEBRANDT EXPECTED TO QUIT

TO PRACTICE LAW AGAIN

(Associated Press.)

Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, the first woman to be appointed to a high Government office, soon is expected to retire as assistant Attorney General in charge of the prosecution of prohibition, narcotic, internal revenue and customs law violations.

While her resignation has not yet been submitted to President Hoover, friends of Mrs. Willebrandt said yesterday she probably would leave the Justice Department next month to return to private law practice. For some time she has had under consideration important offers from several large law firms.

Mrs. Willebrandt is en route to Waco, Tex., to accept a degree from Baylor University, and the expectation is that she will formally tender her resignation soon after her return and take up law practice in the East, although her home is in California.

Friends of Mrs. Willebrandt, who frequently has held the spotlight of publicity both in connection with prohibition cases and politics, said she had wanted to retire at the end of the Coolidge administration, but had consented to continue in office because of the rather large number of changes in the high personnel of the Department of Justice which had to be made after the change of administrations.

Since last March 4 general but wholly unconfirmed reports have been that Mrs. Willebrandt was not wholly satisfied with her own situation in the department. One report was that she wanted full authority in prohibition prosecution cases, since she was to have full responsibility.

Another was that if the prohibition unit were transferred from the Treas-

Stocks' Prices Crash; Wheat Below Dollar

New York, May 27 (U.P.).—Bears hammered down the stock list today, and at the close values had melted more than $2,000,000,000 as based on the number of shares outstanding of the various companies.

Terrific pressure was brought against the market shortly before noon, and it continued through the remainder of the day. At the close about 150 issues had been forced to new lows for the year or longer, and the majority closed on the low; prices were off 1 to 8 points, with fifteen issues losing from 8 to 25 points.

Both the industrial average and the railroad average declined to new low ground for the year, the industrial figure dropping $10.91 a share for representative issues and the rail average being down $2.55.

Simultaneously May wheat broke below $1 a bushel, the first time dollar wheat has been witnessed since 1923 and the first time the May option has gone so low since 1915.

Bonds broke with the stock market, and losses extending to 15 points were forced on the curb. Bank stocks broke in the over-the-counter trading. Chicago stocks were down 1 to more than 6 points in active selling.

Selling was done on a large scale, gathering momentum until the close, and tickers were forced to run 35 minutes after the final gong had rung. Margin calls were noted, and not a little of the unloading was necessitated by cleaning out of poorly margined accounts. Transactions totaled 4,353,670 shares today, compared with 3,811,750 a week ago.

Call money ruled at 6 per cent and was at 5½ per cent outside the stock exchange. Nevertheless, this ease had only temporary effect. Traders were expecting a money pinch at the month-end, and many were convinced the Federal Reserve Board would raise its rediscount rates at principal centers this week.

The market opened irregular, but price changes were narrow and the majority were higher. After milling about in quieter turnover than the lethargic Saturday session for the first half hour, the market turned definitely downward.

Around noon an avalanche of selling hit the floor. Steel common was whirled down, and with it General Electric. Industrials went to new low ground by the dozen, rails followed, coppers sank, oils lost ground, but less than the others; chemical shares, farm implement stocks, motors, radio shares and steels were forced down point after point until the whole list was demoralized.

But the widest breaks were confined to the high-priced shares, and no wide-open smash occurred elsewhere.

The majority of coppers sank to new low ground for the year or longer, including Andes, Magma, Inspiration, Greene Cananea, Cerro de Pasco, Phelps Dodge, Butte, and Granby. Among the motors hitting new lows were Nash, Hupp and General Motors. Mack and Chrysler came near their lows. Oliver Farm and Case Threshing Machine dropped to new lows in the farm-implement group.

Several of the new stocks recently listed in split-ups sold at their lowest prices in history. These included Woolworth, International Telephone & Tele-

Chicago, May 27 (A.P.).—Dollar wheat, once the hope and of late the dread of the farmer, became his ambition again today as a flood of selling swept grain prices to record low levels.

May wheat was submerged to 98⅝ cents on the Chicago Board of Trade, a drop of 2⅝ cents from Saturday's closing price and the lowest price for May delivery since September, 1915, when a sale at 93 cents was recorded. Six years ago cash wheat sold at 96 in July.

Wheat today was for sale at prices 50 cents a bushel less than a year ago and more than 30 cents under the peak of the season in February. Since then wheat has been on the toboggan, the skids greased by an almost immovable surplus of the commodity left over from last year's enormous North American crop.

That surplus remained the prime factor in the glutted market. Every price reduction and freight rate cut here has been met by competing prices in Canada and the Argetnine, and prevailing estimates today held that 330,000,000 bushels would be carried over at the end of this crop year throughout the world.

The immediate factor today was the weakness of the Liverpool grain market and a contributing cause was rain in the Canadian wheat belt, insuring a favorable start of the spring wheat crop. Already the harvest is under way in the American Southwest, beginning new competition with the old crop in storage.

Other grains slumped, too, and while wheat closed 2½ to 2⅞@3 cents below Saturday's finish corn finished 2⅛ to 2⅜ cents down, oats ¾ to 1⅞ cents lower and rye 1¼ to 3⅞ cents lower. The close for May and July wheat, 98⅝ and 1.01⅝, respectively, was the low point of the day. May delivery closed at 93 and July delivery at 95 cents in Kansas City at 99¼ and 1.01, respectively, for the two months at Minneapolis and at Winnipeg May wheat closed at 1.10⅝ and July a cent higher.

President Is Scheduled To Place Corner Stone

President Hoover is scheduled to wield the trowel next Monday when the corner stone of the new Department of Commerce Building is laid, according to announcement.

The new Department of Commerce Building has been under construction for the past several months. Its floor area will be larger than that of any other office building in the world.

Former French Premier Dies in Near Poverty

Bordeaux, France, May 27 (A.P.).—Ernest Monis, premier of France for four months in 1911, died today at the age of 83 in straitened circumstances at his home in Chateau Neuf-Sur-Charente.

As premier he had attended the start of an airplane race at Issy-Les-Moulineaux. One of the competitors dashed into the group of officials, killing War Minister Berteaux and breaking Monis' thigh. He tried to conduct the government from his sickbed, but had to abandon the attempt and was succeeded by Joseph Caillaux.

MYSTERY SHOOTING SEEN AS GANG WAR

VICTIM REFUSES TO TALK

Another mysterious Maryland shooting affray, closely resembling the recent gang-war clash in the unsolved Green Gables murder at Suitland, early yesterday morning, sent at least one victim to a hospital with critical wounds suffered at Prince Georges Inn on the Queens Chapel road, just beyond the District line.

William Dietz, 35 years old, of 1915 Sixteenth street northwest, last night lay in Sibley Hospital here with dangerous bullet wounds in his stomach, his groin and his left leg after a rain of lead from the weapons of unrevealed gunmen had sent a merry party of revelers scurrying to shelter. A blood transfusion was performed in an effort to save his life.

Dietz maintained a grim, sullen silence in refusing to name his assailant or assailants and to give any inkling of events leading up to the incident. Close on the heels of the shooting came information to Police Lieut. Arthur W. Hepburn, of Prince Georges County, that a woman had been seen clutching her side in apparent pain on rushing out of the inn a few minutes after the fusillade.

She had not been located by Prince Georges authorities, nor had other members of the party of more than fifteen women and twenty men, who parked at the roadhouse about 2 or 2:30 o'clock. A gaping hole in a window and a splintered door gave mute evidence of the intensity of the shooting that may have wounded others in the crowded hall.

Police are endeavoring to reconstruct the fight from meager details in a statement of Sol Munitz, 23 years old, of 306 Four-and-one-half street southwest, who was jailed at Upper Marlboro on charges of being an accessory

COLONEL AND BRIDE MARRIED SUDDENLY, START HONEYMOON; PLANE MADE READY

Two Startle Friends by Hasty Ceremony as World Wonders on Date; Depart Immediately Afterward for Secret Haven, Believed in Maine.

FAMILIES ARE ONLY CELEBRANTS AT SIMPLE BUT ATTRACTIVE RITE

Wife of Famous Flier Dressed in White Chiffon Gown; His Mother Is Present, as Is Ambassador to Mexico; Bridegroom Telephones Field and Orders Monoplane Prepared.

New York, May 27 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and Anne Morrow were married today at 4 p. m. at a private ceremony in the home of the bride's parents, Ambassador and Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, at Englewood, N. J.

While the world went about its affairs, got acquainted with a little more spring sunshine, and forgot for a moment the cryptic romance of "Lucky Lindy" and the demure young graduate of Smith College, Dr. William Adams Brown, of Union Theological Seminary, united the daughter of an ambassador and the son of a school teacher in holy matrimony. And while newspaper correspondents sat in the Englewood sun and talked of less romantic things, a little group, the family of Miss Morrow, and the mother of the bridegroom, advanced to kiss the bride.

A simple yet attractive ceremony it was, as described tonight. The bride wore a simple chiffon gown, made in the Morrow home by faithful Mary Smith, for years dressmaker for the Morrow family. The bridegroom was in a plain blue serge sack suit. And the usual best man and bridesmaids, the pomp of church weddings, were forgotten in the simplicity of this wedding of a girl and a boy about whom the public has for weeks thrown the fabric of its romancing, the nebulae of its dreams.

Mother Attends Ceremony.

Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh, the mother whose son has become the idol of other mothers' sons in these United States, was at his wedding. The affable man whose private car ground to a stop Sunday in Newark to the accompaniment of hurled questions concerning the date of this quiet ceremony he was to watch the next day; his wife, his daughters, Constance, Elizabeth; Col. and Mrs. J. J. Morrow, and Miss Alice Morrow, who came from Paris for the wedding—they were the celebrants. And not even they would say where the car with Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Lindbergh aboard, had gone on the honeymoon voyage of Anne and her husband. It was rumored that a yacht was waiting to take the colonel and his bride into a few weeks of quiet and privacy. But that was a rumor.

Col. Lindbergh and Miss Morrow obtained their marriage license several days ago from John Manason, at the office of the Englewood Board of Health. Their witnesses were Gen. J. J. Morrow and Miss Elizabeth Morrow.

Reporters Are Surprised.

At all events, the aviator who couldn't give up his penchant for practical jokes even during his epochal reception in France put across a good one today. No sign that anything of moment was happening in the Morrow home warned reporters. It was not until a gentle-voiced secretary told the press that "Mr. and Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow announce the marriage of their daughter, Anne, to Charles A. Lindbergh at Englewood, N. J., May 27, 1929," did any one know that there was a Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh.

A telephone call from Col. Lindbergh received at Roosevelt Field to get his Curtiss Falcon plane ready for him at 8 o'clock tomorrow morning was the only other notice. And, as was suggested, Col. Lindbergh has done that much before.

The much-bruited romance of the masculine half of that celebrated "we" with the daughter of the United States Ambassador to the republic below the Rio Grande began in December, 1926. At that time, the slim young bearer of good will tidings from this country to her southern neighbor was a guest at the American Embassy.

No one did any romanticizing about the flying colonel at the time. The public believed its favorite hero a woman hater and was much too busy talking of good will and the future of airways to link the name of the pilot of the Spirit of St. Louis with the demure young senior at Smith College, who had been little in the public print except for society notes and a few appearances in magazines as a poetess.

Rumor Began in November.

But last November, when the colonel appeared ostensibly for a hunting trip to the country of Calles, and Anne arrived at the embassy at about the same time, there was considerable conjecture about this friendship. This conjecture ripened into belief that Col. Lindbergh might not be completely woman shy when he and Miss Morrow were seen continually together and it was noticed that the aviator's manner was quite removed from his usual detachment toward every one and everything without a wing spread and a fuselage.

When he took off from Valbuena Flying Field last December for Brownsville, Tex., Miss Morrow was at the field. And when Col. Lindbergh kept coming round to the Morrow car to say good-by, the Mexicans began to look forward to a state wedding with the flying colonel and the ambassador's daughter playing the leads.

On February 12 last, a smiling member of America's Diplomatic Corps,

Murder Charged to Three In Dry Killing of Student

First Degree Indictments Returned Against Enforcement Agents by Virginia Grand Jury; Trial Set for Monday by Prosecutor; Shooting Stirred Community.

Abingdon, Va., May 27 (U.P.).—Three law enforcement officers who shot and killed an Emory and Henry College student after an automobile chase three weeks ago today were indicted for first degree murder by a Washington County grand jury.

The shooting, in which J. W. Kendrick, 20, was killed, aroused intense feeling throughout this section.

The officers, J. D. McReynolds, J. W. Worley and James Crowe, are at liberty on $5,000 bond each. Their trial has been set by Commonwealth Attorney Fred C. Parks for next Monday. The case will be heard before County Judge John J. Stuart.

McReynolds is a city policeman while the other two men are county officers. All have been suspended from duty.

Kendrick, with two companions, was driving through Abingdon on the way to his home at Meadow View, seven miles from here, when the officers ordered them to halt about a mile outside the city limits.

The hour was just before midnight. According to statements of Kendricks' companions, Sterling Duton and Paul Phelps, they feared the officers were bandits and drove on.

Their suspicions having been aroused, the officers said, they gave chase. Shots were fired at the tires of the Dwight W. Morrow, welcomed the correspondents of American and local papers in the embassy and handed them succinctly typed slips with the legend, "Ambassador and Mrs. Morrow have announced the engagement of their daughter, Anne Spencer Morrow, to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh." The only questions for the public to settle then were where and when.

And it took some effort and some more conjecture before those two simple questions were answered today in the Englewood home of the Morrows. All the definite information that could be obtained was that it might take place in June. There were stories that North Harbor, Me., the Morrow summer home, with its colonial white nestled amid the firs and pines of a lonely island, was to be the place. Other similarly inadequate guessers said the wedding would take place in the same old Paris that welcomed a young aviator two years ago as he stood beside a white-haired ambassador, the late Myron T. Herrick, and received the bows of a startled populace.

Bride Is 22 Years Old.

When Lindbergh recently hopped off with Anne for that secluded Maine island, the belief that the wedding would take place in Maine became crystallized. It uncrystallized in pretty short order today. In fact, Lindbergh surprised his public more than at any time since that epic day last February when "Augustus" was first publicly tagged to his career and his overturned plane was the goal of ambitious photographers.

Anne Morrow is 22 years old, a studious, diffident young lady with an interest in literature and art. Born in Englewood, N. J., she was educated at the Chapin School, in New York, and at Smith College, where she was graduated with honors last June. A brunette, slender and graceful, she is an excellent linguist. Her linguistic abilities, however, have been concealed from the press of late, for she has joined Col. Lindbergh in keeping the family business pretty much her own.

(Associated Press.)

Ambassador Tellez of Mexico last night wired to Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh as follows:

"An indiscreet friend from the press has just transmitted to me the happy event of your wedlock. Permit me to express to you my deep, heartfelt congratulations and to assure you, without any modesty, that in that expression I am certain to interpret the sentiment of the people it is my pride to represent here. May the blessings of God be always with you."

Arthur M. Gray, 9 years old, of 300 Cameron street, Alexandria, Va., was drowned yesterday afternoon while swimming in the Potomac River near his home.

A number of companions of the boy were standing on the bank when he sank for the first time. They immediately started in search of help, rushing to the police station several blocks away. In the meantime, Robert Lee, of 205 Cameron street, learned of the boy's plight, and plunged into the water, recovering the body shortly after it had gone down for the third time.

Dr. Lewis Schaefer, city health officer, and Dr. P. Marshall Jones, city coroner, worked for an hour to revive the boy, but without success. The body was removed to Demaine's undertaking establishment. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

EMBASSY NOT TOLD OF MORROW PLANS

CALLES ALSO IN DARK

Mexico City, May 27 (A.P.).—The United States Embassy's first knowledge of the wedding of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and Miss Anne S. Morrow was furnished by the local bureau of the Associated Press. The personnel seemed much surprised that the event already had taken place and declared that they had been in entire ignorance of the date and place selected, although the romance had its inception here and the engagement was announced from Mexico City.

Many other friends of the couple in Mexico had not learned of the marriage and were expecting it to take place in mid-June.

At almost the exact hour of the wedding former President Plutarco Elias Calles was denying press reports that he would be a witness at it. He apparently was not aware that it then was taking place, but assured reporters that both the aviator and his bride "are persons of my highest estimation."

Bride Popular in Mexico.

Miss Morrow had become extremely popular among both Mexicans and Americans of the capital during her long periods of residence at the embassy. Col. Lindbergh has been popular in the country ever since his goodwill flight from Washington to Mexico City in December, 1927.

When the engagement was first announced, their many friends here, including government officials, had hoped that the wedding would be held in Mexico, but it was understood that the aviator preferred to be in his native land.

President and Mrs. Emilio Portes Gil recently purchased a painting, "Mexican Flowers," by Alfredo Ramos Martinez, director of the Mexican School of Arts, as a wedding present.

The brevity of the marriage announcement recalled that the engagement was announced here by Ambassador Morrow on February 12 in equally simple manner. The Ambassador called newspaper correspondents to his study and handed each a 30-word typewritten announcement, declining to amplify the bare statement of facts.

Colonel Arrives Soon After.

The colonel arrived here unheralded within a fortnight after the announcement. It was during this ten days' visit that he and his fiancee suffered a mishap at the conclusion of a picnic flight. Loss of a landing wheel caused the plane to overturn, breaking some parts on landing, but the thoughtfulness and skill of the pilot enabled Miss Morrow to escape unhurt. Lindbergh injured his shoulder but made quick recovery.

The day after the accident he gave Anne a taste of "army medicine" when, while able to use only one arm, he took her up in a borrowed plane several times to remove any fears of flying that the mishap might have engendered. Since then they have flown together several times.

LINDBERGH ROMANCE LONG LEFT IN DOUBT

WON HIS BRIDE IN MEXICO

New York, May 27 (A.P.).—A quiet young man who "isn't a bit sentimental and doesn't care for girls" spent Christmas of 1927 as the guest of Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow in Mexico.

The fact that his flight to Paris the preceding May had idolized him in the hearts of feminine America had served only, perhaps, to make him all the more retiring—even to the point of bashfulness. But in the seclusion of the ambassador's home, near the capital of a nation whose traditional adjective is "romantic," he found refuge from the plaudits of the world and became again, even if temporarily, a private citizen. In this setting he met the diplomat's 22-year-old daughter, Anne, pretty and brunette, who had been graduated from Smith College the preceding June.

Charles A. Lindbergh, whose paramount interest is aviation and who dislikes to talk about anything else, found that she, too, was intensely interested in flying.

Soon the colonel was taking her for short flights. He returned to the Morrow home whenever possible, and they went for strolls or drives together through the picturesque country.

Rumors of a romance for the calm young colonel began to float about. At first they were undecided whether to attach to Anne or her elder sister, Elizabeth.

Along in November the odds began to lean toward Elizabeth, whom Lindbergh had met at the same time he met Anne, and who, it was pointed out, was the more sober of the two and hence more the colonel's "type."

But in Mexico City they still thought Anne would be the future Mrs. Lindbergh, despite all denials. When Lindbergh took off from Valbuena Field last November for the United States, he gave Anne a beautiful—and daring—aerial salute. She was at the field with her family, and Lindbergh, after climbing to a little height, circled and dipped low over her head.

Some three months later Ambassador Morrow, who previously had reminded inquiring newspaper men that the matter was, after all, rather personal, announced the engagement.

Former President Plutarco Elias Calles, a friend of the young couple, was delighted to learn the news. His daughter Ernestina (Mrs. Thomas Arnold Robinson), who had been one of the first to suspect the romance, merely remarked, "I told you so."

Ginger Ale Blast Blinds Man's Eye

Obie H. Smith, 27 years old, 1120 Twentieth street northwest, an employe of the Conoy Spring Water Co., Brentwood, Md., was seriously injured and lost the sight of one eye, early last night when a bottle of ginger ale exploded in his hands at the factory as he was bottling.

Smith was placed in his own automobile to be brought to a Washington hospital. The automobile reached Rock Creek Church road and Park place northwest, where it broke down. He was taken on to Garfield Hospital in the patrol car of the Tenth Precinct and was treated there by Dr. Thomas Kelly for the cuts about his arm, face and eyes.

Later Smith was removed to the Episcopal Eye, Ear and Throat Hospital, where physicians made an unsuccessful effort to save the sight of his eye.

Take-Off at Eight Today Is Planned by Lindbergh

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., May 27 (A.P.)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh has ordered his Blue Falcon plane serviced for a take-off tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock, or possibly earlier.

Although the colonel had given orders this morning that his plane be serviced, the fact did not become known until tonight, after announcement had been made in Englewood, N. J., that Lindberg and Miss Anne Morrow had been married at her home there.

Officials at the field said that the plane was serviced during the day and tonight was ready for a flight. Beyond confirmation of reports that the colonel planned a take-off nothing further was divulged.

BRIDE CHOOSES DATE ON SUDDEN DECISION

Telegram of Ambassador to Sister Says Time Was Set Sunday Night.

ANNOYED BY PUBLICITY

Meadville, Pa., May 27 (A.P.).—Mrs. Edwin L. McIlvaine, sister of Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow, said the decision of Anne Morrow and Col. Charles A. Lindbergh to wed today was reached only last night.

A telegram from Ambassador Morrow to his sister here, said:

"Anne and Charles married very quietly this afternoon. Betty and I regret your absence, but there seemed no other way after the sudden decision last night. DWIGHT MORROW."

Dr. and Mrs. McIlvaine had planned to attend the wedding.

Mrs. McIlvaine telephoned the Morrow family at Englewood, N. J., today and was informed that the wedding was advanced at the request of Miss Morrow, because she was annoyed by the publicity and the insistence of reporters and curiosity seekers for information.

Police Hunt for Man In Assault on Women

A lookout was broadcast last night to all police precincts for a light colored man who is wanted in connection with an assault on two white women earlier in the night west of the reservoir, near Columbia road. The man was frightened away by the older of the women after he had seized the younger.

In broadcasting the lookout, the Eighth Precinct reported that last Saturday night a War Department worker named Brawnson told police that he had noticed a light colored man accosting women in the neighborhood of the reservoir.

SECRETARY ADAMS RAPS G. O. P. REBELS

SAYS CABINET IS LOYAL

Boston, May 27 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Charles Francis Adams, Secretary of the Navy, sharply criticized the Republican insurgent group in Congress in his first public address since assuming office, delivered at a dinner and reception in his honor under the auspices of the Republican Club of Massachusetts here tonight.

Excoriating the dozen insurgent Republicans in the Senate as obstructors of legislation, Secretary Adams gave his view of Washington as a government with a "very brilliant administrative side and a legislative side that is very foggy."

"How can we expect to get orderly government where there is no political order. There are perhaps twelve men in the Senate called Republicans who owe allegiance to no party.

Can't Blame Hoover.

"You can't call them Republicans because they are only responsible to certain forces in their own States, a fact that was shown in the recent agricultural bill, where the insurgents joined forces with the Democrats.

"What is to be done? You can not blame the President. If he had nine lives he wouldn't have time enough to change the situation.

"In the House there is a different situation. Washington feels very cordially toward Nicholas Longworth for the great job he has done in organizing the House. He is a great personality."

Pays Tribute to Hoover.

Citing the tariff bill, the speaker said it was an example of a measure put through the House only to "be torn to shreds in the Senate and finally turned into a bill that will muster votes by an obscure conference committee."

"Through all this fog," he continued, "the great figure of Hoover emerges. He is well informed, has straight judgment, great vision and is willing to bend every effort to solve problems."

Hoover will have loyal support in the Cabinet, the Secretary predicted from a "group who will handle Government affairs admirably and honestly."

LACK OF FUEL ENDS ENDURANCE FLIGHT

Minneapolis Fliers Forced Down After Being in Air 52 Hours.

NARROWLY AVOID CRASH

Minneapolis, May 27 (A.P.).—Lack of fuel ended the attempt today for Gene Shank and Owen Haugland, commercial pilots, to set a new endurance flight mark for a single motored airplane when their craft was forced down after 52 hours in the air.

Shank and Haugland took off at Wichita, Kans., Saturday morning and flew to Minneapolis yesterday, expecting to circle over this city several days before returning South. Failure of their refueling ship to replenish their gasoline supply in time ended their plans.

Low visibility and "bumpy" air contributed to the end of the flight and also nearly caused a crash just before the monoplane was forced down today. One refueling contact was made this morning, but on the second attempt the endurance ship went into a dive at the tail of the plane.

Land in Pasture.

Shank, at the controls, pulled the ship to safety when only about 100 feet from the ground. Subsequent attempts at contact with the refueling craft failed, and Shank and Haugland landed in a farmer's pasture, after their gasoline supply was exhausted.

"It was just tough luck," Shank said. Whether the fliers would make another try for the record was not learned. They were taken immediately to their homes for rest.

Their plane was christened Miss Ranger before the take-off at Wichita, but it was announced today that it had been renamed Miss Minnesota after arriving over this city.

Fort Worth, Tex., May 27 (A.P.).—Reg L. Robbins and James Kelly today began to reap some of the rewards in store for them as the new holders of the world's endurance flight record.

Rested by a long sleep after completing 172 hours 32 minutes 1 second of continuous flight in their single-motored monoplane Fort Worth, the airmen awoke today to find presents and lucrative offers pouring in on them.

Feat Brings Offers.

The acclaim and bids for their services were in sharp contrast with the little aid the former railroad mechanic and the erstwhile cow puncher received in preparing for the endurance test.

Scores of offers for vaudeville engagements, newspaper and magazine articles on the flight and various positions with aircraft concerns were received.

Robbins and Kelly had not decided which course to follow, but friends expressed the belief that they would go on an aerial "barnstorming tour."

A representative of the Mahoney-Ryan Aircraft Corporation of St. Louis arrived with word that a new Ryan plane with a Wright whirlwind motor would be presented to the fliers in recognition of their record-smashing cruise in the Fort Worth, a rebuilt Ryan plane.

Robbins and Kelly will receive $5,500 each from the Fort Worth Association of Commerce and $5,000 will be divided between K. K. Hoffman and H. S. Jones, who refueled the endurance ship during its flight of more than seven days, which ended Sunday afternoon.

Approximately $2,000 will be paid to Robbins and Kelly by aircraft companies which offered the men $100 an hour for each hour they exceeded the former record of 150 hours 40 minutes 15 seconds, set by the Army monoplane Question Mark.

Barograph Sent to Washington.

The barograph of the Fort Worth was on its way to Washington today, where it will be examined before official recognition will be accorded the new record.

Black with oil and mud, but still in remarkably good condition, considering the long hours it was in the air, the Fort Worth rested today in the municipal hangar guarded from souvenir hunters. The ship probably will be reconditioned for further use.

Mechanics said the plane and the Wright whirlwind motor were in such shape that the flight could have been continued many hours longer had it not been for the severe vibrations caused by the unbalanced propeller.

The propeller, dented on the second day of the flight when it struck Kelly's safety belt while he was perched under the nose of the plane greasing the motor, developed a deep crack from the beating rain through which the ship flew Saturday night. The rain also pitted the blades.

Loosened cowling on both sides of the fuselage showed the strain under which the plane had labored after the propeller was damaged. A few rips in the aluminum stream lining of the wing struts were the only other marks the plane bore.

Skill of Two Pilots Saves Life of Parachute Jumper

Man Dangling From Plane's Wing Is Lowered Rope and Aerial Acrobatics Put Him in Position Where He Climbs to Safety.

Mobile, Ala., May 27 (A.P.).—Harold Williams, who set out yesterday to become a parachute jumper, today had given up the career after relating a thrilling experience which would have been fatal but for the skill and presence of mind of his pilot and the pilot of another plane.

Williams attempted to jump from a plane piloted by W. A. McDonald, a Mobile aviator, but his parachute became fouled in the lower wing. As he hung from the plane, the youth tried to pull himself back, but to no avail. McDonald saw that a landing would mean that the youth would be dashed to his death.

Another pilot, Duke Ressler, flying nearby, saw the youth's predicament. He returned to the airport and loaded a 200-foot rope. Taking the air again he maneuvered to a position above McDonald and dropped the rope to him.

McDonald paid the rope out, Williams tying it about his body. McDonald then banked the plane from the side and pointed the nose of his ship upward, throwing Williams into a position where he could grab the tail skid.

McDonald made a perfect landing and the only injury Williams suffered was a bruised shoulder, received when he was dragged along the ground in landing.

FLIERS AT BOLLING EN ROUTE TO PERU

HOP FOR SOUTH THURSDAY

Capt. Carlos M. Pinillos and Lieut. Carlos Zegarra, Peruvian aviators, landed at Bolling Field at 3:05 yesterday afternoon on the first leg of a good-will flight which will take them through all the capitals of Central America, to Lima, Peru. Capt. Pinillos said last night that they expected to leave Washington early Thursday morning, their next stop being New Orleans.

From New Orleans, he said, they would take a leisurely course to Mexico City and from there through Central America to the Peruvian capital. They are flying the green and orange Bellanca monoplane in which they recently failed to make a nonstop flight from Lima to the United States.

They were met at Bolling Field by Hernan Velarde, Ambassador of Peru, and Senor J. Alvarez de Buenavista, first secretary of the embassy. Their fellow countrymen escorted them to the embassy, where they will be during their brief stay here.

When their flight was announced several weeks ago, it was made clear that Pinillos and Zegarra would attempt to establish no new records or to accomplish any spectacular flight. Their trip, it was indicated, was purely a sporting one.

New York-Albany Plane Route Opens Tomorrow

New York, May 27 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The Coastal Airways, Inc., will start its daily New York and Albany seaplane service tomorrow. The first plane will leave the New York air terminals seaplane base at North Beach, Flushing, Queens, at 10:30 a. m. and is scheduled to arrive in Albany at 11:45 a. m. The return trip will be made in the afternoon, the plane leaving Albany at 3 p. m. and arriving at North Beach at 4:15 p. m.

Clifford E. McMillan will pilot the first of the planes, which are Fairchild cabin monoplanes equipped with pontoons and carrying six passengers and the pilot. Passengers are being carried to North Beach from Forty-second street and East River in speedboats operated by the New York Air Terminals.

Mallon Mum on Vote Leak; Senate Sure to End Secrecy

(United Press.)

Victory for publicity of Senate executive sessions was virtually assured by the climax yesterday in the Mallon case.

Former foes of open executive sessions in the Senate rules committee failed to pry from Paul R. Mallon, chief of the Capitol staff of the United Press, his source of information for the Lenroot roll call, and then admitted that the ancient secrecy rule must be abandoned.

Failing to get Mallon to reveal his source, the committee decided at an executive session later to act, and to act promptly.

Five minutes after members streamed away from the tiny council room, where they had quizzed Mallon in vain, and subsequently held their executive session, the committee chairman, Senator George Moses (Republican), New Hampshire, stood up at his place in the Senate and asked, by unanimous consent, that all proposals for publicity be referred to his committee, where he promised quick action. He announced the committee would meet and begin work today.

Advocates of publicity are in the majority in the Senate. Some of them feared the coming Senate recess might prevent early action and got from Moses an amendment to his unanimous consent agreement requiring a report to the Senate by next Tuesday. The agreement then was adopted.

The New Hampshire senator, long a foe of open executive sessions, revealed how significant he considers the whole procedure by telling the Senate it would "pass into history as the Mallon case."

The procedure yesterday was not an "investigation." At the very outset Senator Smoot (Republican), Utah, challenged the authority of the committee to investigate the matter without an order from the Senate. Moses then announced that the committee would stand adjourned, to meet again today.

Senators Harrison, Mississippi; Swanson, Virginia, and McKellar, Tennessee, Democrats, advocates of publicity, objected, pointing out that Mallon had been called and should be questioned. Moses put the question to a vote and was overruled. For 45 minutes members quizzed Mallon, their inquiries ranging from those attempting to reveal his source to theoretical questions revolving about newspaper "ethics."

Resignedly, Moses announced to the Senate afterward:

"I think all members at the meeting of the rules committee will agree that the inquiry was fruitless."

"It was the plain consensus at the executive meeting of the committee," he added, "that one of two results will flow from this matter: that press representatives will be barred from the floor of the Senate, which has already taken place, or that an amendment to the rules will be adopted, and I am instructed by the committee to ask that all pending resolutions for amendment of the rules relating to secrecy at executive sessions be referred to the rules committee."

Proposals for Changes Varied.

Proposed rules amendments range from those providing publicity of roll calls and debate to complete publicity.

The belief is general that a modification of rules is certain. Senator Jones, Washington, Republican whip, author of a publicity resolution, served notice on the Senate yesterday he would press vigorously for action. Moses likewise promised action.

The Mallon case, which started it all, has been dropped as the result of yesterday's futile committee session.

The hearing yesterday was the center of interest at the Capitol, but a large crowd which had gathered early was unable to get in to watch the proceedings because the inquiry was held in the small council room of the rules committee. There was hardly enough room for the large number of newspaper correspondents who gathered to write the story.

"Public" Present Limited.

The "public" present was confined to three women, Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth, Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, and Mrs. Frank West, of Los Angeles, two United Press officials, Karl A. Bickel, president of the association, and Robert J. Bender, vice president and general news manager, and Paul Patterson, of counsel for the United Press, and a few committee and Senate officials. Mrs. Longworth rarely misses a senatorial investigation. She sat chatting with Mr. Bickel before the meeting began.

When Mallon appeared in the committee room for the meeting, he was greeted with applause from the group of newspaper correspondents. The United Press reporter, who is 28 years old, is known to every senator. The roll call on the Lenroot case was the second he had secured, the other being on the confirmation of Roy O. West to be Secretary of the Interior.

Chairman Moses called the committee to order and Mallon took his place in the witness seat at one end of the table.

Reporter Reads Statement.

He asked permission first to read the following statement:

"I am advised by counsel that I am not obliged to appear before, be sworn by or testify to this committee on the ground that this committee has not authority to subpoena me before it or require me to answer any question.

"The United Press, to which I am directly responsible, believes the public welfare can best be served by making all news quickly and easily available when it is in the public interest to do so. Therefore and notwithstanding any lack of authority of this committee I am here to answer questions if I can do so without violating any confidence which I may consider has been reposed in me either directly or by custom of the press.

"I am authorized to state that the United Press desires to aid in this and any other investigations by the committee in consonance with its duties to the public, but neither the United Press nor I conceive it to be my duty to reveal any confidential communications made to me.

"This statement is given with all possible deference to this committee and each of its members and I am ready to answer questions within the limit which I have just stated."

Mallon then was sworn.

Committee's Authority Questioned.

Smoot raised the question of the committee's authority, saying he did not believe the committee had power to proceed, but must first get authority from the Senate. He pointed out that it was necessary to get Senate sanction in such cases as the Teapot Dome investigation and others.

Moses then adjourned the committee, only to be overruled by protests from Democrats, and the inquiry proceeded informally.

Mallon was asked if he was the author of "an article that appeared in The Washington Post on Tuesday, May 21, 1929, and on the first page of that paper, entitled 'Roll Call of Senate on Lenroot Revealed,'". He replied in the affirmative. He was then asked to reveal the source of the information on which the article was based. He declined.

POCKET VETO LEGAL, HIGH COURT RULING

(Associated Press.)

The validity of pocket vetoes by the President was upheld in a unanimous decision handed down yesterday by the Supreme Court, regardless of whether the legislation in question was sent to the White House in the closing days of a session which was not the final session of a Congress.

The court, in an opinion summarized by Justice Sanford, construed the word "adjournment" in the constitutional provision relating to vetoes as meaning the end of any congressional session as well as of a Congress. It held that Congress, before ending a session, must give the President the ten days granted him by the Constitution to act on bills passed or else assume responsibility for the failure of those on which he does not act.

The case in which the decision was rendered involved the Okanogan and other Indian tribes in Washington, which had failed in an effort to have the Court of Claims hold that a pocket veto had not killed a bill relating to claims held by them.

Added importance had been attached to it, however, in view of other legislation which had been accorded pocket vetoes, including the Norris resolution for Government operation of the Muscle Shoals project in Alabama.

Yesterday's ruling was contrary to the views of the House judiciary committee, which was heard in the oral argument through Representative Summers, of Texas, one of its members. Senator Norris, chairman of the Senate judiciary committee, and a number of other congressmen took the view that the Constitution only killed those bills on which the President had failed to act at the close of the last session of each Congress, and had no effect on bills in the hands of the President when other sessions ended.

For many years it has been the practice of Presidents, supported by the opinions of their Attorneys General, to treat as dead the bills in their hands remaining unacted upon at the close of each session of Congress.

Justice Sanford, in the opinion, reviewed historically the controversy over pocket vetoes and emphasized the failure during a long period of years of any one to test in the courts the validity of the construction by various Presidents. He concluded that Congress had acquiesced in the practice.

He pointed out that the constitutional provision was specific which required the President to return measures to Congress with his reasons for disapproving them, and declared that when Congress, by ending a session, refused to allow him the ten days provided in the Constitution for him to consider and act on all bills, it had sealed the fate of those upon which he had not acted when the hour of adjournment arrived.

Congress could not say to the President that he could proceed to take the full ten days, he continued, and then notify some officer of the House or Senate of his veto of a bill after Congress had ended the session, because his veto could only be sent, the opinion stated, to one of the two Houses while it was in session.

Friends of Government operation of the Muscle Shoals plant had insisted that the failure of former President Coolidge formally to veto the bill had the effect of making it law without his signature.

Mr. Coolidge received the bill in the closing days of a first session, less than ten days prior to its adjournment, and giving the customary construction to the provision of the Constitution "unless the Congress, by their adjournment, prevent its return" to mean an adjournment at the end of any session, took no action whatever on it. The decision yesterday sustained that construction by holding that the word "adjournment" used in the Constitution meant the adjournment at the end of any session of Congress.

MRS. SCHWIMMER'S BARRING IS UPHELD

ARMS BEARING QUESTION

(Associated Press).

Declaring "whatever tends to lessen the willingness of citizens to discharge their duty to bear arms in the country's defense detracts from the strength and safety of the Government," the Supreme Court yesterday reversed two lower courts and denied citizenship to Rosika Schwimmer, of Chicago.

Mrs. Schwimmer, a linguist, author and lecturer, was born in Hungary in 1877 and came to America in 1921. In her petition for naturalization, answering the question, "if necessary are you willing to take up arms in defense of this country," she said, "I would not take up arms personally."

The court, speaking through Justice Butler, with Justices Holmes, Brandeis and Sanford dissenting, declared, "the duty of citizens by force of arms to defend our Government against all enemies, whenever necessity arises is a fundamental principle of the Constitution.

Duty Shirking Is Seen.

"Their opinions and beliefs as well as their behavior indicating a disposition to hinder in the performance of that duty, are subjects of inquiry under the statutory provisions governing naturalization and are of vital importance, for if all or a large number of citizens oppose such defense the 'good and happiness' of the United States can not long endure."

Justice Holmes, with Justice Brandeis concurring in his view, observed Mrs. Schwimmer "seems to be a woman of superior character and intelligence, obviously more than ordinarily desirable as a citizen of the United States."

Holmes Agrees With Woman.

Noting Mrs. Schwimmer believes the Constitution might be improved, Justice Holmes said:

"I suppose that most intelligent people think that it might be.

"Her particular improvement looking to the abolition of war seems to me not materially different in its bearing on this case from a wish to establish cabinet government in England, or a single house or one term of seven years for the President. To touch a more burning question, only a judge mad with partisanship would exclude because the applicant thought that the eighteenth amendment should be repealed.

"Recurring to the opinion that bars this applicant's way, I would suggest that the Quakers have done their share to make the country what it is, that many citizens agree with the applicant's belief and that I had not supposed hitherto that we regretted our inability to expel them because they believe more than some of us do in the teaching of the Sermon on the Mount."

COURT BACKS SENATE ON ARRESTING RIGHTS

Supreme Body Upholds Writ to Seize Cunningham on Contempt Charge.

DEFIANT IN SLUSH QUIZ

In a unanimous opinion yesterday the Supreme Court further buttressed the Senate's inquisitorial powers by holding that the Senate was within its rights in issuing a writ of arrest for Thomas W. Cunningham, of Philadelphia, after he twice defied the Senate slush fund investigation by refusing to tell where he got the $50,000 he contributed to William S. Vare's senatorial primary campaign in 1926.

As a result, Cunningham, an $8,000 a year court clerk, long a lieutenant of the Vare machine in Philadelphia, must surrender to the sergeant at arms of the Senate, and, if he continues to refuse to answer, he will be subject to indictment and prosecution for contempt, like Harry F. Sinclair, the oil magnate, now serving his 90-day term in the local jail for this offense, and, like Col. Robert W. Stewart, former chairman of the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, whom a jury acquitted of this charge.

Cunningham was indicted once, but the Circuit Court of Appeals quashed the indictment. The Senate probably will give him a third chance to tell the source of the $50,000 before proceeding toward a new indictment.

In passing, the court refuted the contention of Vare's supporters that in refusing to seat him, the Senate deprived Pennsylvania of its constitutional representation.

Court Bars State Tax On Exempt Securities

(Associated Press.)

The Supreme Court also decided yesterday that States were prohibited from requiring corporations and others who pay annual excise or franchise taxes for the privilege of doing business to include in their net income, as a measure of the tax, interest received from Government, State and municipal tax exempt securities. The MacAllen Co. of Massachusetts brought the case which resulted in a decision declaring that interest from such securities was exempt from all taxation, and could not be used as part of a measure for a privilege tax.

The court consented to review a case considered of great importance by the railroads of the country. The controversy involves the rule to be applied in determining their liability for shipments lost in transit.

Railroad Asks Loss Rule.

The Illinois Central had asked the highest tribunal to decide the amount of its liability for coal belonging to the P. McCoy Fuel Co., lost while being shipped from Royalton, Ill., to Minneapolis, and the request will be granted. The Pennsylvania and a large number of railroads joined in asking the court to pass on the subject, declaring it of great importance to have a definite rule laid down for the settlement of such claims.

The court refused, however, to pass on the question asked by the Court of Claims whether municipalities could be required to pay sales taxes on automobiles and motorcycles purchased for their official use.

The court held the Court of Claims must decide for itself, because to answer the question would decide the case.

The question reached the Supreme Court from the Court of Claims where the Indian Motorcycle Co. of Springfield, Mass., contended the Government should refund taxes it had been required to pay on motorcycles sold to Westfield, Mass., although the municipality had paid the tax and was not seeking to recover it, the motorcycle company insisted that the Federal Government had no right to impose a tax on merchandise purchased by a municipality for its official use.

The controversy will ultimately reach the highest tribunal after the lower court acts.

CRIME COMMISSION MEETS HERE TODAY

Law Enforcement Groups to Lunch With Hoover and Then Organize.

(Associated Press.)

Members of President Hoover's law enforcement commission were gathering here last night for the first and organization meeting to be held today in the Cabinet Room at the Executive Offices.

George W. Wickersham, chairman of the commission, who has been a guest at the White House since Sunday, will preside, and the expectation is that each of the other ten members will be present for the first discussion of procedure during the afternoon.

The President will have the ten men and one woman as luncheon guests at the White House, and is expected to meet with them later in the Cabinet Chamber to express his views as to the scope of the work that is to be undertaken.

Faces Gigantic Task.

Mr. Hoover has said he regards the problem of lawlessness in the United States as the foremost problem before his administration. Among his ideas of how it is to be met is one for reorganization of the judicial and law enforcement machinery, a gigantic task within itself and one which will require months of investigation and study.

This particular phase of the commission's work is likely to be submerged in the popular interest, at least, by the inquiry which will be made in prohibition law enforcement and the recommendations which the commission is expected to make as a result of its study of this highly controversial question.

Has Ample Funds for Quiz.

The order in which the law enforcement group will go about its work is one of the important subjects for decision at the initial meeting, but the general assumption is that the inquiry phases of the more important causes of lawlessness will be discussed first.

Headquarters probably will be established in Washington, with public hearings held both in the Capital and in the more populous centers of the country where difficulties in law enforcement are most apparent.

The commission has ample funds for putting its work under way, and, while it is without legal authority to compel the attendance of witnesses and the production of documents, administration officers anticipate little difficulty in that respect.

Labor Group Advocates Immigration Restriction

(Associated Press.)

The executive council of the American Federation of Labor, closing its meeting yesterday, declared in favor of greater restriction of immigration.

The campaign for relief of the Southern textile workers was left in the hands of President William Green, of the National Federation, with instruction to take such action as the conditions demand. This action was taken after hearings into the situation had been held. The executive was also directed to oppose any conscription bill that provides for drafting workers in industry.

Aged Man Is Injured As Auto Strikes Him

Achille Burkin, 70 years old, 4627 Georgia avenue northwest, was injured yesterday afternoon when he was knocked down by an automobile at Florida avenue and Eckington place northeast, where, according to police, he was walking in the middle of the street.

Burkin was taken to Sibley Hospital and treated there for shock and for brush burns. The operator of the automobile was said by police to have been David Hurzmark, 2927 Tilden street northwest.

Fire at School Proves Gas Range Pilot Light

Fire alarm headquarters sent No. 8 Engine Company and No. 10 Truck Company and Fire Rescue Squad No. 2 into the Wheatley School, Montello avenue and Neal streets northeast, last night, when a passing man noticed a small flame in the basement of the schoolhouse and telephoned to the headquarters.

The flame, the firemen discovered, was a pilot light on the self-lighting gas range in the school kitchen.

Stepin Fetchit, Fox Star, Is A. W. O. L. and "Broke"

By NELSON B. BELL.

Despite their fabulous salaries, motion picture actors, it seems, sometimes go broke.

This was forcefully borne in upon C. F. Winchester, manager of the Fox Theater, during his dinner hour last evening, when he was apprised by telephone that one of Mr. Fox's prominent screen stars was at the theater in desperate need of funds and would not take no for an answer. Upon pressing for the name of the thespiah thus left destitute, he was informed that it was none other than Mr. Stepin Fechit, the slothful Ethiopian who has made laziness an art.

Somewhat skeptical, Mr. Winchester hastened to his playhouse, elbowed his way through the crowd entering to see the "Fox Movietone Follies" and in his office, sure enough, discovered a disconsolate young man of dusky hue intent upon apprehending the monetary equivalent of a personal check drawn in the sum of $20. He did not look like the Stepin Fechit of the screen to Mr. Winchester, so the gentlemen of the press were called in consultation.

This is how I happened to be back stage at the Fox last night at precisely 9:45 o'clock to view "Swifty" do in an unexpected and unheralded personal appearance much of what he does in his own individual scene in the "Movietone Follies." The 3,400 others seated out front gave "Gummy" a reception and a parting hand that made him an easy victim for a brief interview when he came off. So did the Foxettes, the Jazzmanians, the stage hands, the electricians, a ringer who followed me in from the alley and Mr. Fisher, the master of ceremonies.

This Stepin Fetchit fellow, whose right name I understand to be Lincoln Theodore Peary Moore—or something like that—is quite a chap. Twenty-four years of age, he holds what he deems the best contract with Fox any colored actor ever has received from the movies. It runs for five years, with six-month optional clauses that make salary readjustments events of semi-annual occurrence. The present stipend, I believe, is $750 per week. The Cadillac in which Mr. Stepin Fetchit steps and fetches it looks as if that sum might be approximately correct.

Stepin was born in Florida and reared and educated in Alabama, where his first stage experience was gained with a traveling medicine show operated and controlled by a gentleman whom Mr. Fetchit describes as "jes' a dog-gone faker." From this he progressed to a carnival company, thence to a circus, finally into vaudeville and at last to the Fox lot on the Coast where modest conduct, dancing feet and a bent for comedy soon won him recognition. When he returns to the West Coast in August, he is to appear as the stellar figure in an all-talking, singing and dancing picture based on the picturesque story of his own life.

Strangely enough, Stepin Fetchit is intensely religious and last night confided to me that his story had been conceived and worked out upon the text of "Seek ye first the kingdom of God and all things shall be added unto you." It is his firm belief that his life has proved the truth of this promise of the Scriptures.

He happened last night to be in the Capital for a while because he is engaged on location with a John Ford unit at Annapolis on a new all-talking picture being made under the working title of "Salute." He had his part of many sides in his pocket as evidence of the reliability of his statement, and admitted frankly enough that he was A. W. O. L., and would have his ears cut off if any one in authority on the Fox lot ever found it out.

Stepin has just completed his first visit to New York and the Harlem of which he has heard so much, but never before investigated. He thinks it is quite a place.

From having seen him on the screen, you would hardly recognize Mr. Fetchit upon the street or in his car. He is not as tall as you would suppose him to be, nor so dumb. Having expressed my doubt of his mental alacrity in print after having been profoundly impressed by the superb indolence of his performance in "Hearts in Dixie," I was proportionately astonished last evening to discover that the ebony hoofer is not a dud.

He has saved his money, moved his father from the East to the gilded precincts of southern California and now contemplates early marriage to a young woman who has not as yet wholly reconciled her own religious inclinations with his deep-rooted churchly convictions. He pointed out with some pride that his fingers are not loaded down with diamonds of large caliber and that his habiliments are not fashioned after the pattern of Joseph's coat, both of which facts I had already noted.

After he bowed to the audience for the last time and was about to depart from the theater into the night, I inquired if his plan might be to return at once to Annapolis.

"Man, no suh. I gotta be on that ole location first thing in the mawnin' but tonight I got $20 an' I gotta see to me recreation. Understan' what I mean?"

Pretty smart chap, if you ask me, and that drawling dialect of the far South is assumed for professional purposes or comic effect only. He speaks as well as you or I, off stage.

B. and O. President Upholds Purchase

I. C. C. Is Told Move for Rail Combine Was Economy Move.

(Associated Press.)

Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, testified yesterday before the Interstate Commerce Commission that his company purchased stock in the Western Maryland Railroad because he thought it would be more economical if the two lines were operated together.

He appeared as a witness in the anti-trust complaint case brought by the commission against the B. & O. on the grounds that the stock was acquired without the commission's approval and in violation of the Clayton antitrust act. Willard denied that the stock was bought to lessen competition between the Western Maryland and the B. & O.

Tip Leads to Arrest Of Liquor Car Driver

Richard J. Higgins, 32 years old, of the London Hall Apartments, was charged with transportation and possession of liquor yesterday after police arrested him in his automobile near Chain Bridge.

Policemen G. W. Shenault and M. I. Bridges, who made the arrest, reported that they found nine bottles of cognac, thirteen bottles of Johnny Walker and Lone John Scotch, and sixteen bottles of imported gin in the car. The policemen said they arrested Higgins on a tip over the telephone from an unidentified woman.

MORE TARIFF ITEMS INCREASED IN HOUSE

(Associated Press.)

In an atmosphere electrified with charges of "trading," partisan debate and resurrected campaign arguments, the House approved another score of committee amendments to the tariff bill yesterday and paved the way for a final vote late today.

The session, lasting more than six hours, was the stormiest of any since the Republican-framed measure was taken up three weeks ago, and out of it emerged an amendment, approved by a vote of 195 to 90, placing a duty of 10 per cent on hides, rates ranging from 12½ to 30 per cent on leather, and a levy of 20 per cent on boots and shoes.

All of these commodities have been on the free list for years and were retained in that category in the present bill as first reported. Urgent demands for duties, however, led to reconsideration and the committee acceded to the demands of members from the cattle raising and New York and New England shoe manufacturing States.

Twenty Per Cent Motion Fails.

An attempt by Representative Hudspeth (Democrat), Texas, to make the hide duty 20 per cent was rejected by a vote of 190 to 58.

Of the other amendments approved the ways and means committee was victorious in every instance and not one change was effected by any member outside the committee group.

The most important amendments adopted besides the hide, leather and shoe proposals would provide an increase in the duty on flaxseed from 56 to 63 cents a bushel; a rate of $10 a ton on broom corn, rice straw and fiber, now on the free list; an increase of 40 cents a pound in the rates of $2.10 on unstemmed and $2.75 on stemmed wrapper tobacco and a boost of one-quarter of a cent in the bill rate of 1¾ cents a pound on onions.

A dozen or more amendments remain to be acted upon today before all are voted on en bloc just prior to a final vote.

Garner Will Seek Changes.

A motion to recommit the measure will be made before the vote on passage is taken. Representative Garner, of Texas, the Democratic leader, will offer the motion to send the measure back to the ways and means committee with instructions to amend it in three important particulars.

He will seek to abolish the present tariff commission, to repeal the flexible provisions authorizing the President to change import duties, and to provide for a fact-finding board of four members to be appointed by the Speaker of the House and Vice President and made solely responsible to Congress.

He would restore the power which the bill takes away from the customs courts and gives to the Secretary of the Treasury to review valuations in cases of appeals from appraisements.

His motion also will provide that the committee amend the bill by "adjusting rates in all schedules so that the duties shall not exceed the actual difference between the cost of production in the United States and abroad."

Holds Rate Fixing Erratic.

Explaining this change, Garner said some of the rates in the bill were too low and some too high, and that the proposal was in line with the Democratic platform pledges.

Garner is not sanguine over the chance for his motion to carry, but he expects the Senate to restore the power to Congress which it delegated to the President in the Fordney-McCumber act of 1922.

Party lines split in the voting on the hide, leather and shoe amendment, Democrats and Republicans from cattle, leather and shoe districts joining in the affirmative, and a large block of Democrats and Republicans from scattered sections combining in the negative.

Representative Ramseyer, of Iowa, a Republican member of the ways and means committee, created a stir in charging that the farm group had "brought some of this trouble on yourselves by trading."

"You may be able to trade steers," he shouted, "but when you come to trading tariff rates with a New England Yankee, that's something else."

Colored Women Thank Press for Art Interest

The executive board of the District of Columbia State Federation of Colored Women's Clubs at a meeting last night held at 934 S street northwest expressed appreciation of the reception by the press through constructive criticism of the exhibit of negro art at the National Art Gallery. A committee was directed to frame a letter to the President expressing regret that the recently appointed commission on law enforcement had no negro representation thereon.

The committee decided to extend a formal citizens' welcome to Mrs. Oscar De Priest at an early date. Club presidents who reported activities included Louisa Reed, Mary B. Love, Grace Jackson, Adelaide Hutchinson, Mildred Knight, Mrs. A. J. Webster, Marie Madre-Marshall and Mrs. Daniel Murray.

Girl Scouts Choose Shenandoah Camp

1,800 Will Attend During Summer in Groups for Fortnight.

Ed's Park, located near Rawley Springs, in the Shenandoah Mountains, 12 miles west of Harrisonburg, Va., has been chosen as the summer camp for the 1,800 Girl Scouts of the District, officials of the council announced last night. The girls will attend camp, beginning July 1, in groups of 200 or more, each group to camp for two weeks.

Though the scout council has leased the camp for only the summer, it has the privilege of buying the property. The girls will be quartered in tents this year, but if the park is bought, the council plans call for erection of buildings.

The camp includes a large concrete swimming pool, a recreation hall and athletic field. It is located on Dry River and contains within its confines six or seven good springs, Miss Dorothy Green, a Girl Scout director, said that overnight camping trips probably will be made into the Shenandoah National Forest, which borders the camp, the girls to be chaperoned by trained adult leaders.

Knock on Door Leads To Capture of Convict

Policeman V. A. Hinley, who made the arrest, testified there was nothing unusual in the manner Reek was knocking on the door, but a large "for rent" sign was displayed on the house. After talking to the prisoner, the policeman said he discovered Reek escaped from Occoquan after serving three days of a 30-day sentence. Judge McMahon ordered Reek to complete the 27 days of his first sentence and then start on an additional 30 days.

The G. A. R. program will be held at the band stand at the Arlington National Cemetery at 9:30 o'clock. Afterward the entire assembly will move to Gen. Logan's tomb, where Senator Charles S. Deneen, president of the Illinois Society, and Senator Otis F. Glenn, also of Illinois, will make brief addresses. Senator Deneen will place a wreath on the tomb.

Manslaughter Charged In Capitol Guide's Death

Robert Henry Taliaferro, 916 Maryland avenue northeast, was held for action of the grand jury yesterday on a charge of manslaughter in connection with the death of Benjamin Cady, veteran guide at the Capitol, who was fatally injured Saturday night when he was struck by an automobile said by police to have been driven by Taliaferro.

Taliaferro is also charged with possession, illegal transportation and bad brakes. Policemen F. E. Patrode and Thomas Hayes testified at yesterday's inquest that they found four pints of whiskey in Taliaferro's car.

TRUCK CRASH KILLS FARMER; 2 INJURED

INQUEST HELD AT SCENE

One man was crushed to death and two others narrowly escaped a similar fate when pinned in the cab of a truck which overturned after running up an embankment on the Rosaryville, Md., road near Marlboro, yesterday afternoon.

Frank Rawlings, 32 years old, a farmer of Clinton, Md., lost his life in the accident, which occurred shortly before 4 o'clock. An hour afterward his body was still pinned beneath the wreckage.

James Warren Hart, 35 years old, driver of the truck, and Albert Rawlings, 33 years old, brother of the dead man, were injured about the head and shoulders but managed to extricate themselves.

Hart, also a farmer, told State Policeman F. E. Dutrow and County Policeman Frank Prince, who arrived within a few minutes of the time the accident occurred, he lost control of the truck as it traveled over the dirt road at a speed of 25 miles an hour. The three men in the small enclosed cab had no chance to jump to safety as the truck ran up an embankment, skidded to the roadway again, and turned over.

Hart was the first to free himself from the wreckage. He called to the others. Only Albert Rawlings answered. Hart pulled the injured man from the splintered cab after much difficulty and the two then tried to extricate the other victim. It was impossible. He had died almost instantly.

Justice of the Peace Harry J. Anderson, of Mellwood, was summoned and swore in a coroner's jury.

Dr. J. J. Boyd, of Forestville, pronounced the victim dead as the result of a fracture at the base of the skull, fractures of the upper and lower jaws and left side of face. He said death probably was instantaneous. After deliberating for about 15 minutes at the scene, the coroner's jury returned a verdict of death by accidental means. While the jury was deliberating, the dead man's brother sat by the side of the body and sobbed.

DEAREST GENEVIEVE:

Judging from the activity in all the shops yesterday, the entire town is preparing to make a long week-end holiday beginning with Memorial Day. This seems a very sensible thing to do. Sport clothes and bathing suits hold the center of the stage. While plain one-piece suits have been the vogue for swimming for a long time, fancy suits are in the greatest favor this summer. With the smartest shops showing beach overalls of the most picturesque designs and the most intriguing colors to be worn with tremendous shade hats, and the newest suits cut almost down to the waistline in the back, it is certain that everybody will be properly tanned before the summer is far advanced.

Now That the Pool at Wardman Park

—is open, there is quite a display of attractive bathing suits to be seen there. While it has not been exactly swimming weather, except on a few days, the pool has been well patronized, and a number of special parties have taken place there. One of the favorite pastimes is to have a swimming party in the morning followed by luncheon in the beautiful restaurant of the Wardman Park Hotel. The Coffee Shop, which is the last word in cafeteria service, is extremely popular, too. As soon as the weather permits, the Coffee Shop will resume its service on the terrace, which is such an attractive feature of each summer.

As you know, the dances have been discontinued for the summer months, but there is so much of pleasure to be derived from life in this hotel, in the way of outdoor sports, that no one will miss the dance nights.

The Garden Is Open at The Huguenot

—and perhaps you have enjoyed luncheon or dinner there before this. The garden is tucked away at the rear of the house occupied by this charming restaurant at 1359 Connecticut avenue. If you thought it was attractive last summer, you will be delighted with it this year. A number of changes have been made. Gay umbrellas shelter tables from too much sunlight. There is a quaint garden house at the rear which some people like to engage for a large party. The Huguenot is open Sunday as well as week days.

The New Camera for Children's Pictures

—which is causing such a furore is in use only at the famous studio of Underwood & Underwood. This camera is so fast that the most fleeting expressions are registered. You know what that means in photographing children, whose expressions change so quickly.

You may see examples of photographs made by this marvelous new invention in the window at Underwood & Underwood's. You will see instantly what a remarkable improvement there is in the likenesses.

Just now, needless to say, there is a great demand for outdoor pictures. What could be more lovely than photographs of adorable children taken in the familiar setting of a beautiful garden, with their dogs and other pets, with their dolls and playthings in the midst of blooming flowers and sparkling fish ponds.

The appearance of this camera in the world of photography is the most important advancement in portraiture which has happened in years. Stop by and look at the pictures.

Summer Frocks for Little Girls

—which are well made, of durable materials and pretty colorings are not always too easy to find. Nealon & Co., suite 308, in the Barr Building, has a reputation among discriminating mothers for having the type of children's clothes they want.

While this shop has on display at all times clothes from 4-year size to 20-year size, the making of clothes to order is especially featured. Clothes made to fit, with just enough size allowed for rapid growth, are the most desired. You will like the efficient service this shop gives you.

Sunshine and Air Plus Elsie Pierce

—Preparations should be recipe enough for any woman's matchless beauty. Healthful living, sunshine and fresh air are the most effective beauty aids known. Compare the woman of the country with the woman who uses creams and lotions regularly, and decide which has the smoothest skin.

Miss Pierce has created in her Cleansing cream, Preserving cream and Neroli skin tonic the three essentials for keeping your skin radiantly beautiful. Telephone Woodward & Lothrop's toilet goods department today and they will be delivered promptly. Your skin will respond magically to their regular, consistent use.

Pasternak's Sale Before Memorial Day

—is a lucky thing for everybody. There are so many wonderful buys in this shop at the moment that it would be foolish to try to tell you about them. Imagine stunning day frocks reduced to $35; dinner and evening gowns marked down to $55 and $75; hats reduced to $15! And just at a time when you want to have a complete new wardrobe for the holiday week-end.

As you know, Pasternak's, 1219 Conn. Ave., never has anything at any time except the smartest apparel, so when you are able to buy something at a reduced price, you are taking advantage of a real opportunity. The hats reduced to fifteen dollars include many of the much higher priced models.

Elizabeth Arden Moved Yesterday

—to the temporary salon across the street at 1134 Conn. Ave. I went in yesterday morning just out of curiosity, expecting to see the place in the throes of setting, so was pleasantly surprised to find everything as "fit as a fiddle" and business going on just as usual.

As a matter of fact, this temporary location is more attractive, roomier and cooler, and infinitely more spacious than the one they have formerly occupied. You know, of course, that Elizabeth Arden is to erect a wonderful new building on the site of 1147 Conn. Ave. In the meantime, which will be until next October, you will find the salon at 1134 Conn. Ave.

The Iron Gate Inn Serves Memorial Day

—with a little different schedule than on regular week days. This delightful restaurant will serve both luncheon and dinner menus from twelve to seven-thirty. Luncheon is 75 cents and dinner may be had at two different prices, $1.25 and $1.

Sunday, I had such a delicious dinner at the Iron Gate, and noticed a number of special parties taking place. The rooms in the loft were both being used for parties, and all were having such a good time. The place was deliciously cool, breezes blowing through and stirring the curtains at the windows.

CRIME COMMISSION MEETS HERE TODAY

Law Enforcement Groups to Lunch With Hoover and Then Organize.

(Associated Press.)

Members of President Hoover's law enforcement commission were gathering here last night for the first and organization meeting to be held today in the Cabinet Room at the Executive Offices.

George W. Wickersham, chairman of the commission, who has been a guest at the White House since Sunday, will preside, and the expectation is that each of the other ten members will be present for the first discussion of procedure during the afternoon.

The President will have the ten men and one woman as luncheon guests at the White House, and is expected to meet with them later in the Cabinet Chamber to express his views as to the scope of the work that is to be undertaken.

Faces Gigantic Task.

Mr. Hoover has said he regards the problem of lawlessness in the United States as the foremost problem before his administration. Among his ideas of how it is to be met is one for reorganization of the judicial and law enforcement machinery, a gigantic task within itself and one which will require months of investigation and study.

This particular phase of the commission's work is likely to be submerged in the popular interest, at least, by the inquiry which will be made in prohibition law enforcement and the recommendations which the commission is expected to make as a result of its study of this highly controversial question.

Has Ample Funds for Quiz.

The order in which the law enforcement group will go about its work is one of the important subjects for decision at the initial meeting, but the general assumption is that the inquiry phases of the more important causes of lawlessness will be discussed first.

Headquarters probably will be established in Washington, with public hearings held both in the Capital and in the more populous centers of the country where difficulties in law enforcement are most apparent.

The commission has ample funds for putting its work under way, and, while it is without legal authority to compel the attendance of witnesses and the production of documents, administration officers anticipate little difficulty in that respect.

Labor Group Advocates Immigration Restriction

(Associated Press.)

The executive council of the American Federation of Labor, closing its meeting yesterday, declared in favor of greater restriction of immigration.

The campaign for relief of the Southern textile workers was left in the hands of President William Green, of the National Federation, with instruction to take such action as the conditions demand. This action was taken after hearings into the situation had been held. The executive was also directed to oppose any conscription bill that provides for drafting workers in industry.

Aged Man Is Injured As Auto Strikes Him

Achille Burkin, 70 years old, 4627 Georgia avenue northwest, was injured yesterday afternoon when he was knocked down by an automobile at Florida avenue and Eckington place northeast, where, according to police, he was walking in the middle of the street.

Burkin was taken to Sibley Hospital and treated there for shock and for brush burns. The operator of the automobile was said by police to have been David Hurzmark, 2927 Tilden street northwest.

Fire at School Proves Gas Range Pilot Light

Fire alarm headquarters sent No. 8 Engine Company and No. 10 Truck Company and Fire Rescue Squad No. 2 into the Wheatley School, Montello avenue and Neal streets northeast, last night, when a passing man noticed a small flame in the basement of the schoolhouse and telephoned to the headquarters.

The flame, the firemen discovered, was a pilot light on the self-lighting gas range in the school kitchen.

Woman Asks $25,000 For Accident Damages

Damages of $25,000 against the Warren F. Brenizer Co. were asked in the District Supreme Court yesterday in a suit instituted by Lottie Schubert, of 113 First street northwest.

Through her counsel, Attorneys Darr, Darr & Espey, the plaintiff alleges that her automobile was demolished and she was seriously injured in a collision with a truck of the defendant at Tenth street and Massachusetts avenue northwest on June 27, 1928.

Stepin Fetchit, Fox Star, Is A. W. O. L. and "Broke"

By NELSON B. BELL.

This was forcefully borne in upon C. F. Winchester, manager of the Fox Theater, during his dinner hour last evening, when he was apprised by telephone that one of Mr. Fox's prominent screen stars was at the theater in desperate need of funds and would not take no for an answer. Upon pressing for the name of the thespian thus left destitute, he was informed that it was none other than Mr. Stepin Fechit, the slothful Ethiopian who has made laziness an art.

Somewhat skeptical, Mr. Winchester hastened to his playhouse, elbowed his way through the crowd entering to see the "Fox Movietone Follies" and in his office, sure enough, discovered a disconsolate young man of dusky hue intent upon apprehending the monetary equivalent of a personal check drawn in the sum of $20. He did not look like the Stepin Fechit of the screen to Mr. Winchester, so the gentlemen of the press were called in consultation.

This is how I happened to be back stage at the Fox last night at precisely 9:45 o'clock to view "Swifty" do in an unexpected and unheralded personal appearance much of what he does in his own individual scene in the "Movietone Follies." The 3,400 others seated out front gave "Gummy" a reception and a parting hand that made him an easy victim for a brief interview when he came off. So did the Foxettes, the Jazzmanians, the stage hands, the electricians, a ringer who followed me in from the alley and Mr. Fisher, the master of ceremonies.

This Stepin Fetchit fellow, whose right name I understand to be Lincoln Theodore Peary Moore—or something like that—is quite a chap. Twenty-four years of age, he holds what he deems the best contract with Fox any colored actor ever has received from the movies. It runs for five years, with six-month optional clauses that make salary readjustments events of semi-annual occurrence. The present stipend, I believe, is $750 per week. The Cadillac in which Mr. Stepin Fetchit steps and fetches it looks as if that sum might be approximately correct.

Stepin was born in Florida and reared and educated in Alabama, where his first stage experience was gained with a traveling medicine show operated and controlled by a gentleman whom Mr. Fetchit describes as "jes' a dog-gone faker." From this he progressed to a carnival company, thence to a circus, finally into vaudeville and at last to the Fox lot on the Coast where modest conduct, dancing feet and a bent for comedy soon won him recognition. When he returns to the West Coast in August, he is to appear as the stellar figure in an all-talking, singing and dancing picture based on the picturesque story of his own life.

Strangely enough, Stepin Fetchit is intensely religious and last night confided to me that his story had been conceived and worked out upon the text of "Seek ye first the kingdom of God and all things shall be added unto you." It is his firm belief that his life has proved the truth of this promise of the Scriptures.

He happened last night to be in the Capital for a while because he is engaged on location with a John Ford unit at Annapolis on a new all-talking picture being made under the working title of "Salute." He had his part of many sides in his pocket as evidence of the reliability of his statement, and admitted frankly enough that he was A. W. O. L., and would have his ears cut off if any one in authority on the Fox lot ever found it out.

Stepin has just completed his first visit to New York and the Harlem of which he has heard so much, but never before investigated. He thinks it is quite a place.

From having seen him on the screen, you would hardly recognize Mr. Fetchit upon the street or in his car. He is not as tall as you would suppose him to be, nor so dumb. Having expressed my doubt of his mental alacrity in print after having been profoundly impressed by the superb indolence of his performance in "Hearts in Dixie," I was proportionately astonished last evening to discover that the ebony hoofer is not a dud.

He has saved his money, moved his father from the East to the gilded precincts of southern California and now contemplates early marriage to a young woman who has not as yet wholly reconciled her own religious inclinations with his deep-rooted churchly convictions. He pointed out with some pride that his fingers are not loaded down with diamonds of large caliber and that his habiliments are not fashioned after the pattern of Joseph's coat, both of which facts I had already noted.

After he bowed to the audience for the last time and was about to depart from the theater into the night, I inquired if his plan might be to return at once to Annapolis.

"Man, no suh. I gotta be on that ole location first thing in the mawnin' but tonight I got $20 an' I gotta see to me recreation. Understan' what I mean?"

Pretty smart chap, if you ask me, and that drawling dialect of the far South is assumed for professional purposes or comic effect only. He speaks as well as you or I, off stage.

B. and O. President Upholds Purchase

I. C. C. Is Told Move for Rail Combine Was Economy Move.

(Associated Press.)

Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, testified yesterday before the Interstate Commerce Commission that his company purchased stock in the Western Maryland Railroad because he thought it would be more economical if the two lines were operated together.

He appeared as a witness in the anti-trust complaint case brought by the commission against the B. & O. on the grounds that the stock was acquired without the commission's approval and in violation of the Clayton antitrust act. Willard denied that the stock was bought to lessen competition between the Western Maryland and the B. & O.

Tip Leads to Arrest Of Liquor Car Driver

Richard J. Higgins, 32 years old, of the London Hall Apartments, was charged with transportation and possession of liquor yesterday after police arrested him in his automobile near Chain Bridge.

Policemen G. W. Shenault and M. I. Bridges, who made the arrest, reported that they found nine bottles of cognac, thirteen bottles of Johnny Walker and Lons John Scotch, and sixteen bottles of imported gin in the car. The policemen said they arrested Higgins on a tip over the telephone from an unidentified woman.

Parham Passes Test To Enter West Point

Alonzo Sourleigh Parham, negro candidate for entrance to West Point, a graduate of the Wendell Phillips High School, Chicago, was notified yesterday that he had passed the physical examination for entrance to the Military Academy, according to word received here at the office of Representative Oscar DePriest, who nominated him.

The physical examination was taken at Fort Sheridan, Ill., where Parham had been ordered to report following his success in passing the mental tests. He has been directed to report to the Military Academy July 1.

MORE TARIFF ITEMS INCREASED IN HOUSE

(Associated Press.)

In an atmosphere electrified with charges of "trading," partisan debate and resurrected campaign arguments, the House approved another score of committee amendments to the tariff bill yesterday and paved the way for a final vote late today.

The session, lasting more than six hours, was the stormiest of any since the Republican-framed measure was taken up three weeks ago, and out of it emerged an amendment, approved by a vote of 196 to 90, placing a duty of 10 per cent on hides, rates ranging from 12½ to 30 per cent on leather, and a levy of 20 per cent on boots and shoes.

All of these commodities have been on the free list for years and were retained in that category in the present bill as first reported. Urgent demands for duties, however, led to reconsideration and the committee acceded to the demands of members from the cattle raising and New York and New England shoe manufacturing States.

Twenty Per Cent Motion Fails.

An attempt by Representative Hudspeth (Democrat), Texas, to make the hide duty 20 per cent was rejected by a vote of 190 to 58.

Of the other amendments approved the ways and means committee was victorious in every instance and not one change was effected by any member outside the committee group.

The most important amendments adopted besides the hide, leather and shoe proposals would provide an increase in the duty on flaxseed from 56 to 63 cents a bushel; a rate of $10 a ton on broom corn, rice straw and fiber, now on the free list; an increase of 40 cents a pound in the rates of $2.10 on unstemmed and $2.75 on stemmed wrapper tobacco and a boost of one-quarter of a cent in the bill rate of 1¾ cents a pound on onions.

A dozen or more amendments remain to be acted upon today before all are voted on en bloc just prior to a final vote.

Garner Will Seek Changes.

A motion to recommit the measure will be made before the vote on passage is taken. Representative Garner, of Texas, the Democratic leader, will offer the motion to send the measure back to the ways and means committee with instructions to amend it in three important particulars.

He will seek to abolish the present tariff commission, to repeal the flexible provisions authorizing the President to change import duties, and to provide for a fact-finding board of four members to be appointed by the Speaker of the House and Vice President and made solely responsible to Congress.

He would restore the power which the bill takes away from the customs courts and gives to the Secretary of the Treasury to review valuations in cases of appeals from appraisements.

His motion also will provide that the committee amend the bill by "adjusting rates in all schedules so that the duties shall not exceed the actual difference between the cost of production in the United States and abroad."

Holds Rate Fixing Erratic.

Explaining this change, Garner said some of the rates in the bill were too low and some too high, and that the proposal was in line with the Democratic platform pledges.

Garner is not sanguine over the chance for his motion to carry, but he expects the Senate to restore the power to Congress which it delegated to the President in the Fordney-McCumber act of 1922.

Party lines split in the voting on the hide, leather and shoe amendment, Democrats and Republicans from cattle, leather and shoe districts joining in the affirmative, and a large block of Democrats and Republicans from scattered sections combining in the negative.

Representative Ramseyer, of Iowa, a Republican member of the ways and means committee, created a stir in charging that the farm group had "brought some of this trouble on yourselves by trading."

"You may be able to trade steers," he shouted, "but when you come to trading tariff rates with a New England Yankee, that's something else."

Colored Women Thank Press for Art Interest

The executive board of the District of Columbia State Federation of Colored Women's Clubs at a meeting last night held at 934 S street northwest expressed appreciation of the reception by the press through constructive criticism of the exhibit of negro art at the National Art Gallery. A committee was directed to frame a letter to the President expressing regret that the recently appointed commission on law enforcement had no negro representation thereon.

The committee decided to extend a formal citizens' welcome to Mrs. Oscar De Priest at an early date. Club presidents who reported activities included Louisa Reed, Mary B. Love, Grace Jackson, Adelaide Hutchinson, Mildred Knight, Mrs. A. J. Webster, Marie Madre-Marshall and Mrs. Daniel Murray.

Girl Scouts Choose Shenandoah Camp

1,800 Will Attend During Summer in Groups for Fortnight.

Ed's Park, located near Rawley Springs, in the Shenandoah Mountains, 12 miles west of Harrisonburg, Va., has been chosen as the summer camp for the 1,800 Girl Scouts of the District, officials of the council announced last night. The girls will attend camp, beginning July 1, in groups of 200 or more, each group to camp for two weeks.

Though the scout council has leased the camp for only the summer, it has the privilege of buying the property. The girls will be quartered in tents this year, but if the park is bought, the council plans call for erection of buildings.

The camp includes a large concrete swimming pool, a recreation hall and athletic field. It is located on Dry River and contains within its confines six or seven good springs. Miss Dorothy Green, a Girl Scout director, said that overnight camping trips probably will be made into the Shenandoah National Forest, which borders the camp, the girls to be chaperoned by trained adult leaders.

Knock on Door Leads To Capture of Convict

Policeman V. A. Hinley, who made the arrest, testified there was nothing unusual in the manner Reek was knocking on the door, but a large "for rent" sign was displayed on the house. After talking to the prisoner, the policeman said he discovered Reek escaped from Occoquan after serving three days of a 30-day sentence. Judge McMahon ordered Reek to complete the 27 days of his first sentence and then start on an additional 30 days.

Services For Gen. Logan To Honor Him Thursday

Mrs. Mary Logan Tucker, daughter of Gen. John A. Logan, and other members of the Logan family are scheduled to attend memorial services at his tomb in Arlington National Cemetery Thursday. The Illinois State Society and the G. A. R. will have charge of the exercises.

The G. A. R. program will be held at the band stand at the Arlington National Cemetery at 9:30 o'clock. Afterward the entire assembly will move to Gen. Logan's tomb, where Senator Charles S. Deneen, president of the Illinois Society, and Senator Otis F. Glenn, also of Illinois, will make brief addresses. Senator Deneen will place a wreath on the tomb.

Manslaughter Charged In Capitol Guide's Death

Robert Henry Taliaferro, 916 Maryland avenue northeast, was held for action of the grand jury yesterday on a charge of manslaughter in connection with the death of Benjamin Cady, veteran guide at the Capitol, who was fatally injured Saturday night when he was struck by an automobile said by police to have been driven by Taliaferro.

Taliaferro is also charged with possession, illegal transportation and bad brakes. Policemen F. E. Patrode and Thomas Hayes testified at yesterday's inquest that they found four pints of whiskey in Taliaferro's car.

TRUCK CRASH KILLS FARMER; 2 INJURED

INQUEST HELD AT SCENE

One man was crushed to death and two others narrowly escaped a similar fate when pinned in the cab of a truck which overturned after running up an embankment on the Rossryville, Md., road near Marlboro, yesterday afternoon.

Frank Rawlings, 32 years old, a farmer of Clinton, Md., lost his life in the accident, which occurred shortly before 4 o'clock. An hour afterward his body was still pinned beneath the wreckage.

James Warren Hart, 35 years old, driver of the truck, and Albert Rawlings, 33 years old, brother of the dead man, were injured about the head and shoulders but managed to extricate themselves.

Hart, also a farmer, told State Policeman F. E. Dutrow and County Policeman Frank Prince, who arrived within a few minutes of the time the accident occurred, he lost control of the truck as it traveled over the dirt road at a speed of 25 miles an hour. The three men in the small enclosed cab had no chance to jump to safety as the truck ran up an embankment, skidded to the roadway again, and turned over.

Hart was the first to free himself from the wreckage. He called to the others. Only Albert Rawlings answered. Hart pulled the injured man from the splintered cab after much difficulty and the two then tried to extricate the other victim. It was impossible. He had died almost instantly.

Justice of the Peace Harry J. Anderson, of Mellwood, was summoned and swore in a coroner's jury.

Dr. J. J. Boyd, of Forestville, pronounced the victim dead as the result of a fracture at the base of the skull, fractures of the upper and lower jaws and left side of face. He said death probably was instantaneous. After deliberating for about 15 minutes at the scene, the coroner's jury returned a verdict of death by accidental means. While the jury was deliberating, the dead man's brother sat by the side of the body and sobbed.

DEAREST GENEVIEVE:

Judging from the activity in all the shops yesterday, the entire town is preparing to make a long weekend holiday beginning with Memorial Day. This seems a very sensible thing to do. Sport clothes and bathing suits hold the center of the stage. While plain one-piece suits have been the vogue for swimming for a long time, fancy suits are in the greatest favor this summer. With the smartest shops showing beach overalls of the most picturesque designs and the most intriguing colors to be worn with tremendous shade hats, and the newest suits cut almost down to the waistline in the back, it is certain that everybody will be properly tanned before the summer is far advanced.

Now That the Pool at Wardman Park

—is open, there is quite a display of attractive bathing suits to be seen there. While it has not been exactly swimming weather, except on a few days, the pool has been well patronized, and a number of special parties have taken place there. One of the favorite pastimes is to have a swimming party in the morning followed by luncheon in the beautiful restaurant of the Wardman Park Hotel. The Coffee Shop, which is the last word in cafeteria service, is extremely popular, too. As soon as the weather permits, the Coffee Shop will resume its service on the terrace, which is such an attractive feature of each summer.

As you know, the dances have been discontinued for the summer months, but there is so much of pleasure to be derived from life in this hotel, in the way of outdoor sports, that no one will miss the dance nights.

The Garden Is Open at The Huguenot

—and perhaps you have enjoyed luncheon or dinner there before this. The garden is tucked away at the rear of the house occupied by this charming restaurant at 1359 Connecticut avenue. If you thought it was attractive last summer, you will be delighted with it this year. A number of changes have been made. Gay umbrellas shelter tables from too much sunlight. There is a quaint garden house at the rear which some people like to engage for a large party. The Huguenot is open Sunday as well as week days.

The New Camera for Children's Pictures

—which is causing such a furore is in use only at the famous studio of Underwood & Underwood. This camera is so fast that the most fleeting expressions are registered. You know what that means in photographing children, whose expressions change so quickly.

You may see examples of photographs made by this marvelous new invention in the window at Underwood & Underwood's. You will see instantly what a remarkable improvement there is in the likenesses.

Just now, needless to say, there is a great demand for outdoor pictures. What could be more lovely than photographs of adorable children taken in the familiar setting of a beautiful garden, with their dogs and other pets, with their dolls and playthings in the midst of blooming flowers and sparkling fish ponds.

The appearance of this camera in the world of photography is the most important advancement in portraiture which has happened in years. Stop by and look at the pictures.

Summer Frocks for Little Girls

—which are well made, of durable materials and pretty colorings are not always too easy to find. Nealon & Co., suite 308, in the Barr Building, has a reputation among discriminating mothers for having the type of children's clothes they want.

While this shop has on display at all times clothes from 4-year size to 20-year size, the making of clothes to order is especially featured. Clothes made to fit, with just enough size allowed for rapid growth, are the most desired. You will like the efficient service this shop gives you.

Sunshine and Air Plus Elsie Pierce

—Preparations should be recipe enough for any woman's matchless beauty. Healthful living, sunshine and fresh air are the most effective beauty aids known. Compare the woman of the country with the woman who uses creams and lotions regularly, and decide which has the smoothest skin.

Miss Pierce has created in her Cleansing cream, Preserving cream and Neroli skin tonic the three essentials for keeping your skin radiantly beautiful. Telephone Woodward & Lothrop's toilet goods department today and they will be delivered promptly. Your skin will respond magically to their regular, consistent use.

Pasternak's Sale Before Memorial Day

—is a lucky thing for everybody. There are so many wonderful buys in this shop at the moment that it would be foolish to try to tell you about them. Imagine stunning day frocks reduced to $35; dinner and evening gowns marked down to $55 and $75; hats reduced to $15! And just at a time when you want to have a complete new wardrobe for the holiday week-end.

As you know, Pasternak's, 1219 Conn. Ave., never has anything at any time except the smartest apparel, so when you are able to buy something at a reduced price, you are taking advantage of a real opportunity. The hats reduced to fifteen dollars include many of the much higher priced models.

Elizabeth Arden Moved Yesterday

—to the temporary salon across the street at 1134 Conn. Ave. I went in yesterday morning just out of curiosity, expecting to see the place in the throes of settling, so was pleasantly surprised to find everything as "fit as a fiddle" and business going on just as usual.

As a matter of fact, this temporary location is more attractive, roomier and cooler, and infinitely more spacious than the one they have formerly occupied. You know, of course, that Elizabeth Arden is to erect a wonderful new building on the site of 1147 Conn. Ave. In the meantime, which will be until next October, you will find the salon at 1134 Conn. Ave.

The Iron Gate Inn Serves Memorial Day

—with a little different schedule than on regular week days. This delightful restaurant will serve both luncheon and dinner menus from twelve to seven-thirty. Luncheon is 75 cents and dinner may be had at two different prices, $1.25 and $1.

Sunday, I had such a delicious dinner at the Iron Gate, and noticed a number of special parties taking place. The rooms in the loft were both being used for parties, and all were having such a good time. The place was deliciously cool, breezes blowing through and stirring the curtains at the windows.

Eat Battle Creek Health Foods and Keep Physically Fit

"This is the age of physical fitness, a time when people pay more attention to their physique." This is a statement made by Ethel Barnes, food expert of the Battle Creek Sanitarium Health Foods. She is now demonstrating the many tasty and nourishing foods all this week.

She has talked to many people interested in their health in the past three weeks, and has given them valuable information on what to eat and get well, to keep feeling fit, to reduce, to build themselves up to normal weight while they keep on working.

The department is permanently in charge of a graduate nurse and dietitian.

ITALIAN KING SIGNS TREATY WITH POPE

CITY GOVERNOR INDUCTED

Rome, May 27 (U.P.).—King Victor Emmanuel today signed the Lateran Treaty, which establishes the sovereignty of the new papal state and thus ends the long, once bitter controversy between the Holy See and the government.

With the publication in tomorrow's official gazette of the treaty text, Vatican City—as the papal state has been named—will come into existence, so far as the government is concerned. Formal ratification will be exchanged later.

Commander Camillo Serafini was informally installed as governor of the Vatican City today, after the king had signed the accord.

He conferred with the heads of various departments in connection with organization of civil services along the lines laid down by a commission which was appointed after the Lateran pact was signed.

The Pope will be temporal head of the Vatican territory which comprises the new city—or semiindependent state, as it is really regarded. Italy would reserve, and exercise, sovereignty over the territory only in an emergency. The Pope will issue his own stamps and money.

Within a few weeks the Pope is expected to leave Vatican territory in recognition of the renewed friendship with Italy, the nation. No Pope has left the Vatican since 1870, when the head of the Roman Catholic Church was shorn of all but spiritual authority, and Italy assumed sovereignty over church territory.

Governmental and Vatican representatives will confer soon to decide methods of exchanging ratifications, which will seal the treaty as a historic document.

Parliament ratified the treaty last week.

AUTOIST ATTACKS BUS DRIVER AFTER CRASH

gerstown, Md., met it, and the drivers prepared to exchange buses. As they met in the road to pass the time of day, the auto driven by Jasko collided with the northbound bus. Jasko was accompanied by several friends, none of whom was arrested.

Jasko became incensed at the obstruction to his ride and proceeded to tell Eccord what he thought of the matter. Eccord went to get police. Jasko then transferred his attentions to Burns, who was in his bus. His ferocious aspect drove the handful of passengers from the coach via the windows and a rear door, police say. He then proceeded to trounce Burns.

Eccord returned with State policemen, who helped Burns through a back door and attempted to subdue Jasko. By this time, however, Jasko's fighting blood was up. The melee resulted in two broken windows and a wrecked panel on the bus. Jasko finally was restrained and placed under arrest by Policeman H. H. Haines.

Burns was badly bruised and cut, but not seriously injured. He took his bus to Washington. John L. Berrio, of 1439 Seventh street northwest, was a passenger on the bus and narrowly escaped being assaulted, police say. L. A. Pilkerton, of Baltimore, an official of the bus company, also was struck several times when he attempted to mediate.

Arraigned in police court, Jasko was fined $10 on a charge of reckless driving and sentenced to serve three months in the House of Correction and to pay a fine of $25 on a charge of assault and battery preferred by Burns.

MRS. WILLEBRANDT'S RESIGNATION EXPECTED

ury to the Justice Department, as President Hoover has proposed, she desired to have personal direction of the legal aspects of the enforcement work, with the large legal staff in the unit placed under the direction of her division.

Friends Deny Report.

There also had been reports that she wished to have administrative charge of the whole unit, but this her friends deny emphatically, asserting that she had no desire to become an administrative official. Such reports were circulated in congressional circles and were followed by talk in some quarters at Capitol Hill of a filibuster on the transfer legislation if the unit as a whole went into the prosecution division.

Appointed by President Harding in September, 1921, Mrs. Willebrandt more than once came under attack because of moves made in prohibition enforcement, more recently in connection with raids on New York City night clubs, and her suggestions to district attorneys that the terms of the recently enacted Jones law be applied only in commercial bootleg cases.

Mrs. Willebrandt was one of the original supporters of Herbert Hoover for the Presidency and was active in both the preconvention and regular presidential campaigns. She was assailed for an address during the campaign before Methodist ministers at Lorain, Ohio, in which she attacked former Gov. Alfred E. Smith on the prohibition question.

Refuses to Talk.

St. Louis, Mo., May 27 (A.P.).—Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt today refused to discuss reports from Washington that she intended leaving the Attorney General's office. She was here for three hours this afternoon on her way to Baylor University, Tex., to receive an honorary degree.

"I had rather not discuss it," was her only reply to questions. She asked where the report originated and when told from several sources, commented, "Washington should be called the 'Windy city.'"

Dawes' Nephew Chosen As Secretary to Envoy

Chicago, May 27 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Henry Dawes, 23 years old, and less than a year out of college, has been chosen to be Gen. Charles G. Dawes' personal secretary in England. The young man is a nephew of the general.

Henry was born in Washington, D. C. He has been abroad several times and in 1928 received his bachelor's degree at Williams College. His home is in Columbus, Ohio. After leaving school, he worked as a clerk for the Pure Oil Co. until two weeks ago, when he became one of Gen. Dawes' assistants.

Presbyterian Liberals Win Princeton Seminary Clash

Power of Dr. J. R. Stevenson, President, Increased As School Control Is Put Under One Board by Vote of 141st General Assembly.

St. Paul, Minn., May 27 (A.P.).—Reorganization of the management of the Princeton Theological Seminary, Princeton, N. J., to put control under only one board was provided in action taken late today by the 141st general assembly of the Presbyterian Church of the United States of America.

It adopted the report of its special committee of eleven providing for setting up a single board to be composed of eleven of the present board of directors, eleven of the board of trustees and eleven at large.

In addition the report provided for increasing the authority of the seminary president, Dr. J. Ross Stevenson, whose administration has been under fire by ultraconservative members of the seminary faculty and its alumnae, who have charged him with being "too liberal."

Proponents of the plan of reorganization strenuously denied the assertions of its opponents that the change will have any effect on the historical theological stand of the seminary. They took the position that the change will have the effect of ending a long controversy over the control of the seminary, and that it has no relationship to differences relating to "fundamentalism" and "liberalism."

More than three hours of debate preceded the action of the assembly, which was taken by a rising vote with no count taken, the result being determined by Dr. Cleland B. McAfee, of Chicago, the moderator. A large number stood up in opposition to the motion, but it was clear that even a larger number stood up when the affirmative vote was taken.

Immediately after the action was announced Dr. J. C. Barr, of New Orleans, filed notice of protest with the moderator.

The church reaffirmed its conviction that prohibition will prove to be "one of the greatest social, economic and moral benefactions of all times." Rising to give added emphasis to its unanimous vote, the assembly called upon ministers and laymen to support actively all public officers whose duty it is to enforce the prohibition law.

"By so doing," the resolution added, "we as Christian citizens can give that active support to the President and other officers of the law which they justly merit. We can, as a people, by making prohibition a successful enterprise in the United States, release influences which may ultimately relieve the human race from the bondage of the liquor traffic."

The assembly also ordered the creation of a commission of six ministers and five elders to make a thorough study on the subject of marriage, divorce and remarriage, the report to be completed for presentation at the 1930 assembly.

The principles of the Paris peace pact and "renouncing war as an instrument of national policy" were favored.

Frank B. Kellogg, of St. Paul, former Secretary of State, addressed the meeting, asserting that the church had been the outstanding influence on behalf of world peace.

Dutton and Phelps were later arrested and charged with intoxication. Preliminary hearings on this charge will be held next month.

Kendricks' fellow students at Emory and Henry College near here started a movement to petition Gov. Harry F. Byrd to personally investigate the case. The uncle of the dead student, whose parents are dead, declared he would spend his "last cent" in prosecuting the officers, and a subscription fund for aiding the movement was started.

Arrested by Police Lieut. Hepburn and Sheriff Charles F. Early, of Prince Georges County, in company with Maryland State's Attorney J. Frank Parran, Munitz flatly denied any knowledge of the shooting.

"I was loafing around Washington until about 12:30 o'clock Monday morning at a downtown cafe when Paul Hearn, a friend of mine, came by in his car and we drove over to Prince Georges Inn," Munitz explained. "When we got there an argument was on between Bryant McMahon and William Smith. They were separated by the crowd and then went on off in another room.

Didn't Reveal Assailant.

"There was music and dancing, and a little while later I went outside to Hearn's car. A moment or two later I heard two shots in quick succession from the inn. Two or three minutes later Dietz came running out the door to his own machine and called to me, 'For God's sake, take me to a hospital, quick.' Dietz told me he was shot. He told me he would tell me at the hospital who shot him, but he didn't."

Munitz was detained at the hospital and was formally turned over by a Second Precinct policeman to Prince Georges authorities. He was released on $5,000 bond last night. The bond was furnished by Frank Mace, bondsman. Munitz told officers there that he was released from the Lorton Penitentiary about seven months ago after serving almost two years on charges of possessing an automobile smoke screen.

Prince Georges officers shortly afterward located an abandoned and partiall, wrecked automobile on the Queens Chapel road about one-quarter mile from Prince Georges Inn, with an empty .25 caliber automatic revolver nearby. Police expressed the belief that the car had been used by the unidentified woman with the suspected bullet wound. The automobile was listed in the name of a man known to police.

Capital Policeman Visits Inn.

Lieut. Hepburn reported that he had visited the inn shortly after midnight yesterday and found the place orderly. He said he served a warrant of Washington police there on Tally Dayo, alias Isaac Day, who was lodged at Precinct Station No. 12. Day was said by police to have been arrested and subsequently released here last summer in connecton with the death of John J. Grady in a fall through a building skylight.

The officer said he held a warrant of Washington police for Bryant McMahon but failed to find the man there at that time. He added that he advised William Smith, alias "Jewboy" Smith, during the same visit to leave Maryland.

Mystery still shrouds the Green Gables shooting about two month ago in which John Wesley Poutra met his death.

Snow, Rain and Big Hail Belt Northern Wyoming

Cody, Wyo., May 27 (A.P.).—Cody and northern Wyoming generally were covered with a mantle of snow today, following a storm over the week-end during which it intermittently snowed and rained. Temperatures were exceptionally low for this time of the year and fears were felt that fruit and garden crops may have been injured by the storm.

Crop damage unofficially estimated at close to $1,000,000 was done by hail in the upper Horse Creek region, northwest of Cheyenne, late yesterday. Several inches of icy stones covered the ground, and the icy blanket did not melt for several hours.

Persons who were caught in the hailstorm reported it was as terrific as that of June, 1926, when damage approximating $1,000,000 resulted to farm crops.

THREATENED STRIKE RENEWAL IS HALTED

PEACE FOLLOWS PARLEY

Elizabethton, Tenn., May 27 (A.P.).—A "Communistic" threat that for a time today hung over the peaceful settlement of the six-week strike in the American Bemberg and American Glanzstoff Mills here, was dissapated this afternoon and peace again reigned in Happy Valley.

Strikers, appearing at a hotel to apply for reinstatement this morning saw T. Perry, alleged abductor of two union leaders, at the place, and refused to appply for work because they believed him employed by the mills. Charges were made by William F. Kelly, vice president of the United Textile Workers of America, that Communist agents were among the workers, inciting them to abrogate the settlement reached yesterday.

After refusing to sign for work with Perry present, the strikers congregated at the tabernacle, where volunteers spoke to them, urging them not to return to work, as the mills had "double crossed" them. Two men and two women, unidentified by the strikers, circulated among the crowd, urging them not to return to work.

Kelley, Edward F. McGrady, personal representative of President Green of the Federation of Labor, Miss Anna Weinstock, conciliator for the United States Department of Labor, and newspaper men rushed here from Johnson City and soon learned that Perry owned the hotel where workers were to register and was not connected with the mills.

Ramsay Rees, a newspaper man told the strikers that Perry was not connected with the registration, and the conference was called.

Registration began immediately and observers expressed the opinion that the mills would be running with a full force by June 10, as the officials announced they planned to do.

This is the greatest professional endorsement ever given to any one product . . . more than 13,000 beauty experts advise regular use of Palmolive Soap!

Her Majesty, The Queen of Spain; Her Majesty, The Queen of England; The Infanta of Spain; The Queen of Italy . . . testify to the standing of the great beauty specialists of foreign capitals, who serve by appointment to Royalty.

The aristocracy of the stage and the social world are attended by these European experts, many of whom are also graduate dermatologists. The entire world of beauty culture honors such names as Tejero, Le Brun, Pessl, Fontaine.

ALL the leading figures in the world of beauty culture believe in—and advise their patrons to use—one internationally famous method of skin care. It is based on the twice-a-day use of Palmolive Soap.

Go to Paris, world capital of beauty. Cavalieri, Le Brun, Massé, Vincent, Payot, Delord et Bion, all will tell you why palm and olive oils, in this special blend, are best for the skin.

They have tried its effects in their salons. They have experimented with many methods of skin care, in order to advise their patrons on daily home treatments. And all have come to the same conclusion: there is nothing like Palmolive Soap and warm water.

In Vienna, Pessl; in Berlin, Elise Bock; in Madrid, Niraus; in London, Jacobson! Think of any great city, the world over, and you'll find that the leading beauty experts in that city are enthusiastic about this two-minute complexion treatment: with both hands massage the face with a rich lather of Palmolive Soap and warm water. Rinse, with warm water graduated to cold. Let that be the basis for all your make-up!

VIRGINIA SHOW PLACE IS SOLD TO GOV. BYRD

$100,000 PRICE REPORTED

Berryville, Va., May 27.—Gov. Harry Flood Byrd today bought Rosemont, the 150-acre estate and 28-room colonial mansion from Mrs. William Morgan Smith, widow of Dr. William Morgan Smith, of Alexandria, at a reported price of $100,000.

The Smith estate, a show place of this county and section, adjoins a 500-acre apple orchard the governor has owned for some time and on which he has been making his summer residence. Possession is to be given July 1.

After expiration of his term of office, the governor is understood to plan to make his home at Rosemont, which is just outside the city limits of Berryville and only 10 miles from Gov. Byrd's old home at Winchester.

The governor was in Berryville today to close the deal personally. Mrs. Smith said she was not at liberty to disclose the price paid for the estate, but she had recently valued the property at $100,000 and she said she was perfectly satisfied with the deal.

Among the owners of Rosemont have been Jessie Peyton, of Baltimore; Charles E. Clapp, of Pittsburgh; J. L. Harriman, of Washington, and Mrs. Smith. Mrs. Smith plans to sail for Munich after she gives the governor possession of the estate, and is said to be contemplating residence abroad.

Two Dead of Heat As Nation Suffers

Chicago, May 27 (A.P.).—Sultriness and a high mark of 84 degrees gave Chicago a touch of summer today and brought death to two persons.

Edwin Feisel, 53, San Francisco merchant fell dead in the Chicago Northwestern Depot tonight, and Phillip Burke, 45 fell dead in a phone booth.

A street temperature of 91 degrees, reached at 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon resulted in the prostration of two men.

Robert Dugan, 37 years old, of 1133 Potomac avenue southeast, collapsed in front of 803 F street northwest when overcome by the heat yesterday afternoon. He was taken to Emergency Hospital and revived. His condition is said to be not serious.

George Washington, colored, 34 years old, of 1418 Ninth street northwest, was taken to Emergency Hospital in a serious condition about 3 o'clock and treated for heat prostration. He collapsed in front of 3046 K street northwest.

The official high temperature reported by the Weather Bureau was 83 degrees at about 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The street temperature was recorded at the kiosk on Pennsylvania avenue near Fourteenth street northwest.

If the House conferees adopt the more conciliatory attitude the farm bill is expected to be out of the way in a few days.

Aside from the debenture the differences between the two houses are not serious. The House will probably gladly accept the Senate amendment increasing the size of the farm board thereby giving relief to more farm relief agitators than the House had originally planned. The limiting of the chairman's salary instead of leaving it within the discretion of the President, a limitation made by the Senate, is not looked upon as a serious difference, and the President is said not to be greatly interested in whether the salary is limited or not.

There will quite likely be surprise in some quarters that the President is agreeable to a three-months' recess with a final determination of what the tariff is to be and is not to be postponed until early in November. Somehow the impression had gone out that he was opposed to deferring the settlement of the question this long because of its possible adverse effect on business. Business could not make its plans as long as tariff uncertainty existed, it was contended.

There is hardly any more uncertainty now, however, than there has been since early last year when the political campaign got under way, and a possible party advantage in postponing its enactment until November is that it will shorten the time that it has to operate before the Republicans have to answer for it in the congressional elections of 1930. The delay figured from this viewpoint is insignificant, of course, but the prospects are that the Republicans will need every bit of assistance they can get.

There is nothing definite on which to base the impression that the President was opposed to a delay, but it existed in certain quarters nevertheless. However, if he was, the Congressional leaders could probably have convinced him that a tariff could not be passed before early November, recess or no recess.

Nearly a dozen rails dropped to low ground for the year. The lows in this group included Gulf, Mobile & Northwestern, St. Paul preferred, Canadian Pacific, Rock Island, Northern Pacific, Illinois Central, Kansas City Southern preferred, St. Louis Southwestern and Southern Railway.

In the list of more than 700 stocks appearing today only 32 registered gains at the close, and these in all but one or two cases were fractional.

Traders who had been watching the recent declines were at a loss to give a definite reason for the decline. Nothing in the news caused the break, for nearly every statement was optimistic. Railroad earnings reported today for the first four months of the year generally were higher; corporation reports continue above last year, and general business is on a higher level than in many years.

Stock-market traders, nevertheless, were discouraged with the performance of the list and sold recklessly to avoid payment of high interest rates expected to prevail at the month end.

PAN-AMERICAN GROUP PRAISED BY STIMSON

INSIGNIA FOR DIRECTORS

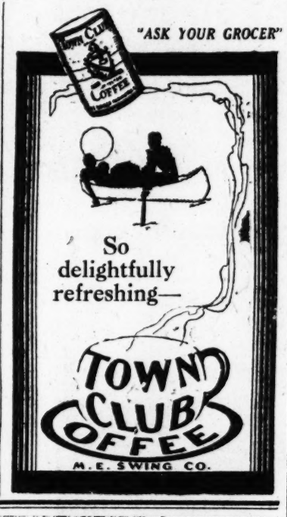
Private organizations are far better able than their respective governments to promote better understanding between nations, Secretary of State Stimson declared yesterday at the luncheon given by the governing board of the Pan-American Union in honor of the directors of the Pan-American Society.

Diplomatic representatives of twenty Latin-American countries and a number of former Government officials attended the affair, which was held at the Pan-American Union Building.

The Secretary expressed the appreciation of the governing board to the officers of the society for their activities in enlightening public opinion in the United States relative to the important contributions which the nations of Latin America have made to science, literature and art, and also for the hospitality the society has extended to visitors to the United States from Southern Republics.

Other addresses were made by Ambassador Hernan Velarde, of Peru, vice chairman of the governing board, and John L. Merrill, president of the society. Mr. Merrill presented to each member of the governing board insignia which carries honorary membership in the society.

In a letter expressing regret at his inability to be present, Elihu Root, honorary vice chairman of the society and former Secretary of State, said: "I perceive in the people of Latin America many attractive qualities which it would be very beneficial for the people of the United States to acquire, just as I think it would be useful for the Latin-American peoples to learn something from us. Good understanding between all the people of American republics means not merely political accord and business prosperity, but it means the multitude of personal influences which help toward the development of strong and well-balanced character."



Col. Kerr, Masonic Leader Here, Dies

Outstanding economies come with the use of Natco Unibacker—economies that start with the construction of the building, continue throughout its life.

Natco Unibacker is a universal unit; only this one unit is needed for the entire backing wall. Provision is automatically made for bonding the inner tile wall to the outer brick facing, which is thus made a unified part of the wall, instead of a mere veneer.

The dead air cells in the tile insulate the wall against the passage of heat and cold. And—since Unibacker, like all Natco Tile, is absolutely non-inflammable—buildings built of it are fire-safe. The quality is always uniform, uniformly high.

The volume of each unit is equivalent to several brick, which promotes faster erection, saves in mortar and labor costs. If you are going to build, by all means investigate Natco Unibacker. For full information concerning it, and the other Members of the Complete Natco Line of Structural Clay Tile, see your Natco Dealer, or write the office below.

Tender, Juicy

ENGLISH LAMB CHOP with crisp BACON

LIBERTY LIMITED

A CHOICE CUT — inch-thick — boned. Skewered neatly—with the Epicurean kidney enclosed—and tied. Salted. Peppered. Grilled nut-brown over a clear, hot fire—sealing in all the flavor—the sizzling, rich juices—until done to a turn . . .

Then promptly unskewered. Untied. Served au nature—piping-hot!

No sauce! No elaborate seasoning . . . Only the crisp, savory bacon and the fresh, green garnish of parsley or water cress to bring out the tender delicacy of the lamb.

And it's as easily digestible as it is delicious! A dish that leaves you feeling fine. Simple — wholesome — satisfying. . .

GOVERNMENTS PLAN WAR DEBTS PARLEY

THEIR REPORT DELAYED

By ALBERT W. FOX.

Assurances have reached diplomatic circles here that the committee of experts at Paris will have accomplished enough by their labors to pave the way for a conference of governments on reparations irrespective of whether the experts succeed in ironing out remaining controversial questions. Even if the experts fail to agree unanimously this will not prevent recommendations of far-reaching importance from being made the basis of discussions between the interested governments, including the United States.

It appears, therefore, that the disquieting reports from Paris relative to the final delibe: tions of the experts are not causing particular concern here, especially as it has been understood that final recommendations would in any event be delayed.

The prediction that the experts' report would be delayed by some means or other until after the British elections on Thursday will be borne out, according to latest advices. The British experts themselves, acting under the persuasive communications from the British government, have realized that Great Britain hoped to see any definite decisions postponed until after the elections.

Schacht Favors Postponement.

Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, chief German delegate, has had reason to favor postponement because of the possibility that a labor victory in Great Britain might soften British reparations demand. The diplomats here have for several weeks frankly stated that they expected no report until after the British elections.

The work of the committee of experts will be preliminary rather than final in bringing about an ultimate solution of the problem. These experts, acting as private individuals and not as representatives of governments, will simply recommend what they regard as a proper basis of discussion for the governments concerned. A unanimous report by the experts would presumably facilitate the work which the government representatives must undertake after the experts are through.

In other words, if the experts agree among themselves and set a definite figure for the total amount of German reparations to be paid and also recommend definite plans of payment, the conference of government representatives will have a fair chance of producing definite results. But it is by no means certain that the governments could agree, even if a report of the experts proved unanimous.

Reactions to Be Reckoned With.

Popular reactions in various countries which would greet the experts' report would have to be reckoned with. No government is bound in any way by recommendations of the experts' committee. This applies to the United States Government as well as to others.

In case the experts can not agree among themselves there is no reason why they should not submit two, or even more reports setting forth those matters on which they have been able to agree and those matters concerning which agreement has been found impossible. The governments could deal with several reports as well as with a single report by the experts and it is possible that the governments might agree upon matters concerning which the experts have been unable to reach accord.

This agreement among the experts on controversial matters would not mean that the conference of experts had been a failure. On the contrary, this committee of experts may render a distinct service even though an ultimate solution of the reparations problem is not immediately forthcoming through their efforts. For instance, if the experts agree as to the total amount of reparations which Germany is capable of paying and if the German government, after investigation, concedes the figure to be reasonable, the experts will have accomplished something which has admittedly been essential to any plan for final readjustment of European stability.

EXPERTS WILL SCAN NEW WAR DEBT DATA

Computations Are Expected to Revive Fading Reparations Hopes.

SCHACHT FAILS TO YIELD

Paris, May 27 (A.P.).—Technicians worked through the night on computations that the experts of the reparations conference tomorrow may use them to give new life to the negotiations.

Owen D. Young and his staff today gave new vigor to the committee, which was considered moribund at the end of last week, by examining with other experts a new possibility of a way out of the deadlock between the Germans and the allies.

The operation most favored takes the form of new calculations as to what the annuities originally proposed by Mr. Young would yield if they began at other dates than April 1, 1929, which was the basis for the original calculations. The experts tonight would not reveal what the new dates were.

The creditor experts still insist that payments under the Dawes plan ought to continue at least until the end of this year. Dr. Hjalmar Schacht holds to his demand that they cease with April, 1929.

The difference in actual payments between the two points of view would be about 630,000,000 marks (approximately $151,200,000). The creditors relied on this additional sum to enable them to agree on a reparation of payments among themselves which would permit acceptance of the Young annuities.

Since Dr. Schacht rejects this view, it is necessary to find some way of reconciling the divergent opinions.

It is hoped that accountants may elucidate the situation respecting the present value of the annuities and their final yield in such a way as to enable the creditors to make concessions to Germany. If they succeed, there will remain in the way to agreement only two of the German conditions, those as to suspension of reparations payments in case of economic difficulties in Germany and the right to call for a new conference to revise any decision now taken.

Both these conditions have largely dropped from the discussion during the past two days, indicating that they did not furnish the major difficulty.

The question of redemption of German marks imposed on Belgium during the war has been unofficially put up to Belgium and German governments in the hope that they will be able to settle it between themselves and relieve the experts of this difficulty.

DAY IN CONGRESS

SENATE.

Met at noon and recessed at 5:10 to noon today.

Confirmed the nominatoin of Charles Evans Hughes, jr., to be Solicitor General, and that of Dwight Davis to be Governor General of the Philippines.

Senator Black (Democrat), Alabama, introduced two bills for the disposition of Muscle Shoals power plant after the Supreme Court had upheld a presidential pocket veto. One would lease the plant to the American Cyanamid Co., and the other provides for the acceptance of the offer of the Farmers Federated Fertilizer Corporation.

Senator Heflin (Democrat), Alabama, introduced a letter containing an account of a plot to assassinate him.

Senator Fletcher (Democrat), Florida, introduced a bill authorizing $10,000,000 to pay fruit and vegetable growers for damage done by the Mediterranean fruit fly.

Paul R. Mallon, of the United Press, appeared before the rules committee and declined to tell where he got his information about the secret roll call on the nomination of Irvine L. Lenroot.

Manufacturers committee voted 6 to 5 to investigate the textile industry rather than have the Federal Trade Commission do it.

Voted on a number of amendments to the tariff bill.

Minority Leader Garner announced that when the bill comes up for a vote today he will move that it be recommitted and the flexible provision eliminated.

Chamber Plans Drive.

The Washington Chamber of Commerce, through its membership committee, will stage a three-day informal drive for new members beginning Monday. Luncheon meetings of the several units will be held at the City Club at 12:15 o'clock each day, when plans and check-ups will be made.

HOUSE.

Met at noon and adjourned at 6:05 to noon today.

Supreme Court to Hear Street Car Case Oct. 28

(Associated Press.)

The Supreme Court yesterday ordered for argument on October 28 next that the phase of the decision of the Maryland State courts requiring the property of the United Railways & Electric Co., of Baltimore, to be considered at its present value instead of the cost, in fixing street car fares in Baltimore

It announced that it would reserve until it was argued the question whether the Maryland Public Service Commission had presented a case within the jurisdiction of the court.

MUSCLE SHOALS.

The decision of the United States Supreme Court sustaining the validity of "pocket vetoes" disposes of the fantastic attempt to make laws of bills which have never been signed by the President. The court gives effect to the plain meaning of the Constitution, which probably never would have been questioned if interested parties had not hoped to obtain legislation in spite of the President.

Thus perishes the Muscle Shoals bill, a measure which was pocket-vetoed by President Coolidge. The chief begetter of that proposal to make the Government a fertilizer and power peddler was Senator Norris, of Nebraska. He convinced himself, after profound introspection, that the Constitution did not mean what it said when it provided that a bill not signed by the President or returned by him with his objections did not become law. Mr. Norris adopted the opinion that the word "adjournment" does not mean adjournment when applied to the end of any session of Congress except that which terminates a Congress. All that remained was to convince the Supreme Court that he was right.

Unfortunately for the cause of socialism and for the legal prestige of Mr. Norris, the Supreme Court disagrees with him. It must have been impressed by the novelty of his construction of the Constitution; but like many other novel inventions, it lacked all virtue except novelty.

The threat of Government competition with private enterprise in the manufacture of fertilizer and power at Muscle Shoals is removed by the Supreme Court's decision. Congress should now go ahead and make some useful disposition of that great plant. If the Government can get out of the shipping business it can get out of the manufacturing business at Muscle Shoals. As proprietor it can lease the property to some responsible party, with suitable safeguards that will insure revenue and provide for forfeiture in case of default. The business ability of Congress is disparaged by the failure to make suitable disposition of Muscle Shoals. Now that its mistake in passing the Norris resolution has been made harmless by the Supreme Court's decision, there is no reason for making any further excursions into the realm of socialism or communism in dealing with Muscle Shoals.

PLENTY OF CREDIT.

The Federal Reserve Board, throughout its campaign to force a reduction of "overextended" brokers' loans, has stressed the fact that it has no interest in stock market activities except in so far as they may restrict the credit available for industry. At no time has the board said point-blank that such a situation exists. Unprecedented activity in the stock market, it said, threatens to create such a situation, and for that reason it has felt it advisable to attempt to influence a reduction in brokers' loans.

On Sunday the Federal Reserve Board made public a general summary of business and financial conditions for April and a preliminary report for the first half of May. The report indicates that industrial activity increased during April to the highest level on record, and factory employment and pay rolls increased contrary to the seasonal trend. Preliminary reports for the first half of May indicated a continued high rate of operation in the iron and steel industry, while the output of lumber and bituminous coal was somewhat larger than at the end of April. The iron and steel and the automobile industries were exceptionally active during April, and the activity in copper refining, lumber, cement, silk and wool, and meat packing increased. Production of cotton textiles showed a less than seasonal reduction; the output of mines was larger than during the preceding month.

Even in the construction field, said to be most affected by a scarcity of credit, activity increased in April. Building contracts awarded during the months "increased sharply," and for the first time in five months approximated the total for the corresponding month in 1928. The increase was not continued in the first half of May, however, when awards averaged 20 per cent below the same period in 1928.

The industries enumerated in the report represent a fairly comprehensive cross-section of American industrial activity. It is obvious that they could not have made so fine a record unless they had been able to obtain all the credit they needed. This resume of business seems to prove that the activity in the stock markets was matched in April by unprecedented activity in industry. Apparently enough credit is available in the country to meet the needs of both market operators and industrialists.

LINDBERGH-MORROW.

The country is delighted with the romance of Col. Charles Lindbergh and Miss Anne Morrow, whose marriage was celebrated yesterday. The enterprise of the press in trying to satisfy public curiosity concerning the young couple forced them to conceal their plans to some extent, and the marriage occurs rather earlier than the public had expected. But the earlier the better in this case, when chivalry and beauty are happily mated, and with no circumstance to warrant a postponement of the great event of their lives.

Col. Lindbergh has been one of the most useful forces in the United States in stirring boys and young men to emulate his character and achievement. The feat that astounded the world could not have been performed by a youth of dissolute habits, flightiness of will, or inaccurate thinking. After Lindbergh had shown his courage and skill he revealed splendid qualities of manhood in remaining unspoiled, temperate, punctual and industrious. He is America's proudest exhibit of young manhood. His bride is a lovely young girl whose studious mind and sweet nature also furnish to the world an admirable type of American youth.

May this happy young pair find in each other the devotion and strength of soul that carry loving mates safely through all vicissitudes of life.

AIRPLANE ENDURANCE.

The record-breaking flight of the monoplane Fort Worth serves to focus attention upon the progress made in the development of aircraft. Twenty-five years ago, man reckoned his occasional flights in terms of minutes. Gradually the cruising limit of airplanes was increased, and when Lindbergh completed his historic flight to Paris the duration of flights was reckoned in terms of hours. The Question Mark flight was reckoned in days. The flight of the Fort Worth extended four hours over a solid week. In 25 years the airplane has been developed from a toy into an agency of transportation possible of sustained utilization exceeded only by ships of the sea.

The Fort Worth was a rebuilt ship, powered with an engine purchased second hand that had been in service at least 500 hours preceding the record-breaking venture. When Reginald Robbins and "Jim" Kelly took off about 11:30, a week ago Sunday morning, they said they would stay aloft until the motor failed. When they came down about 4 o'clock last Sunday evening, more than 172 hours later, the motor still was hitting regularly, but the propeller was dented and cracked sufficiently to cause vibration. The flight failed to demonstrate the limit of endurance of the modern aircraft motor, but it proved that there is need of a more durable propeller that will withstand the battering of rain and hail without losing its "balance."

The Fort Worth now holds all records for sustained flight. Robbins and Kelly, by their feat, eclipsed the best mark for single-motored, dual-motored and tri-motored planes, and for lighter-than-air ships, and all records for crews, regardless of size.

NOBODY WILL STARVE.

A corporation was organized abroad a few months ago for the purpose of reclaiming the Sahara Desert. The plan contemplates the closing off of low-lying areas, and their inundation, not only for irrigation purposes but also to bring about increased rainfall over the whole desert. Those interested in the project hold the belief that the world will eventually face a shortage of food supplies, and that the great cost of reclaiming the Sahara would be as nothing compared with its value if transformed into a productive area.

A statement issued recently by Dr. O. E. Baker, economist in the Department of Agriculture, contradicts the idea that a food shortage is probable. Dr. Baker contends that farm production is not only increasing despite the drift of rural residents cityward, but also that the United States by 1940 still will have 500,000,000 acres of potentially cultivable land—an area greater than the total of cultivated land at the present time. The tractor and other intensified methods of agriculture, he says, have caused the increased production, and he does not believe it will be found necessary to expand the net farm area of the country for another decade, at least.

The world need not worry over a food shortage. It may easily be demonstrated that the sustenance of an individual at the present time requires a farm area of a certain size, and this figure may be juggled to prove, apparently, that when world population reaches a certain figure, the specter of famine will make its appearance. But no one can foresee how large a farm area will be needed to sustain one individual in, say, 1940, because no one knows to what extent productivity will be increased through more efficient methods.

Europe and northern Africa have large areas that are already cultivable, without need of such vast expenditures as would be required for the reclamation of the Sahara. Better methods of cultivation, and not greater acreage, will solve the future food supply problem.

RAIL MERGERS SPEEDED.

Last Tuesday President Hoover said: "I am confident that there will be no increase in railroad rates as a result of the O'Fallon decision." This sentiment is shared by leading railroad executives, and consideration of the status of the railroads leads to the conclusion that there will be few moves looking toward increased rates. It is significent that most of the roads have not been earning the 5¾ per cent allowed by the law upon their present valuations and that, notwithstanding, the tendency has been toward rate reductions. The roads have learned that they can charge no more than the "traffic will bear," and with the threat of increased bus and airplane competition they will continue to be governed by "what the traffic will bear" in making their rates.

The practical result of the railroad's victory in the O'Fallon case is yet to be demonstrated. The Supreme Court did not sustain the contention of the carriers that primary consideration should be given the cost of present reproduction, but it held that due consideration must be given to the reproduction cost along with all other pertinent facts, adding that "the weight to be accorded thereto is not the matter before us." Obviously, further court action will be needed to determine how much weight is to be given to reproduction cost, and even when this is decided it does not seem likely that increased tariffs will follow.

The effect of the O'Fallon decision on the recapture clause of the railroad law is of greater importance. This provision was adopted because it was found impossible to lay down a basis of rates that would afford weak lines revenues sufficient for their needs without giving strong roads in the same territory more than an adequate return. Earnings of the strong roads in excess of the amount permitted by the law were "captured" by the Interstate Commerce Commission to be applied in helping out the weaker roads, and with the valuation of all roads increased there will be considerably less in the "captured" fund. The strong railroads will benefit as a result of the O'Fallon decision if it results in a general increase in valuations.

The decision, therefore, promises to play an important part in speeding action on the projected railway trunk line mergers. The weak roads are economically necessary, and must be preserved. Any general increase in railroad valuations will weaken their financial position, and it will be found necessary to consolidate them with the stronger carriers for their preservation.

PROPOSED SURRENDER OF THE TAXING POWER.

By JAMES M. BECK,
Of Pennsylvania, in the House of Representatives, May 22.

I am seeking to challenge the attention of the House as best I can to what seems to me to be a question of fundamental importance and one very gravely affecting the dignity of Congress and the peculiar prerogatives of the House of Representatives. I refer to that provision in the administration features of this law which provides in substance that the President may determine whether or not, as between foreign producers who export to this country and domestic producers, there is any inequality in conditions of competition; and if he finds such inequality in conditions, he is further authorized, in his discretion, with the aid of the Tariff Commission, to impose such duties by way of increase or suspend such duties by way of decrease as will compensate for this purely theoretical equilibrium between the conditions of competition in the markets of this country.

To enable the President thus to exercise the most ancient prerogative of Congress, or of any legislative body in any free country in the world, namely, the prerogative of imposing taxes, the President is authorized to change classifications and duties, and he is further authorized to change, if necessary, the method of valuation by adopting the American market price as against the price in the market of export. Thus the President has an absolute discretion, between the maximum and minimum of the statute, to impose whatever duties he pleases upon his determination of a condition which is far more of a theory than a matter of precise ascertainment. If there is, by reason of some human, spiritual, economic or financial reason, some inequality that puts a producer in Europe who exports to America at a disadvantage with the American producer, or puts the American producer at a like disadvantage with the foreign exporter then the President may by a change in duties restore the theoretical equality. It can not be denied that that is the most far-reaching transfer of the power of Congress to the President that has ever been proposed in Congress.

* * *

The provision, if adopted by this House, will ultimately be submitted to the Supreme Court of the United States, and I am not prepared to say that the proposed law may not receive the pontifical absolution of that great court, for the very obvious reason that that court from the beginning, as it must be in a democracy, assumes any state of facts, however far reaching, however far from reality, or any method of reasoning that does not do plain violence to common sense, in order to sustain what it regards as the will of Congress. That is the vicious circle in this and many other respects around which we are moving in this country. * * *

Now, look through the form at the substance of this thing. The President appoints the Tariff Commission. Under this law it may be wholly composed of one party. I am not quarreling with that provision; that may be wise. The President can remove them at will.

The President is to determine what is called an "inequality in the condition of competition," and then the President is authorized to raise or lower any item in the whole tariff structure in his sole discretion in order to adjust the country to what he calls an equality of competition.

Therefore, it will be in the discretion of the President, and as the compensatory duty is likewise vested in the discretion of the President, the President can in his discretion destroy an industry by reducing the tariff or destroy one competing industry in favor of another by imposing an increase of duty, and there is no officer or court who can call his act into question. He would be as arbitrary as a Tudor monarch. I should be amazed if such principle should become a law.

When the pleasure of appearing on the puolic platform threatens to interfere with public business a conscientious official will always cut out the former. There have been mayors in this country who could both work and talk, with equal benefit to their cities. There are mayors in it today who apparently are equally incapable of talking or working to the public advantage. Thrice happy the city that has for its chief executive an orator who is also a laborer worthy of his hire; but failing that, what more can it desire than one who prefers work to play when the choice is forced upon him?

Wearing a Coat Unlike Yours Doesn't Prove Him Your Inferior.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

I HAVE just finished reading a "high-brow" magazine whose editor is famed as an author and critic. Its stories and articles, without an exception, reflect the personality, prejudices and temperament of the editor.

This is not surprising; but these stories and articles, with few exceptions, reflect opinions and reveal facts peculiar to the section of country and the social division in which the editor dwells; and thus the magazine, while professing to be national, must appear provincial, narrow and ignorant to Americans who live in other sections or have traveled sufficiently to know their country.

One article describes conditions in one county and concludes with the astonishing statement that conditions are the same in 400 other counties south of it.

This trick of reasoniag from the particular to the general is typically American—that is, typically provincial—and in some measure accounts for the muddled state of our social, economic and political affairs.

To discover and reveal the true opinion of America concerning any controversial subject would require placing keen, unprejudiced observers in every small section; for in opinion, ideals, hopes, hates and fears, the people of one State differ from another; the rich differ from the poor, the town from the country, the factory worker from the plow hand, the educated from the illiterate, the religious from the agnostic, the hill country from the low lands.

The description that seems true in Maryland seems a revelation of mendacity or ignorance in Colorado; the argument based on conditions in Maine seems absurd in Texas.

Our country is so vast and its problems so different in different sections; our people adjusted to their different environments, are so unlike in their needs and faults and virtues, that no true picture of one section can serve fairly as a picture of America.

The European who visits New York and writes a book about America is no more absurd than the American who judges his country by his own locality.

To save ourselves—to overcome lawlessness, give the worker justice, help the farmer, overcome racial and religious prejudice and solve our other problems, we must become "national minded"—we must develop a new tolerance and a new sympathy for our fellow citizens in other localities, and outgrow the provincial ignorance that prompts us to ridicule or denounce our neighbors across the creek because their window curtains aren't like ours.

PASSE-PARTOUT TRAINS.

France first and French colonies still more need some kind of a car which can be loaded at a farm or factory and carry its load straight to where it is wanted—without unloading or reloading by the way. Loading and unloading run up the price of living and of raw material and of manufactured goods, says the Boston Herald.

A means has been invented and experiments with it have been going on ever since 1925. Now, it seems, something has been found that will work.

They call it "the passe-partout train;" that is, a train that passes everywhere like a passkey or a police pass. It is made up of motor cars or trucks that go on railway tracks or on roads, or even across country and on and off from one to the other. Grain, potatoes, hay are loaded at the fields where they grow and carried to the highway and so on to the railway tracks and market, or steamer dock without being once unloaded or reloaded.

This new freight car even trundles onto a ferry boat—and off again on the other side. From start to finish, the same car brings the load to its destination.

The car has to be a motor car that will run on metal tracks as well as on good roads or improvised roads across fields. For several cars together in one train there must be something to guide their movements, since they move together, particularly round curves and corners.

The motor car which has been adopted is, of course, very much lighter than ordinary railway locomotives or cars and it runs on rubber tires. On curves of 25 yards radius it makes a speed of from 35 to 40 miles an hour.

Its steering apparatus on tracks has to be changeable for something different to the conductors' hand. All this, it is claimed, has been done with success.

This independent steering is for veritable trains of several cars. These new cars can always be run on roads by two's or three's by a steering conductor just as tractors and trailers are now run. Grazogen cars, in which the motor burns charcoal instead of gasoline, are run in such short convoys by numerous factories which have adopted them in France.

The chief advantage of the new invention is its adaptation to farm loading which often has to be done some distance from railways—and the same for mines and factories. It gives the opportunity, particularly in the French colonies, to build cheap roadbeds with cement sleepers—for these cars are not heavy—and to penetrate new territory.

ATLANTIS.

Every now and then Atlantis, the supposed lost continent, comes into the news. Recently a French explorer and archeologist, Dr. Marcel Baudouin, found sculptured forms on a rock ledge usually submerged but which is uncovered, it is reported, by very low tides. Dr. Baudouin believes his discoveries to be the work of the possible inhabitants of the somewhat legendary continent of Atlantis.

The facts about Atlantis, according to Webster's New International Dictionary, are as follows:

"A mythical island in the west, beyond the Pillars of Hercules, mentioned by Plato, Pliny, and other ancient writers, and said to have been sunk beneath the ocean by an earthquake. It was possibly an obscure tradition of the existence of a western continent."

You may have heard, too, of the new Atlantis. This is "an allegory by Lord Bacon, and the name of an island described in it as being situated, like the Atlantis of the ancients, in the middle of the Atlantic Ocean. Bacon represents himself as wrecked on this island, and as finding there an association for the cultivation of natural science and improvements in the arts."

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Please print this open letter to James Carter, of Lynchburg, Va.: "Sir: As a member of an ancient and honorable Virginia family who, until this morning claimed the Carters as his own people, I denounce you and all of your clan. Shame on you, sir, for meddling with something that did not concern you. Imagine a real Carter of Virginia, even though he might be a dry as you claim to be, telling the ambassador of his motherland what he should do. The Republican administration, which, no doubt, you helped elect as all of your kind did in Virginia, won't listen to you. A person of your cult could not possibly ever hope to drink any diplomatic liquors, as you would never be invited, even though you might turn wet just for a party. Let us hear no more from you, because we know that King Carter would hang his head, as every good Virginian does, at your meddling."

Voice Training Badly Needed, No Matter What You Call It.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Am minded to add a thought to the clever letter from Ada Louise Townsend to your dramatic editor. She refers to the well-known prejudice against the term "elocution." The dictionary defines the term as the manner and method of speaking, not specifying whether it is good or bad. But in some way the word has become associated with those who use precise and stilted enunciation through bad teaching. So the term now preferred by dramatic readers is the word, "expression," which, however, is too broad to be definite.

I want to comment especially on what Miss Townsend says of the rather prevalent idea that a trained voice is not natural. The main point here is, what do we mean by the term, "natural?" Speech is not natural, even for human beings; a child has to be taught to talk, and he speaks in the language of his teacher. So with this in mind that speech is not natural the only question is, what kind of speech is preferable?

I had occasion recently to call a man, a stranger, over the phone to make an appointment; the quality of the voice responding reassured me. I knew my interview would not be an ordeal, as with some persons who make you feel as if a nutmeg grater had been rubbed up and down your spine. If good training can improve a voice, let us have it, whatever name you call it.

Paraguayan Charge d'Affaires Insists That Bolivia Is Making Warlike Preparations in the Chaco.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I have been somewhat surprised to read in this morning's edition of The Washington Post an editorial on the Paraguayan protest regarding the movement of troops and other warlike preparations on the part of Bolivia in the Chaco, apropos of an attempted denial by the Charge d'Affaires of that country, Don George de la Barra, and I would appreciate it very truly if you would be so good as to take into consideration the following explanations:

Early this month a technical commission detailed by the Paraguayan Government to determine the geographiacl location of Fort Vanguardia, for the purpose of complying with a request of the Commission of Investigation and conciliation meeting in Washington, was fired on by Bolivian troops posted in that region. The fire was not returned by the Paraguayan patrol which was escorting the aforementioned commission. Desirous of making the most of this little incident to her own advantage, Bolivia hastened to protest that Bolivian troops had been the object of a Paraguayan "aggression." The protest was made before the Commission of Investigation and Conciliation, on the sixth of this month, if I remember correctly. The Paraguayan Government, through its delegation, denied any such aggression and faithfully related what had happened; the aggression had in reality been on the part of the Bolivians. Some days later, May 13, the Paraguayan Government made formal protest to the same commission regarding the very evident military preparations that Bolivia has been making in the Chaco, and even specified the names of the units being moved. This led the Pan American Commission, of which Brig. Gen. McCoy is chairman, to make strong recommendations to the two countries concerned that they abstain from any acts which might provoke a dangerous situation in the Chaco, at the same time warning them that any advance which either of the parties might make into the affected region would not benefit that party at the expense of the other.

My Government's protest regarding Bolivia's warlike preparations was made before the Pan American Commission, the proper organ for such a protest, and was founded on the most absolute certitude, as my Government has authentic proofs of the facts against which it has protested.

At the same time that Bolivia was addressing the Pan American Commission regarding the Paraguayan "aggression" she also made another protest in Geneva before the League of Nations. The League transmitted a copy of the Bolivian protest to my Government and the latter defended itself in the same way as before the commission under the chairmanship of Brig. Gen. McCoy. From this it will be seen that it was not my government that took the initiative before the League, but Bolivia herself.

Mrs. Preston Joins Trek to Eastern Shore

Several Washingtonians Now Own Places in Picturesque Region.

By JEAN ELIOT.

NEWS that Mrs. Thomas J. Preston, of Princeton, N. J., has purchased an estate on the Eastern shore of Maryland calls attention to the growing popularity of this picturesque region. In the last few years several Washingtonians have bought country homes on the shores of the Chesapeake, where they spend part of each year and where they do a good deal of entertaining.

Cape Centaur, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Stewart, is perhaps the most beautiful of these estates, with its miles of water front, where the Stewarts have a small fleet of boats at anchor, and its bridle paths which invite guests to rambles aborseback.

But the place which has retained its Old-World charm to the most appealing degree is "Mary's Delight," home of Mrs. Harold Walker. Since she purchased this quaint place a few years ago and remodeled it to suit her fancy, Mrs. Walker and her daughter, Miss Evelyn Walker, have spent more time in the country than in Washington. Many of their friends have visited them there and enjoyed their hospitality. Mrs. Walker and Miss Walker are now abroad.

The place that Mrs. Preston has taken is at Queenstown and overlooks the Wye River. It was formerly owned by Mr. Herman Kehn, of New York. Mr. Richard Cleveland, son of Mrs. Preston, completed the negotiations for the sale. Mrs. Preston is affectionately remembered by the older generation in Washington as Mrs. Grover Cleveland, one of the most popular women who has ever been mistress of the White House. Before her first marriage she was Miss Frances Folsom, a ward of the man who was later to become her husband, and the wedding took place in the White House.

Ambassador of Italy Coming to Capital Thursday.

The Italian Ambassador, Nobile Giacomo de Martino, will arrive in New York today, where he will be met by the Counselor of the Embassy, Conte Alberto de Machetti. The Ambassador will return to Washington Thursday and Count Marchetti will sail on Saturday for several months' vacation abroad.

The Cuban Ambassador and Senora de Ferrara will leave Wednesday for New York and Boston. The Ambassador will be absent for about a week, but Senora de Ferrara will remain for some time in Boston, where she has many friends.

The French Ambassador, M. Paul Claudel, will go to New York at the end of the week to pass several days at the Ritz Tower.

Mrs. Gann Entertained at Chevy Chase Club.

Mrs. Edward Everett Gann was the guest in whose honor Mrs. Edward A. Harriman entertained a company of 24 at luncheon yesterday at the Chevy Chase Club.

The governing board of the Pan-American Union gave a luncheon yesterday in the Hall of the Americas in honor of the president and members of the council of the Pan-American Society. The luncheon was presided over by the Secretary of State, Mr. Henry L. Stimson, who is chairman of the governing board.

Bound For the Orient

MISS ALICE BROOKS DAVIS, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dwight F. Davis, who is to accompany her father when he sails for Manila to take up his duties as Governor General of the Philippines.

Mrs. Robert Low Bacon Going to Westbury Home.

Mrs. Robert Low Bacon, wife of Representative Bacon, will pass the week-end at her home at Westbury, Long Island, accompanied by her daughters, Alice and Virginia, who are students at Holton Arms School. The girls will pass the summer at Westbury.

Representative Bacon will go to Atlantic City on Friday to attend the opening of the new convention hall.

Mrs. Harry Clay Ransley and Miss Elizabeth Abigail Ransley will leave today for their summer home in Ardmore, Pa. Representative Ransley will join them when Congress recesses.

The United States Minister to Poland, Mr. John B. Stetson, arrived in Washington this morning and is at the Mayflower.

The Military Attache of the French Embassy, Brig. Gen. Raymond Casanave, and the Naval Attache of the Embassy and Mme. Louis Sable will arrive in New York today from Havana and will be at the Ritz-Tower for several days before coming to Washington. Gen. Casanave and Commander Sable were the official representatives of the French government at the recent inauguration of President Machado.

The Counselor of the Polish Legation, Mr. Stanislaw Lepkowski, and the newly arrived first Secretary of the Legation, Mr. Wiktor Podoski, will entertain at a small tea tomorrow afternoon at the legation.

Miss Alice Huston, Miss Mildred Huston and Miss Katharine Huston, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Claudius Huston, of New York and Texas, who have been at the Wardman Park Hotel since the close of their visit to the President and Mrs. Hoover at the White House, are now guests of Mrs. Charles Richardson.

Judge William S. Kenyon, of Fort Dodge, Iowa, who has been appointed by President Hoover as a member of his law enforcement inquiry committee, is at the Mayflower.

New Governor General Off Soon to Post

Miss Alice Davis Is to Accompany Father to Manila.

Mr. Dwight F. Davis will sail for Manila about the middle of June, accompanied by his daughter, Miss Alice Davis, and will take up his new duties as governor general of the Philippines, succeeding Mr. Henry L. Stimson, at present Secretary of State. Mrs. Davis, who is in frail health and has been in a hospital in Baltimore for many weeks, will remain in this country for the present, as will Miss Cynthia Davis and Miss Helen Davis. Their plans for the summer have not yet been completed.

Mrs. James F. Curtis Returns from Long Island.

Mrs. James F. Curtis returned to Washington yesterday from her place at Roslyn, Long Island. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William R. Merriam, who have been at their house in Washington since their return from Florida, will leave shortly for Manchester-by-the-Sea, Mass., where they will spend the summer.

Mrs. E. H. G. Slater is passing some time in New York at the Savoy-Plaza.

Mrs. Joseph Willard has arrived in Washington from her home in New York and is at the Willard, where she will remain several days.

Mrs. Lucicus C. Dunn, wife of Lieut. Comdr. Dunn, has sailed for England to pass several months. Commander Dunn is a student at the Naval War College at Newport, and upon graduation will report for duty at the Navy Department. Mrs. Dunn will come to Washington later.

Miss Margo Couzens, daughter of Senator and Mrs. James Couzens, will leave Washington at the end of next week to attend the horse show at Devon, Pa.

Mrs. Fleming Newbold is in New York to meet her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Allan A. Ryan, jr., who will arrive today on the Ile de France from Europe, where they passed their honeymoon. They will come to Washington Saturday to pass the week-end, and Mr. and Mrs. Newbold will entertain at a dinner dance at the Montgomery Country Club in their honor that evening.

Mrs. Felicia Gizycka Entertains at Dinner.

Mrs. Harris Crist has arrived from her home in Brooklyn to visit her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard L. Nicholson, at their place near Rockville. She will go tomorrow to Annapolis to be with Mrs. John Pitcher through the June week celebrations at the Naval Academy, returning afterward for a longer visit with Mr. and Mrs. Nicholson.

Mr. and Mrs. John R. Buchanan, of Warrenton, Va., have returned to their home after passing the week-end in Washington. They will leave next week for a visit to West Point, where they will remain until they go to their island in Lake Huron for the rest of the season.

Col. and Mrs. John A. Lundeen, of 2139 Wyoming avenue, have as their guest their daughter, Mrs. William B. Kenworthy, wife of Capt. Kenworthy, U. S. A. Mrs. Kenworthy will remain here until the end of the week, when she will rejoin Capt. Kenworthy at their home in Fort Brady, Mich.

Mrs. John Montieth Gates, who has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Parker Crenshaw, has returned to New York. Mr. and Mrs. Gates and their baby will sail for Europe on Thursday on the Dresden. Mr. Gates, who has just graduated from Columbia University with honors in architecture, will pursue the study of architecture abroad.

Engagement Announced

Underwood & Underwood.

MISS HELEN THERESA RHODES, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Eugene Rhodes, of Cleveland Park, whose engagement has been announced to Mr. Thomas Henry McKeon, of New Haven, Conn.

Festivities At White House; Dinner Party

Mrs. Hoover's Series of Teas Pleasantly Begun.

The President and Mrs. Hoover had guests dining with them last evening. Mrs. Hoover was hostess yesterday afternoon at the first of a series of teas for the wives of senators and representatives, their daughters and other feminine relatives who are members of congressional households. There will be similar teas tomorrow, June 4 and June 6, with the entire group of senatorial and congressional ladies entertained on one occasion or the other.

Fearful perhaps of the fickleness of the weather, it was an indoor party yesterday, Mrs. Hoover receiving in the Blue Room. The wives of members of the Cabinet assisted the hostess and will be with her again at each party of the series.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Carroll Morgan, Mr. and Mrs. John Dryden and Mr. Frank Gwathmey will leave tomorrow for a visit to Virginia Beach, Va. They plan to return the early part of next week.

The recently appointed Judge Advocate General of the Navy, Admiral David F. Sellers, and Mrs. Sellers have arrived in Washington and are staying at the Mayflower. Admiral Sellers, who has been selected to succeed Rear Admiral Edward H. Campbell, has been in command of the U. S. S. Rochester.

Lieut. Comdr. and Mrs. Adolf von Scheven Pickardt will go today to New York, where they will be the guests of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Pickardt. They will return to the Wardman Park Hotel on Sunday.

Lieut. Comdr. and Mrs. Pickardt will start for Seattle, Wash., on June 16 by way of the Canadian Rockies. They will sail on the President Jefferson from that port on June 29 for China, where Lieut. Comdr. Pickardt has been ordered for duty.

An Explanation!

This new camera—Beidler-Viken—of which we've said so much, is patented. Special cameras have been built for Washington, Chicago, Baltimore and New York, where they are used by our own studios exclusively. Excepting Mr. Beidler, in Chicago, from whom patents were purchased and who is now with our organization, no other studio has ever had this camera available to use.

Since our adoption of it—and it really revolutionizes the making of children's pictures—other studios and camera manufacturers have tried to offset its influence and overcome its handicap, but our basic patents bar the way.

Some have made cameras that look like it—without its features—others have camouflaged or entirely concealed their present cameras—others have stressed lights—lenses—and what not.

The value of this camera is thus proven by others in their efforts to distract attention from it. We claim this for it—and this only—an expert photographer equipped with this camera can make pictures so far ahead of those he used to make with his old camera as to bar comparison.

The camera is double—one part focuses—the other has the plates ready for an instant expression or fleeting mood. We are glad to show it to anyone and glad, too, to leave judgment to others.

PLAGIARISM CHARGE CONFRONTS O'NEILL

SIMILARITIES ARE CITED

New York, May 27 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Eugene O'Neill was accused today of stealing the plot of his phenomenally successful play "Strange Interlude."

Miss George Lewys filed a $1,750,000 plagiarism suit in Federal Court against Mr. O'Neill, the Theater Guild, and Horace Liveright, who published the play under his former firm name, Boni & Liveright.

In 1924 Miss Lewys privately published 995 copies of a novel called "The Temple of Pallas-Athenae." She says she wrote its 140,000 words seven years previously, when she was 19. It sets forth the girl's idea that the human race should be improved by "selective paternity."

The novel tells of an American heiress married to an aristocratic French rake, who discovers that her husband's family has a hereditary streak of insanity. On the advice of an older woman she selects one Adonis as a "perfect" man to father her child; and though they have agreed not to call in love they do so.

Play Has Similar Incident.

A similar incident is at the center of "Strange Interlude." Miss Lewys claims that O'Neill pirated her book, and in an interview she cited some minor points of similarity.

"The Temple of Pallas-Athenae" survived Federal prosecution in California on an obscenity charge. Later in a New York raid John S. Sumner seized several copies which were on sale at $20, but the case was not pressed. Mr. Sumner's main objection was to a frontispiece drawing of Ted Shawn as "The Perfect Man."

Miss Lewys's complaint states that she submitted the book to the Theater Guild in 1924, with a synopsis of a proposed dramatization, and that she submitted it to Mr. Liveright's publishing house in 1925.

The Theater Guild had nothing to say today. Mr. Liveright said he had never heard of "The Temple." Mr. O'Neill's whereabouts are unknown. He was last heard of in China.

Lawyer Ridicules Suit.

His attorney, Harry Weinberger, issued a statement that "apparently the mark of distinction of a successful play is that some one claims plagiarism," and that "Mr. O'Neill's standing as a dramatist is sufficien answer at this time." He thought it strange that the suit should be brought only after the play had been running for sixteen months.

Miss Lewys is the author of a dozen books, mostly poetry and privately printed. Her "Epic of Verdun" was presented to France by the late Ambassador Herrick, and she is going abroad shortly to be present when a copy of it is placed in the Verdun monument when it is dedicated next month.

The originality of O'Neill's nine-act play contributed largely to its winning of the Pulitzer prize last year. Most unusual was its use of long asides, "interludiams," telling the thoughts of the characters. Miss Lewys compared these to chapters in her book which deal with the thoughts of the characters.

Airplanes to Be Used By Norwegian Whaler

On its initial expedition this year the newly organized whaling company, "Kosmos," of Sandefjord, Norway, will use airplanes for observation purposes in locating whales. Should the results come up to expectations, it is believed airplanes may be accepted quite generally in Norway in whaling and also in general fishing.

Capt. Riiser-Larsen and Capt. Lutson-Holm have been engaged to accompany the whale cookery steamer Thorshammer with two planes. Both aviators are internationally known in connection with the Amundsen expedition. A whaling film may be made by Riiser-Larsen.

The ceremony took place last evening in the Hotel Gotham, the Rev. George J. Russell officiating. Afterward there was a small reception.

Pussyfoot Johnson Ends Tour, Sees World Drier

New York, May 27 (A.P.).—William E. (Pussyfoot) Johnson, dry crusader, returned today from a six months' tour of the world and reported that "the booze man all over the world is having his troubles." In Germany, he said, a local option prohibition bill "almost won." Denmark has made great strides in the dry movement, there being 225 dry parishes out of the total of 1,200, he said.

The speaking tour was made on behalf of the World League Against Alcoholism, whose headquarters are in London. Practically all the important countries in the world were visited.

NEW SUSPECT HELD IN $75,000 HOLDUP

ASHES PROVE HOT CLEW

Oklahoma City, May 27 (A.P.).—The arrest in Hutchinson, Kans., of Mrs. Minnie Rayl, prosperous widow residing there, and recovery from her possession of part of the loot taken in a $75,000 bank messenger car holdup here last Friday, led today to identification of a man held as a suspect in the robbery. A sum of $19,207 found in the woman's automobile was identified as a portion of the robbery gleanings. Mrs. Rayl was taken into custody last night, being apprehended while motoring on a Hutchinson street.

C. W. "Doc" Thompson, 42, proprietor of a drug store at Seminole, Okla., and a brother of Mrs. Rayl, was identified by W. D. Criss, taxicab driver, as the man who shot Charles H. Vowell, messenger for the bank, in the arm, and escaped with a bag containing the money.

Bob Thompson, 23, the elder man's foster son, and Mrs. Bob Thompson, were being held for questioning. Criss, who chased the car in which the bandits escaped until it was lost in traffic, could not identify the younger man. The two men were arrested at Seminole Saturday night and Mrs. Thompson was brought here today.

Charles Becker, chief of police, said that ashes, analyzed in fiction detective style, were responsible for Mrs. Rayl's arrest and the recovery of a portion of the money.

Acting on a tip that suspicious actions had been observed in an apartment house here, Becker and assistants went to the house Sunday and found a quantity of ashes in a stove. On the theory that the ashes might have been from wrappers in which the stolen currency was contained, they burned some wrappers and found the ashes seemed to be identical. Questioning the owner of the apartment house, Becker found that a woman, driving a car with a Kansas license tag, had been about the apartment house for several days.

Mrs. Rayl was arrested by Hutchinson police soon after a description had been broadcast to towns along the road leading to Kansas.

Police said Mrs. Thompson had rented the apartment.

Becker said Bob Thompson has a police record in Kansas City.

Man Exonerated in Attack.

After fifteen minutes' deliberation, a jury acquitted William R. Spitzer, of 627 I street southwest, yesterday before Chief Justice Walter I. McCoy in criminal branch of the District Supreme Court, of a charge of making a criminal assault on a 9-year-old girl. The charge dated back to March 22, 1928. Attorneys Daniel S. Ring and Harvey L. Cobb conducted the defense, while Assistant District Attorney William H. Collins prosecuted.

Dr. Garey Is Given Title of Emeritus

St. John's College Honors President Who Will Resign on June 5.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., May 27.—Dr. Enoch B. Garey, whose resignation as president of St. John's College will become effective on June 5, commencement day, will be come president emeritus of the institution, it became known today. Action to this effect was taken at a meeting of the board of governors and visitors of the college Saturday.

The governors and visitors conferred this honor upon Dr. Garey in recognition of his distinguished services to the college since he took charge in 1923. A St. John's man, he resigned a majorship to aid his alma mater when it needed stimulus.

Dr. Garey tendered his resignation as president more than two months ago, to take effect at the close of the present term.

The election of Dr. Garey's successor has not yet been taken up by the board. In the meantime, Dr. Robert E Bacon, a Harvard man, is being mentioned for the presidency.

THOUSANDS of motorists well able to afford costlier automobiles, but strongly impressed by the nationwide preference for Buick performance, have begun to ask themselves this frank question: Why should I pay more than Buick's price for any motor car?
They have found by actual driving that Buick power, acceleration, swiftness, smoothness and flexibility easily excel other automobiles. They have learned that Buick provides an entirely new mastery over hills, highways and traffic! And, as a result, these motorists are purchasing more than twice as many Buicks as any other automobile priced above $1200!

FOREIGN CITIES SEEK ROTARY CONVENTION

9,000 FLOCK TO DALLAS

Dallas, Tex., May 27 (A.P.).—Discussions of decentralized control legislation occupied voting delegates today as the busy hum and din of this city was increased with the arrival of more than 9,000 delegates to the twentieth annual convention of Rotary International.

Thirteen resolutions were presented at a legislative meeting this afternoon. One, offered by the British delegation, urged abandonment of the slogan "He profits most who serves best." Another said that the "1931 or 1932 convention shall be held outside of North America." The latter resolution was expected, when presented at the general convention, to draw the opposition of Memphis, Tenn., which is making an active fight for the 1931 meet. San Sebastian, Spain, and Rio De Janeiro, Brazil, also are under consideration.

Still another proposed change would give the aims and object committee of Rotary International direct responsibility for Rotary education, discontinuing that activity as one of the duties of the local clubs.

The Delegation from Italy proposed a resolution making clear the relation of a Rotarian to his country. It was said to have been a result of the visit of President I. G. Sutton, of Tampico, to Rome when the Vatican withdrew all previous objections to the membership of Catholic clergy in the organization.

The arrival of delegates at the Union Station was a colorful pageant. Carrying a giant model of the liberty bell, 125 Rotarians from Pennsylvania rolled into the station. Each delegate wore a small button bearing a picture of the bell. The larger bell is to be placed on exhibition at Fair Park.

The New York delegaton, more than 150 strong, arrived shouting greetings to their candidate for president, Raymond J. Knoeppel, New York lawyer, who has been in Dallas several days.

As part of their program tomorrow, the Rotarians are to greet R. L. Robbins and James Kelly, fliers who ended an endurance record-breaking flight at Fort Worth yesterday, as well as the pilots of ther refueling plane.

Bone From Leg Grafted To Girl's Spinal Column

Shamokin, Pa., May 27 (U.P.).—A sliver of bone, cut from her leg, was grafted today on the spinal column of Antionette Disori, 5, of Shamokin, in the hope that the child, a cripple since birth, would be able to walk and play as other children. Before grafting in the new bone, Dr. J. Torrence Rugh, of Philadelphia, cut away a diseased section of the spinal column bone. A large number of physicians witnessed the operation, which was said to be one of the most unusual in surgical history.

Membership Award Won by City Legion

District Post Leads Nation in Percentage Increase Over Last Year.

The District of Columbia Department of the American Legion has won the national membership drive, Harlan Wood announced last night. Consequently, the local department now will receive a national trophy, the first it has ever won.

The local department increased its membership by 338 per cent. Next came the Department of Hawaii with an increase of 184 per cent, and then Kentucky with 114 per cent. Altogether there were 51 legion departments in the race.

The present membership of the local department is 4,074, as compared with a membership of 2,780 last year. The Legion Auxiliary here now has 1,330, a 240 per cent gain over last year.

Cross Winds, Rain Hold Ocean Planes

Old Orchard, Maine, May 27 (A.P.).—Cross winds and rain toward mid-Atlantic today caused another day's delay in the proposed flight of the Green Flash to Rome.

Lewis A. Yancey, navigator of the plane, said that no attempt would be made to take off tomorrow. It was not believed that the French plane, Yellow Bird, would start, but final decision rested with Armeno Lotti, sponsor of the flight to Paris, who flew to New York today the better to observe weather reports.

No work was done on either of the large monoplanes. The Green Flash remained in the hangar and the Yellow Bird rested on the sands outside.

Hero Policeman Saves Girl From Speeding Train's Path

200 Commuters See Montreal Flier Rip Belt From Officer's Body As It Roars Over Spot From Which He Snatched Young Woman.

Cold Springs, N. Y., May 27 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Martin Morrison, policeman, of the New York Central Railroad, risked death today by leaping into the path of the Montreal Flier, speeding toward New York at a mile-a-minute clip, to snatch Miss Beatrice Eustice, of Highlands, from the tracks at the grade crossing here. About 250 early commuters saw the rescue.

Miss Eustice, daughter of William A. Eustice, justice of the peace and Republican leader of Highlands, N. Y., was hurrying across the tracks to catch a New York bound local, then pulling into the station, as the Montreal Flier approached on another track in the same direction.

Morrison was standing in the center of the express right-of-way. He threw his arms around Miss Eustice and dragged her back toward the Northbound express tracks, out of the way of danger. The flier was then only a few yards away and the bell at the crossing clanging its warning that another express was approaching Cold Spring crossing.

Unaware of her peril, Miss Eustice struggled with Morrison, who held her tightly as the Montreal Flier roared past a split-second later. A projecting iron bar from the train tore the Sam Browne belt from Morrison's body and the handbag from Miss Eustice's hand. The belt was thrown many feet along the rails.

Miss Eustice did not require medical attention. The commuters cheered Morrison, who remained on duty, ready for any other emergency.

Widow of John T. King Is Dead at Bridgeport

Bridgeport, Conn., May 27 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Mrs. Eleanor J. King, 51 years old, wealthy widow of the late John T. King, former Republican national committeeman and a power in politics under the Harding administration, died at 3 o'clock this afternoon from injuries received last Thursday when her car was struck by a jitney bus operated by Arthur J. Hoch, 22, of this city.

Hoch is held under bonds of $1,000, charged with causing loss of life by careless operation of an automobile. Mrs. King's only son, Gilbert, was at his mother's bedside at the end.

Plane Made Ready For Distance Try

New York, May 27 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The Southern Star, which will seek to set a new long-distance nonrefueling record in a flight from Tampa, Fla., to San Diego, Chile, will leave Mitchel Field tomorrow for Washington, where those aboard will secure passports. From Washington the plane will go to Daytona Beach for weight tests and will then proceed to Tampa.

Harold E. McMahon, of the Curtis Flying Service, will pilot the plane, which is equipped with two Jupiter motors. John Montgomery, of International Airways, owners of the ship; Henry Bertaud, mechanic, and Hubert Huntington, navigator, will be the others aboard.

The present long-distance nonrefueling flight record was established by Arturo Ferrarin and the late Carlo del Prete, who flew from Rome to Touros, Brazil, a distance of 4,466 miles, last July. From Tampa to San Diego is 4,900 miles.

Chicken Pox Hits Liner.

New York, May 27 (A.P.).—Three cases first diagnosed as smallpox on the incoming North German Lloyd Line Dresden today, later were pronounced by public health service officials to be nothing more serious than chicken pox.

THE CAPITOL LIMITED

Washington's Finest Train to Chicago
All-Pullman—No Extra Fare

Arrives Chicago . . . . . 9:00 A.M.

"You are to be congratulated on your good meals," so many travelers say

A trip to Chicago on The CAPITOL Limited is more than an ordinary railroad journey—it is, so we have been told, an experience in travel comfort.

All-Pullman, without extra fare, this fine train provides modern Drawing Room and Compartment Sleepers; Club Car and Observation-Library-Lounge Car; and such special features of service as Train Secretary, Barber, Valet, Maid and Manicure; Newspapers and Magazines and Shower Bath.

As already mentioned, the good meals so attractively served, at moderate cost, in the Colonial Dining Car and on the historic blue china, are a feature of satisfaction.

And, as the Nation's Capital is left behind, you look from the windows on scenes of interest and beauty—the Valley of the Potomac—historic Harper's Ferry—and up, up into the rugged Allegheny Mountains—then on—through a restful night—and in Chicago* dependably on time—at 9:00 A.M.

*The on-time record of The CAPITOL Limited through 6 years' running is 95.2%.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, Weather Bureau.

Washington, Monday, May 27—8 p. m.

Forecast.—For the District of Columbia, Maryland and Virginia—Partly cloudy Tuesday and Wednesday with local thundershowers in afternoon; little change in temperature; moderate south and southwest winds.

The western disturbance has made little eastward progress during the last 24 hours, and is still centered over eastern Colorado, Pueblo, 29.44 inches, but another center that developed over southern Saskatchewan during Sunday night is apparently moving slowly northward. The Pas, Man., 29.40 inches. Pressure remains low from southern Greenland south-southwestward to the Gulf of St. Lawrence, Julianehaab, Greenland, 29.64 inches, and over the Mackenzie Valley and the greater part of Alaska, Kodiak, 29.36 inches. High pressure prevails from the Lake region and the Ohio and lower Mississippi Valleys eastward. Norfolk, Va., 30.28 inches, and over and north of Hudson Bay, Nottingham Island, 30.24 inches, and off the Oregon and Washington coasts. Northhead, Wash., 30.14 inches. This pressure distribution has been attended by local showers and thunderstorms within the last 24 hours in portions of practically every State between the Rocky and the Appalachian Mountains, and by local rains or snows in the northern Rocky Mountain and northern Plateau regions. The temperature has risen in the Northeastern States, Wyoming, Idaho and Nevada, and it has fallen in Arizona, North Dakota, Alberta and Saskatchewan. The temperature is now above normal quite generally east of the Rocky Mountains, and it is much above normal in the Lake region, while the weather is unseasonably cool from Saskatchewan and Alberta southward to Arizona.

The weather will be partly cloudy to cloudy east of the Mississippi River during the next two days, and local afternoon thundershowers are indicated for the greater part of this area. The temperature will continue above normal.

CARPENTER CLEARED OF ATTACK ON NAVY

SHIPS SKIPPER TESTIFIES

Newton, N. J., May 27 (U.P.).—Merton Hankins, a Layton, N. J., carpenter with a locally famous penchant for getting into "scrapes," was acquitted today of the ponderous charge of attacking the United States Navy with a shotgun.

He was also acquitted of the hardly less sizable accusations of assault with intent to kill Lieut. Comdr. H. V. Wiley, of the U. S. Navy dirigible Los Angeles, and assault with intent to kill the 41 members of the crew.

For a while it looked black for Hankins. He had a separate jury, composed of men and women of the Sussex County countryside, for each of the three charges and he plainly intimidated when he took the witness stand to give the explanation that he was just "cutting up."

The charges were the outcome of an incident on September 6, 1928, when Hankins was making "whoopee" with some friends and the dirigible Los Angeles was beating its way to its hangar from a rainy cruise through a fog.

Hankins and the four other young men became tired of shooting at a target in a Layton back yard and Hankins suggested that they go deer hunting. The party piled noisily into an automobile and headed for the woods. Just as they reached the crest of a hill they sighted the Los Angeles returning to Lakehurst from Lake George, N. Y.

Others in the party said Hankins blazed away with his shotgun at the dirigible, which was 1,500 feet up. After firing once or twice he said jokingly that if the next shot didn't bring her down he'd try a 1-ounce ball, known locally as "pumpkin shot."

Lieut. Comdr. Wiley testified that the Los Angeles frequently had holes in her gas bag after cruising trips, but it was never known what caused the holes.

"I just felt good and wanted a ride and so I fired my gun three times—merely into the air, mind you," testified Hankins.

The cut-up also said that he waved his hat, shouted, screamed, jumped up and down, waving the gun and his arms, and performed other antics as the huge vessel passed slowly overhead.

"I hoped they would come down and take us all up for a ride," said Hankins.

Hankins denied firing a "pumpkin ball" at the dirigible or of taking aim. He said his gun was charged with buckshot.

"This is the last scrape I'll ever get in," vowed Hankins audibly as he left the courtroom, a free man, after the jurors had pondered more than an hour.

According to police, a "scrape" about two years ago cost him $200 when he was fined on a charge of undermining the Flatbrook Valley Dam, emptying a private trout lake into a stream and spoiling the fishing for club members.

In the Play House

By JOHN J. DALY

Somewhere in the deluge of doings dramaturgical is the observation that a play, to be a play, must present a coordination of efforts by author, actors and audience. The theory has become almost a universally accepted practice; that there is no play until the audience becomes part of it.

In the National Theater, lawst evening, as the Bostonians put it, the audience entered so completely into the play and became so wrought up over it, that 'twas almost ruined. Yet, "The Spider" survived; which is proof positive that it must be one of the greatest mystery plays extant.

When Fulton Oursler and Lowell Brentano got their heads together over this comedy concoction they finally came out of conference with as novel a bit of mystery as ever found its way to the boards. On the premiere performance in New York, "The Spider" company got away to the same reactions. When the National Theater Players essay this worthy opus they do so under the greatest handicap possible—recognition of the players by the audience—and yet they manage to work out from under a burden of difficulties. The old observation, made by some theater student years ago now suffers a jolt. The audience becomes too much a part of the play; or, at least, did so last night.

However, it is doubtful if any audience in the world could remain cool, calm and collected when a murder takes place in the auditorium—right before their very eyes. There is a vaudeville show going on at the moment; in the Tivoli Theater. Chris Arth and his fellow musicians come out of the pit and render an overture; render it right. They play "A Precious Little Thing Called Love," heard usually only over the raddio. Then, the Hoffman-Hoskins Jazz Girls make their bow, the first time patrons of the National Theater Players have come face to face—or is it face to face?—with chorines; nimble-footed, scantily clad lassies who trip the light fantastic in the grand manner of the revues. The City Club Duo—a banjoist and a singer of so-so songs—then takes up the burden. Finally, with a great huzzah, "Chatrand, the Great," the master magician enters, and forebodings of ill permeate the theater. This man Chartrand is a mind reader, and he has with him a medium. The audience here gets a chance to pull out watches and lockets and old family papers, for public examination. It seems that Chartrand steps on dangerous ground, in the description of a locket handed him by a young lady. Her escort becomes peeved, pleads, tries to persuade Chartrand to desist—desist is the word; but, the magician is determined. As he is about to divulge some family secret, the lights go out, a shot is fired, and there is consternation in the theater. Immediately, a spirit of pandemonium comes crashing down round the ears of decent, law-abiding citizens. Gendarmes march down the aisle, two abreast, to arrest everybody in the theater.

It is, to say the least, nerve-racking; but that is all that can be said, at this time, since "The Spider" is a mystery play and anything more about it would result in arrest and imprisonment. Perhaps even this suggestion goes too far. Who shall say?

The old stand-bys in the cast, and the young, too, make of "The Spider" a Roman holiday—and if there are those who have not yet been won by the suaveness of manner exemplified in the stage behavior of Roger Pryor, the leading man, nor by the grace and beauty of Miss Edith King, the leading lady, here is the point of capitulation. There is a high comedy role entrusted to Mrs. Hibbard, who becomes a sort of panic before the play is over. Mr. Edward Arnold appears as the Inspector General of the Islands, and his police force look like part of the Philippine Constabulary, or the Southwest Mounted. Freddie Sherman plays the medium. Too many others to mention. In fact, everybody who has had any connection whatsoever with the National Theater these ten years past, with the exception of William H. Rapley, who is just back from Europe and didn't have a chance to rehearse a part, is seen to good advantage in "The Spider." The newspaper man who arrives to report all these doings was none other than Billy Phelps, back in town again, and he and his note book received a regular ovation

Buddy Poppy Drive Here Proves Great Success

The buddy poppy drive under the auspices of the seven District posts of the Veterans of Foreign Wars was so successful yesterday, the opening day, that all poppies were sold out. Today the drive will be continued when additional poppies, ordered last night, arrive via airplane.

RACER LITTLE HURT AS AUTO OVERTURNS

INDIANAPOLIS TRACK WET

Indianapolis, Ind., May 27 (A.P.).—Myron Stevens, of Los Angeles, was slightly injured at the Indianapolis motor speedway late today while practicing for Thursday's 500-mile automobile race when his car, out of control, turned over a half dozen times after skidding badly in the first turn.

Aside from a possible fracture of the right arm and a bruised foot, physicians at the hospital where Stevens was taken said the race driver appeared to have escaped injury. It was said he would be kept at the hospital overnight for observation.

Stevens blamed his accident on a puddle of water, but officials of the American Automobile Association said their investigation disclosed there was no water on the course at the point where the accident occurred.

Drivers were kept from the track most of the day because of rain, and had only been permitted to practice a few minutes before Stevens' mishap. A speedway attendant at the point where the car began to skid said something appeared to go wrong or else the driver, new to the track, "cut in" too quickly and threw the car into a skid. It slid toward the inner retaining wall and turned over just before crashing against it. Stevens was thrown clear. The car rebounded from the inner wall and turned over repeatedly until it was brought to a stop against the outer wall.

Only one driver attempted to qualify his car today, and he failed in the attempt when the motor went dead on the second of the four laps required. Nineteen cars were qualified last Saturday and yesterday.

With more than twenty cars awaiting favorable weather to make the test, officials announced that trials would be permitted all day tomorrow.

French Adopt 4-1 Quota On United States Films

Paris, May 27 (A.P.).—The 4 to 1 quota, requiring American and other foreign producers to purchase one French film for every four they import into France, was adopted today by the French cinema control commission.

This will be recommended to the French government, whose action will be final. Representatives of American motion picture companies here say that they failed to make any headway under a 7 to 1 quota during the past year and that it is therefore impossible for them to send pictures to France under a 4 to 1 plan.

Model AP-9—Finished in Tu-Tone porcelain enamel; seamless porcelain enamel lining; 14 sq. ft. shelf space; makes 72 full-sized ice cubes. Equipped with the Cold Control.

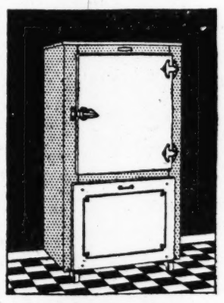
FRIGIDAIRE differs from all other electric refrigerators. It has exclusive features found in no other make.

Frigidaire is equipped with the Frigidaire "Cold Control" . . . a simple, patented device that gives you faster freezing of ice cubes and desserts. It has patented self-sealing trays that seal the intense freezing temperatures within the freezing compartment. It has elevated shelves that eliminate the need of stooping. And all of the Frigidaire mechanism is completely enclosed . . . away from dust and dirt . . . out of sight and out of the way.

The simple, reliable Frigidaire compressor develops surplus power. It keeps the food compartments at the low, safe temperatures that prevent food spoilage. And its great reserve power is always available for use with "Cold Control"... no matter how hot the weather. Yet with all this extra power, Frigidaire is incredibly quiet. You don't hear it start, stop, or run.

Call at our display room and examine Frigidaire. See how it is built and what it does . . . how it saves you time, work and trouble. Then find out how little it costs to have Frigidaire . . . how easily it can be bought on General Motors liberal terms.

Prices as Low as $195, Completely Installed.



Model AP-7-1—Tu-Tone porcelain enamel; seamless porcelain enamel lining; 11 sq. ft. shelf space; makes 42 full-sized ice cubes. Equipped with the Cold Control.

Only Frigidaire will give you all these 8 outstanding features:

With NELSON B. BELL

It will be a comfort to those who have worried about the scant width the musical comedy pictures are able to impart to the stage shown upon the silver sheet to know that the wide-angle screen is on the way.

Word comes to this column of a demonstration in New York last Friday night of a new photographic and projection system of three-dimension cinema that has been worked out in the R. C. A. Photophone studio under the supervising eye of George K. Spoor in association with J. John Berggren. Mr. Spoor, one of the inventors, is an old timer in the film game, having been the first syllable of the old Essanay Co., of which "Broncho Billy" Anderson was the last.

The new process, I am given to believe, is based upon the idea that two eyes are better than one. The motion picture camera used by Messrs. Spoor and Berggren, in other words, is equipped with two lenses that are able to record an image on a strip of film considerably wider than the standardized form now commonly employed for the commercial celluloids. The projection of the finished picture also is through a new type of machine vastly unlike the projectors with which the booths of the country are crowded. This increased range of the camera's eye, necessarily, has occasioned the employment of a screen six or eight, or perhaps ten, times the size of those now in use. I understand that the one used for experimental purposes in New York last week was 30 feet high and 52 feet wide. It is said that the ideal dimensions for a perfect reproduction of scenes and action, life size, are about 20 feet larger still in each direction, making a screen approximately 50 feet by 70.

From this may be gathered the extent of the alterations in both taking and projecting pictures in our theaters that must follow a general adoption of the new plan. It is now, of course, in its primary stage and as time goes on will be improved until eventually it will be within the easy grasp of every exhibitor—much as sound devices are being made available today.

The effect of the wide-angle photography is said to be startlingly realistic and to lend the pictures a depth and true perspective they have never before possessed. Whereas the present method is such as to make a half dozen players appear to crowd the pictured stage of a theater, the new enables a line of 24 chorus girls and boys to appear side by side, life size, even on the 52-foot screen.

It won't be long now!

It seems to me it would be a swell elegant idea if the picture house managers in the downtown theaters would instruct their organists not to feel around on the pedals and manuals of their instruments in an endeavor to find the key and the harmonies of musical numbers being presented on the sound mechanisms.

Saturday afternoon the effectiveness of more than one screen feature was spoiled for the good one of my ears by this apparently futile attempt to aid the artists playing and singing from the screen. I haven't yet determined what the idea was, but its only tangible result was not so elusive—the house was filled with dissonances overflowing from the organ chamber.

At least let the experimenting be done while the house is dark instead of during a performance before an audience of paying patrons.

Mr. D. Dickerson, a field operative with a long and honorable experience in the films to his credit, has just dropped in from the Middle West and South, in the order named, to tell me a great many important things about "The Pace That Kills," a topic upon which I have never deemed myself wholly deficient.

To Mr. Dickerson's mind, however, the vital consideration at the moment is that his "powerful drama of modern youth" will open a ten-day engagement at the Strand Theater on Thursday of this week, Decoration Day.

The subject matter of the picture is said to be such as to engage the interest of more than one Government department, not to mention a considerable number of those sitting in Congress, and Mr. Dickerson, therefore, is making arrangements for a more or less private preview of his opus tentatively set for tomorrow.

If my phone rings, as I momentarily expect it to, more of this anon—or can't you get here then?

While this desk does not flatter itself that it had anything to do with it, it is noticeable, nevertheless, that at least part of the suggestions recently made in an open letter to Maj. John Zanft, vice president of Fox, in charge of theaters, have been acted upon.

Although it was formerly by no means the case, during these latter weeks the artists engaged to appear in the stage shows at the F Street Cathedral have been given a chance to do their stuff to an extent that has enabled the audience to arrive at some definite notion of their worth. This week, for example, everyone is permitted to take as many encores as audience enthusiasm seems to warrant—and on Sabbath afternoon that was plenty! This is as it should be, for I do not know of anyone who with any surety can step out and wow the cash customers unfailingly, given no greater opportunity than one two-minute "bit."

As a matter of fact, I have seen such a consummate artiste as Elsie Janis open cold as ice, only, to leave her audience lying limp in the aisles at the end of 20 minutes.

We thank you, major, whether we had anything to do with it or not—the stage shows at your gorgeous temple are much improved.

Speaking of the Fox, Hardie Meakin, counselor on public relations—which is nothing but lofty leghorn for press agent—is weeking in New York City, pestering Sime Silverman, editor and publisher of Variety, his other boss, and such of his playmates in the racket as he can nail on Broadway.

During his absence, Mr. Meakin's extensive telephoning is being done by Miss Irene Weber, executive secretary of the Fox local offices, an arrangement, by the way, that I find—but you wouldn't care about that.

It wasn't my fault. How are you going to know where to plant flower seeds if they don't come marked whether for the front yard or the back?

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

Now It Is All Clear.

She—Darling, what is the Federal Reserve Board?

He—You don't really mean to sit there and say you don't know what the Federal Reserve Board is, do you, hon? I'd hate to hear you admit it in company.

She—Do you know what it is?

He—Certainly. I supposed everybody knew.

She—Well, what is it?

He (uncomfortably)—Well, it's er, it's a board—ahem—it's a group of men who, er, who, well it's a kind of round table of big men who have charge of the Federal Reserve.

She—What's the Federal Reserve?

He—It's a reserve controlled by the Federal Government. You know what a reserve is.

She—It's a place where deer are kept.

He—Something like that, except that in this case it is a place where money is kept. When the banks want money they go to the reserve for it. It's very simple.

She—But what's the Federal Reserve Board got to do with the stock market?

He—The board fixes the discount rate.

She—What's the matter with the discount rate?

He—Nothing.

She—Then why does it need fixing?

* * * *

He (desperately)—It fixes the rate in the sense of setting a rate. The whole question of credit is wound around the discount rate.

She—How?

He—Well, its all mixed up somehow with the question of brokers' loans. Now when . . .

She—What are brokers' loans?

He—You see, when I buy a stock on margin my broker has to pay for it outright, and to do this he has to borrow the money and pay interest. The interest he has to pay depends on the rediscount rate, added to the gold reserves, and divided by the unfilled tonnage or something. Now the rediscount rate is all up to the Federal Reserve Board plus the question whether Secretary Mellon will resign.

She—But who are the members of the Federal Reserve Board?

He—Gen. Dawes, Dwight Morrow, Flagpole Kelly and the four Marx brothers, I think. Mr. Wickersham is the chairman—no, I'm thinking of the crime commission. Now what these men want to do is to curb speculation.

She—But why?

He—So there will be no wheat surplus and there can be a radio in every home.

She—What's the wheat surplus got to do with it?

He (too far over his head to be coherent)—It's the wheat surplus that causes the Florida fruit fly and when the fruit fly is let loose it strikes at the two things most dear to the American heart.

She—What are they?

He—Home and mother.

She (still looking very dumb)—That's the first time I've ever had it all explained so I could understand it.

A litigant alleges that Miss Dorothy Knapp, famous show girl of Mr. Carroll's offerings, "can not dance, can not sing and can not act." For goodness sake, what do people want for their money?

Fraternity Secretary Accused of Embezzling

Charged with embezzlement of $2,000, Floyd C. Payne, colored, financial secretary of the Morning Star Lodge of the colored Elks of this city for the last eighteen years, was bound over to the grand jury in $2,000 bail yesterday by Judge Gus A. Schuldt in Police Court.

Officials of the lodge testified at the hearing that Payne's accounts when recently checked showed a shortage of $2,000. Previously during the eighteen years of his office, it was stated, Payne's accounts were always accurate and satisfactory.

Women of today find mental as well as physical relief with this latest discovery of Kotex Laboratories . . . fleecy soft protection, scientifically deodorized.

MILLIONS of women have learned to depend on Kotex within the last ten years. It has brought better health, greater peace-of-mind under trying conditions. Now comes an added advantage. Kotex scientists have discovered (and patented)* a process that deodorizes, safely and completely. After several years of research, the one remaining problem in connection with sanitary pads is solved!

Amazingly absorbent and softer than ever

Cellucotton absorbent wadding, which fills Kotex, is 5 times more absorbent than cotton itself. It takes up 16 times its own weight in moisture. The identical material used in 85% of the leading hospitals of the country, Cellucotton absorbent wadding is preferred by surgeons for its softness and hygienic comfort.

No more bulky outlines

The feeling of being conspicuous because of the bulkiness of old-time methods is gone, too. Kotex pads are rounded and tapered so there is no evidence of sanitary protection when worn. You may adjust layers of filler as needed—a thing all women appreciate. There is a new softness, because both filler and gauze have been specially treated. Finally, Kotex is so easy to dispose of, eliminating all need of laundering.

Buy a box today, at any drug, dry goods or department store . . . 45c for a box of twelve. Supplied, also, in rest-rooms vending cabinets.

SUPER-SIZE KOTEX

Formerly 90c—Now 65c

Some women find Super-size Kotex a special comfort. Exactly the same as the Regular size Kotex, but with added layers of Cellucotton absorbent wadding.

KOTEX

The new Sanitary Pad which deodorizes

Commander Ellsberg Will Tell of Gambling With Death Under Water—Roosevelt to Talk; Prize Music to Be Given.

An unusual broadcast will be presented by the Eveready Hour when Commander Edward Ellsberg, U. S. N., author of "On the Bottom" well personally give the radio audience a dramatic version of incidents of his much discussed book. Commander Ellsberg was in charge of the work of raising the submarine S-51, sunk in 132 feet of water off the Rhode Island Coast. Gambling with death nearly every minute of their perilous job, the Navy's divers had a series of experiences any one of which would have made the average individual want to stay on shore the rest of his life.

A torch that would shoot a white-hot flame away down in the Atlantic; a hose that would spout water under water—the development on the scene of these remarkable inventions made the raising of the sunken submarine possible. Commander Ellsberg, himself, developed the underwater torch that would cut through steel and went down to try it.

A feature of the broadcast will be the rendition by the Eveready Hour Orchestra of an original tone poem written for the occasion by Nathaniel Shilkret. The composition will be personally conducted by Mr. Shilkret and is dedicated to the heroic crew who raised the S-51. The program is scheduled for 8 o'clock.

A short talk by Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York will preface the Soconyland Sketch to be heard through WRC at 6:30 o'clock. The story of the battle of Saratoga will follow.

Rube Bloom's $5,000 prize composition "Song of the Bayou," will be featured by the Prophylactic Orchestra and trio under the baton of Gene Rodemich at 7:30 o'clock tonight. In modern theme style, the composition is a rhythmic picture of the threatened flooding of the Louisiana lowlands, with negro prayers and dances suggested in the first two movements. A sudden break in the middle makes way for human voices rising in a plaintive and impressive spiritual calling upon the Creator to "take away the darkness and rain"; a return to the rhythms of the first part winds up the composition.

John Philip Sousa's "U. S. Field Artillery March" and his "Sabres and Spurs" are featured by the Eskimos, under the direction of Harry Reser, in an Army program at 9 o'clock.

The United States Navy Band will also use a Sousa march, "The Liberty Bell," to start the program at 7:15 o'clock tonight from the Sylvan Theater. The opening number will be followed by the "Tannhauser" overture, after which Sullivan's "Lost Chord" will be heard, played as a cornet solo by Ralph Ostrom, chief cornetist of the band. Other selections include Mancinelli's "March Triumphant," Waldteufel's "L'Estudiantina," Meyerbeer's "Shadow Dance" from "Dinorah" and De Luca's "Athens the Beautiful." "Anchors Aweigh" and the "Star-Spangled Banner" will, as usual, bring to a close this program that follows Frederic William Wile's talk on "The Political Situation in Washington Tonight."

The Paul Whiteman Hour will be heard from Chicago at 8 o'clock tonight through WRC. The program scheduled follows:

"Digga Digga Do," "Canadian Capers, a medley of "I Cant Forget," "Who Cares What You Have Been," "Oh, Babb Where Can You Be" and "Satisfied," a waltz medley of "A Smile, a Kiss," "When You Come to the End of the Day," "My Dear," "Parade of the Wooden Soldiers," "Till We Meet," "Oh, Ya, Ya," "Pickin Cotton," medley from "Lady Fingers," foxtrot medley of "Doin, the Racoon," "I Faw Down," "Mothers Eyes," "I'll Never Ask For More;" "I'm Just a Vagabond Lover," "My Sin;" "Sugar Is Back in Town;" and "China Boy."

Blom's composition "Song of the Bayou" to be heard during the Prophylactic Hour from WRC at 7:30 o'clock, will be featured again in the Voice of Columbia from WMAL at 9 o'clock. During the hour Adele Vasa will sing the Bird Song from "Pagliacci."

Mme. Belle Forbes Cutter, lyric soprano, will be the guest artist of the program via WMAL at 10 o'clock.

The Ransdall Sisters and Dorothy Skinner will be featured from WOL at 6:15 o'clock, folowed by a half hour of music and "Amos 'n' Andy." The regular Morning Hour of Music will be broadcast at 9 o'clock, after which there will be a household chat by Peggy Clarke and a beauty question box period conducted by Bertha Parker.

The Columbia Trio will be on the air from WJSV at 9:30 o'clock, followed by the Melody Boys and the Silver String Revelers.

Prints in Sophisticated Dresses

© VOGUE

THE new prints are soft and flattering; they have the delicate irregularity of hand-painted fabrics instead of the hard precision of a pattern repeated by machine. This is a symptom of the change from severe lines to becoming feminine fashions.

The type of dress that is being designed for these new materials is another indication of the same trend. As though fluttering and uneven drapery were not enough to tip the scale toward femininity, we use bows, jabots and tiers unsparingly. Fullness is inserted anywhere it happens to look smart; sleeves are loosely fitted; and waist-lines are marked by tucks or shirring and sometimes flat bands cleverly inserted. The two dresses illustrated here are excellent examples of the pliant drapd effects that are being shown this season.

The frock at the left is of printed crepe de chine, with cream colored daisies on a navy-blue ground. The fabric used for the gown at the right is in the autumn shades that are so smart this summer. Two tones of reddish brown blend with a lovely shade of champagne-beige in one of the newest patterns—a pen-stroked effect. Suede pumps that match the background of the frock are worn in both cases; dark blue with the daisy pattern and brown with the other.

Ways of the Olden Mayas.

II. THE NUMBER SYSTEM

WE USE a system of numbers which is known as the "decimal" system. It goes by tens. Have you ever wondered why the figure "10" is used so much in counting? The reason is believed to be that counting began with the fingers. By using both of our hands, we can count to 10.

The olden Mayas used to count by twenties. Can you guess why they chose "20" as their most important number? The answer, it seems, is that the Mayas counted toes as well as fingers. (In our counting we use "score" quite often, and maybe for the same reason; but score, or 20, is not so important with us as 10.)

The Maya name for the figure "1" was "hun." For 20, they said "hun kal" (one score). For 400 they said "bak kal" (or 20 scores).

To set down their numbers, the Mayas used two different systems. In one system they made pictures which stood for certain numbers. In many cases those pictures were the faces of men!

Their other system of writing numbers was by the use of dots and dashes. This was more clear, and therefore better. One dot stod for "1" while three dots stood for "3." Five was written with a single dash. Seven was written by a dash and two dots. To make the figure "15," three dashes were used.

By using their dots and dashes in certain ways, the Mayas were able to write huge numbers. Their highest number seems to have been "hablatun." It was equal to 460,800,000,000.

We can write bigger numbers than that, but we seldom need to do so.

Have you ever tried to count to a million? You might start some time, and see how far you get. If you counted at the rate of 100 per minute, day and night, you would have to count for almost seven days to reach 1,000,000. To count the highest number of the Mayas you would need to count for more than 192,000 years. By that time you would be rather tired.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

THE SICK TREE.

The man came out and shook his head.
"The tree is very sick," he said.
"It is infected by the scale;
Its foliage is turning pale;
Its sturdy trunk is pitted deep;
I question whether you can keep
This pine alive throughout the year."
Strange news about a tree to hear!

I never thought that I should be
So much concerned about a tree.
I knew that everything which grows
Must fight for life against its foes;
But I had never guessed that trees
Are stricken down by maladies
And suffer fevers, aches and chills
And die unnursed on fields and hills.

'Tis curious, but here am I
Much troubled lest my tree should die,
Fighting a grim disease, I strive
To keep that failing pine alive.
Morning and evening find me there
Battling with hope against despair,
Seeking to save it, wondering still
Why must all things we love grow ill.

121 Stations Hooked for Crime Talk

Hoover Law Enforcement to Be Backed By Governors and 50 Mayors on Memorial Day Evening; 26 Visual Stations.

Backing the movement started by President Hoover for law enforcement, numerous governors, more than 50 mayors and other officials will be heard in a simultaneous broadcast over 121 radio stations from coast to coast at 6 o'clock Memorial Day evening. They will call attention to the necessity of law appreciation. The hour will be made possible through the efforts of C. A. Earl, president of the Charles Freshman Co.

"We have given a great deal of thought to law enforcement but little to law appreciation," Mr. Earl said, announcing the broadcast. "If we made law appreciation a national habit we would find less necessity of thought about law enforcement. The Nation must be brought to a realization that the voters, the citizens, make the laws, not the men they elect. They must realize that circumstances make laws not laws circumstances, and that no law is so strongly entrenched that it may not be changed.

"Once this becomes a part of the Nation's way of thinking, I feel we will have taken a definite step toward the ideal republic."

This movement is in addition to the one recently started by William S. Paley, president of the Columbia Broadcasting System, whose offer for the use of that network for a law enforcement series was accepted by Attorney General Mitchell in behalf of President Hoover.

There are now 26 visual broadcasting (television) stations in the United States, according to the list just compiled by the Radio Division of the Department of Commerce. Particulars regarding these stations are as follows:

In refusing "to say a few words" of greeting over the air from the White House to the Radio Manufacturers Association to be gathered in convention in Chicago, June 3, President Hoover is evidently keeping up the old Coolidge policy of talking just as little as possible directly over the radio. Like President Coolidge, President Hoover evidently has no objection, in fact doubtless welcomes the broadcasting of his set speeches, and takes that as much as a matter of course as that his speeches will be printed in the newspaper.

However, he apparently draws the line on setting a precedent for making speeches directly over the radio. Thus far, all the broadcasting of President Hoover's has been that which he has made publicly on some occasion and as yet he has not broadcast directly from his study at the White House.

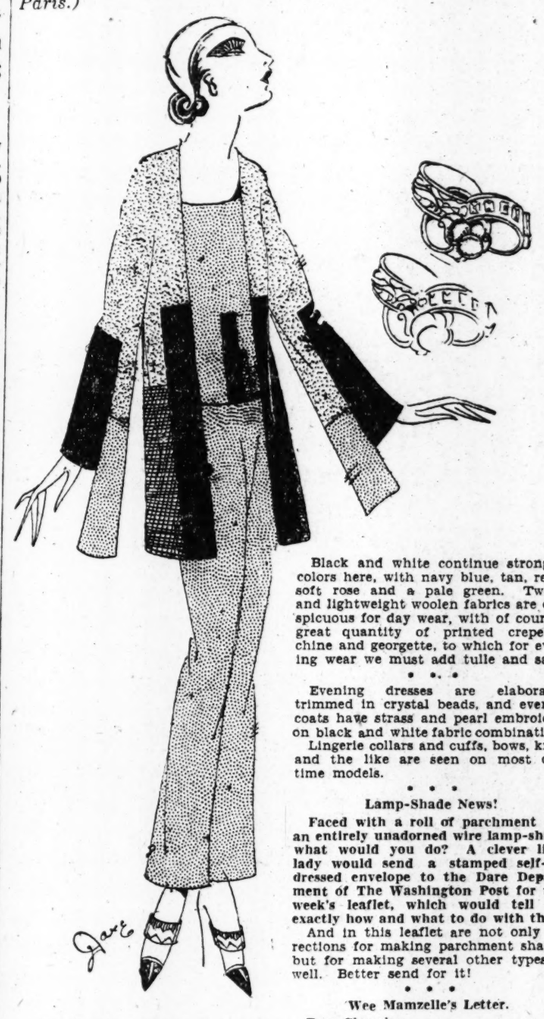
Legion Seeks Flowers For Arlington Graves

The American Women's Legion yesterday requested the public to donate flowers for the decoration of graves in Arlington National Cemetery Memorial Day.

Flowers should be sent to Demonet's Factory, 2021 L street northwest, prior to 10 o'clock Thursday morning.

Dare INTERPRETS the MODE

Reckless color is the keynote of this pajama from a designer famous for her chromatic daring. Green, orange, purple and dark pink are included! (Courtesy of Marynowitsky, Paris.)



As might be expected in the collection of two houses recently merged, the models shown by Drecoll-Beer are so varied and show so many tendencies that one can not in any precise fashion sum it all up.

There are high waist-lines, low waist-lines, medium. There are skirts rather long and skirt rather short, but all with considerable fullness. Sleeves are generally long, but sometimes tight with a long turn-back cuff and sometimes wide and flaring.

• • •

The coats are rather straight, redingote style, and curve in a trifle at the waist. Many capes are shown of irregular covering often only one shoulder. These capes also appear on many afternoon dresses, as do little bolero effects.

Black and white continue strong as colors here, with navy blue, tan, red, a soft rose and a pale green. Tweeds and lightweight woolen fabrics are conspicuous for day wear, with of course a great quantity of printed crepe de chine and georgette, to which for evening wear we must add tulle and satin.

• • •

Evening dresses are elaborately trimmed in crystal beads, and evening coats have straas and pearl embroidery on black and white fabric combinations.

Lamp-Shade News!

Faced with a roll of parchment and an entirely unadorned wire lamp-shade, what would you do? A clever little lady would send a stamped self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for this week's leaflet, which would tell her exactly how and what to do with them.

And in this leaflet are not only directions for making parchment shades, but for making several other types as well. Better send for it!

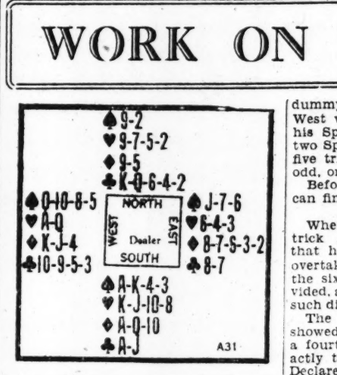
WORK ON BRIDGE



In the above hand the probable bidding at Auction Bridge would be: South one No Trump, West double, North two Clubs, East pass, South two No Trumps.

At Contract the bidding should be: South three No Trumps, the others passing.

When I saw the hand played, West's original lead was the Five of Spades. South won, led the Ace of Clubs and followed with the Jack, dummy overtook the Jack and returned the King. South discarding a small Spade. When the adverse Club Ten did not fall, dummy led a Heart and South finessed. West won with the Queen, established his Spades and East and West made two Spades, two Hearts and one Club—five tricks—leaving Declarer with two-odd, or one short of game.

Before reading what follows see if you can find any error in Declarer's play.

The Correct Play.

When Declarer started the Clubs at trick 2 he should have appreciated that his scheme for running them by overtaking the Jack would fail unless the six adverse Clubs were evenly divided, and that the chances were against such division.

The initial lead of the Spade Five showed a four-card Spade suit because a fourth best being led, West had exactly three higher and none lower, as Declarer held Four, Trey and Deuce. Consequently there could be no more than four Spade tricks and Declarer was sure of winning two of them, and probably could limit his losses to two Hearts and two Spades. At trick 2 he should have started to establish his Hearts, leading an honor so that dummy's Nine would become an entry on the fourth round. Played in that way he would expect to take two Spades, two Hearts, one Diamond and four Clubs—nine tricks—and consequently go game.

What Today Means to You

May 28.

"GEMINI."

IF May 28 is your birthday, the best hours for you are from 9 a. m. to 11 a. m., from 5 p. m. to 7 p. m. and from 11 p. m. to 12 midnight. The danger periods are from 7 a. m. to 8 a. m. and from 8 p. m. to 9 p. m.

The indications all point to travel and change and some pleasant surprises are anticipated which will alter your present plans. The unexpected, and not the expected, is the order of the day.

The child born on May 28 will be very normal and well-balanced, and will not go to extremes in any form or manner. It will have a delightful sense of humor—a keen wit which is not caustic in its nature.

Your sincerity is your chief charm, and you use words to express, and not to conceal, your thoughts. Notwithstanding a high degree of candor, you never hurt people's feelings, and if you can not say nice things, you keep silent. By this method you make friends galore, and of enemies you have none.

You are a bit of a dreamer, and it is quite possible that you will never attain those pinnacles of success which you ambitioned in your youth. There is always apparent a degree of inertia when you honestly try to convert your hopes into realities. Difficulties scare you, obstacles overwhelm you. You are fond of travel, and if this inclination can be indulged, it will be extremely beneficial, as you are exceptionally observant and gifted with a very retentive memory.

Your ideals are high ones, and even though they may not all come within reach, your life will be all the better for being shaped along such lines. You have an infinite patience, a broad tolerance and a wide sympathy. Your actions are more controlled by emotion than by logic. Your disposition—loyal, cheerful and affectionate—will make for happiness in the family circle.

Successful people born on May 28:
Thomas Butler, soldier.
Louis McLane, statesman.
Nathaniel Chapman, physician.
Frederick Fraley, financier.
Jean Louis R. Agassiz, naturalist.

TRADERS QUIT MARKET

New York, May 27 (A.P.).—For the second time in less than a week the stock market experienced one of the worst breaks in years today, as prices dropped to around the lowest levels of the year in a relentless but orderly stream of selling.

The Associated Press index of 50 leading industrials was sent down 7.7 points to a new low for the year at 201.7, which is a shade under the previous low reached in the break precipitated by the call money crisis of late March, when the index was depressed to 201.8. The low level reached today is about 10 points under its position at the beginning of the year, and nearly 24 points under the record level of May 4. The decline during the violent collapse last Wednesday was 8.7 points.

The drop today was surprisingly orderly, considering its extent. The day's transactions aggregated 4,353,670 shares, about 500,000 less than on Wednesday. Although there was a notable absence of panicky selling, stocks failed to find any solid support right up to the closing gong.

Renewed Weakness in Grain.

An important factor in the decline was the renewed weakness of the grain markets, with May wheat breaking below $1 a bushel for the first time since 1915. Much of the selling was said to have come from the Middle West. The critical stage reached by the reparations conference also tended to unsettle confidence. In the meantime, the bull faction appeared to have been completely demoralized by the continued uncertainty of the credit outlook, with the Federal Reserve banks still holding the threat of 6 per cent rediscount rates over the market's head.

The borrowing demand for stock indicated that there had been a tremendous amount of short selling. Shorts found no cause to cover their commitments in the closing transactions, as a severe money pinch is expected shortly, what with the Memorial Day holiday currency demands leading up to the huge demands for credit incident to the midyear settlements.

Call money was again in ample supply at 6 per cent, although there was a moderate calling of loans in the forenoon. Tighter money is looked for tomorrow, however, as banks are expected to call funds for the semiweekly settlements with the Federal Reserve.

Traders Completely Discouraged.

Commission house advises over the week-end generally advised a lightening of commitments, and gave practically no buying recommendations save at substantially lower prices.

Traders called upon for higher margin appeared completely discouraged by the repeated margin calls and complete uncertainty of credit during the past few weeks, and were glad to unload their stocks and get out of the market.

There was practically nothing in the day's business and industrial news to justify the collapse of stock prices. Railway earnings reports for April reflected the extraordinarily high level of distribution maintained during the month. There was nothing to indicate any decline in the near-capacity operations of steel mills, automobile factories, and several other heavy industries. The market appeared to feel, however, that these matters had been largely discounted, and apprehensions that a sharper than usual summer decline may follow the record industrial activity of the fore part of the year caused widespread nervousness.

Adams Express Off 32 Points.

The widest breaks were a drop of 52 points in Adams Express, which fell to 510, 240 points under its record price, and Case Threshing, which dropped 25 points to 310, a new low for the year, and 199 points under its best 1929 price. General Electric, Borg Warner, United Aircraft, Commercial Solvents, and Johns-Manville, lost from 10 to 15 points.

General Motors dropped more than 4 points to a new 1929 low at 70½, and Radio sold down 5 points to 84¾. U. S. Steel dropped about 4 points, and the new stock, traded on a when issued basis, sold down 5 points to a new low at 163. More than 100 issues reached new low ground for the year, including most of the coppers, and many of the rails. Kolster Radio broke nearly 8 points to 25½, which contrasts with a record price of 78¾ earlier in the year.

The commodities were generally weak. Wheat prices broke 2 to 3 cents a bushel, on reports of beneficial rains in Canada, where the crop had been threatened with drought. Corn dropped 2 cents and more. Cotton closed easy, unchanged to 50 cents a bale lower, after an early advance influenced by unfavorable weather.

Foreign exchanges were fairly steady, with sterling cables moving up again to $4.85. The Canadian dollar, however, fell to a discount of about five-sixths of one cent.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, May 27 (A.P.).—An early advance, influenced by unfavorable weather reports, was followed by reactions in the cotton market today under near month liquidation and selling of later deliveries, which appeared to be promoted by the unsettled showing of grain and the stock market. After selling up to 18.64, or 17 points net higher, October contracts declined to 18.43, or 4 points net lower, and closed at 18.48. The general market closed steady at a net decline of 10 points on July, but net unchanged to 1 point higher on the later deliveries.

The opening was steady at an advance of 4 to 11 points in response to relatively steady cables and reports of rains in the South over Sunday. Forecast for further showers over the belt more or less generally seemed to stimulate the buying and for a time the market showed considerable strength, with July contracts selling up to 18.70 and December to 18.74, or about 12 to 17 points net higher on the active positions. Unfavorable crop advices from the Southwest, complaining of too much rain, naturally contributed to the advance, but the demand tapered off as prices neared the 18¾ cent level for December, and the market later eased under realizing or liquidation. July was relatively easy and may possibly have been influenced by talk of probable domestic mill curtailment during the end-season, although no particular news factor was emphasized on the decline. The selling was attributed chiefly to liquidation and the relatively easy showing of July, which sold off to 18.65, or 13 points net lower and to a discount of 9 points under December, no doubt had rather an unsettling influence on the rest of the list.

The break in grain may have accounted for some Western selling, while there was a little selling believed to be for Wall street account on the declines. December eased off to 18.54, or 5 points net lower. Closing quotations were a few points up from the lowest on covering.

A private report was issued estimating the probable acreage of 49,762,000, or an increase of 5.9 per cent, and stating that 90 per cent of Southern correspondents reported weevil infestation, compared with 65 per cent at this time last year.

Private cables reported covering and continental buying in Liverpool on the rain news from the South and said there was a moderate turnover in cotton cloths and yarns with buyers cautious.

Exports today, 8,430, making 7,624,948 so far this season. Port receipts, 7,099. United States port stocks, 1,135,893.

TALKIES COUNT —Victory for Art— ATHLETES OUT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

NEW YORK, May 27.—Although deaf persons are protesting about the talking pictures because they can not hear them and other persons are protesting because they can't help hearing them, the coming of the talkies or the squawkies or the gabbies probably is a boom to the dramatic profession. This development of the motion picture industry, undoubtedly means that this branch of art will be closed to histrionic prize fighters, wrestlers, baseball players and football players, which will be a victory for art and the Actors' Equity Association.

It always struck me that the severest indictment of the so-called art of the silent drama in the days when it was silent lay in the fact that Babe Ruth, Red Grange, Jack Dempsey and even Jess Willard were able to master what Douglas Fairbanks calls the three fundamental facial expressions, love, hate and indigestion, on the spur of the moment and succeed as dramatic stars. It gave one to wonder whether Miss Gloria Swanson was really a great artist or merely a lady with an attractive physique, a good press agent and the luck of a blind draw.

Bull Montana Made a Hit Aiming Cauliflower Ear at Camera.

Of course, some of the athletic celebrities who become impromptu stars of the silent drama were better or less worse than others. The Babe, for instance, was much more adaptable than Jesss Willard had been and Red Grange heaved his chest and rolled his orbs far more acceptably than Gene Tunney could, which, in the case of Tunney, may have been due to a feeling that it was all very silly indeed.

Mr. Bull Montana, the passe Greek wrestler, enjoyed a long career during that era of moving pictures production which preceded the synchronization of the sayings with the doings. His contribution to the drama consisted of a cauliflower ear of noble size and all the roles I ever saw him portray merely called on him to aim his ear at the camera and register unconcern. But I never heard of a cauliflower ear that could speak a recitation and if Mr. Montana should attempt to speak for his ear the patrons would not know what he was saying.

When Mr. Ruth was making his debut as a moving picture actor several years ago I happened to be on the set, as I believe they call the litter of guy wires, electric power lines, carpenters' tools and storehouse furniture comprising a moving picture stage, and was astounded at the simplicity of the conversion. A baseball player of indubitable prowess, who had never taken a lesson in dramatic art, presented himself to a fellow who dabbed his face with yellow powder, and was led through the confusion of the studio to meet the leading lady, a veteran of Mr. Ziegfeld's Follies.

"What does a guy have to do?" Mr. Ruth asked. "I don't know much about acting."

"It is easy," the director replied. "When I say 'hug her, Babe,' you hug her and when I say 'look sad, Babe,' you look like you would look if you felt sad about something."

"All right," said Mr. Ruth, casting a certain kind of glance at the leading lady, "tell me when to start hugging."

Certain Conversational Habits Of Athletes Well Known.

Mr. Dempsey adjusted himself to the technique of the moving pictures in very little time and starred in several vehicles, but when he appeared with Mrs. Dempsey in a stage production presented by Mr. Belasco last year, the sound of a shrill, piping voice delivering mighty threats, backed by a big, hairy physique, struck the audience as comedy relief and they laughed his big moments away. I have a sense that his dramatic career is at an end unless he can have his voice made over as well as his nose.

It is even difficult to obtain talking pictures of the athletes for the news reels owing to the nonprofessional delivery of their remarks and owing, also one regrets to say, to certain conversational habits. Down in Florida last spring, talking news reel concern backed a recording wagon up to one of the ball yards and wasted much valuable film before it was possible to obtain a single talking picture of one of the athletes.

Dundee Risks Title in Bout With Fields

DETROIT, May 27 (A.P.).—Floyd Fitzsimmons, boxing promoter, announced today that he had concluded arrangements with Joe Dundee, of Baltimore, to defend his welterweight title here July 11 against Jackie Fields, of Los Angeles. Dundee is guaranteed $50,000 for the bout, which will go fifteen rounds, the first of that length under a bill signed last week by Gov. Fred W. Green.

Fields, who has been recognized by the National Boxing Association as titleholder, will work on a percentage basis, Fitzsimmons said. An arena for the bout had not been decided upon, he added, saying it probably would be necessary to build one.

Routis Wins by Technical Knockout From Brown

Baltimore, May 27 (A.P.).—Andre Routis, of France, featherweight champion of the world, scored a technical knockout over Buster Brown, of Baltimore, in the third round of their 15-round title bout here tonight. Brown's handlers threw in a towel shortly after the start of the third round, after Brown had been knocked down three times.

Brown, in the opinion of sports writers at the ringside, had taken the first two rounds. Routis weighed 125 1-3 and Brown 125.

After a slow first round, devoted to long-distance sparring, Hoffman tore into McTigue at the start of the second. Two left hooks to the body and a right cross to the jaw and the former 175-pound king was groggy. Another terrific right dropped him to the canvas. At the count of six, McTigue made a game effort to rise but fell back, completely out. The end came after 1 minute and 18 seconds of the round.

McTigue's come-back campaign thus comes to an end almost before it started. In his first test, several weeks ago, McTigue outpointed Paul Hoffman, of Holland, but the American member of the Hoffman clan was more than Mike's match tonight.

Hunter Reaches Third Round in French Tennis

Paris, May 27 (A.P.).—Francis T. Hunter, America's second ranking tennis star, defeated Roger Danet, twentieth ranking player of France, to reach the third round in the French championship singles today. The scores were 6—0, 7—5, 6—3. The match provided some of the most severe driving of the tournament.

Eileen Bennett and Henri Cochet, 1928 champions, defeated Mme. Helene Lafurie and Rene La Coste in the semi-finals of the mixed doubles, 7—5, 8—6. They will meet Helen Wills and Francis T. Hunter in the finals tomorrow.

ATHLETICS BEATEN.

New Bedford, May 27.—Connie Mack's Athletics, who are on a winning streak which has reached twelve straight in the American League, were beaten here this afternoon in an exhibition game with the local New England League entry, 9 to 7.

Dempsey Done With Fugazy; To Aid Chicago Promotions

By EDWARD J. NEIL
(Associated Press Sports Writer).

NEW YORK, May 27 (A.P.).—That husky young veteran who still snares the imagination of the fight multitudes, Promoter Jack Dempsey, brought the second chapter of his box fighting career to a close with a bang today.

Without any preliminaries or even a warm up controversy, the former heavyweight champion severed his promotional connections with Humbert J. Fugazy, announced his decision to move his activities westward, and started a mild flirtation with the powers that be at Madison Square Garden, his first love in the nose-nudging industry.

Dempsey's severance of relations with Fugazy, once the foremost rival of the old man mauler's patron, the late Tex Rickard, was as abrupt as his declaration that he is about to move upon Chicago for the promotion of bouts through next fall and winter in the Chicago Coliseum, former stamping ground of Promoter Jim Mullen.

Jack separated in all friendliness with Fugazy after two months of partnership in which the combination failed to secure a single match. In a statement made public by his lawyers, Dempsey said his contract became null and void when the Italian promoter failed to acquire a major open air arena by May 25, two months after the partnership was formed. Fugazy, the other half of the self-styled "pair of Jacks," did not know a thing about it, and at first refused to believe that Dempsey had taken advantage of a technicality in their agreement.

Dempsey explained that his entire connection Fugazy was based on the supposition that the Polo Grounds, home of the New York Giants, could be leased for the staging of several huge outdoor shows this summer. The Garden not only rented the Polo Grounds, but also tied up the Yankee Stadium, only other major outdoor size in Manhattan, as well, leaving the new combination with a set of ambitious plans and no place to carry them out.

Dempsey to Promote Semimonthly Bouts at Chicago Coliseum.

Beginning in October, Dempsey said he would promote a boxing card every two weeks through the winter in the Coliseum. He said the lease of Mullen, one of the most prominent Midwestern promoters, expired this month. He has accepted an offer made him by the Coliseum owners.

In comparison to the sudden termination of relations with Fugazy, Jack's opening of negotiations with Bill Carey, successor to Rickard as the Garden president and partner of Dempsey in the promotion of Jack Sharkey's winning stand against young Stribling in Miami Beach last winter, was far more quiet. He slipped away in the afternoon for a long talk with Carey, who bid unsuccessfully against Fugazy for Dempsey's services.

Dempsey refused to talk about his visit to the Garden, but winked a loud and knowing wink when asked about it.

"You must not be a bit surprised about anything I do," he grinned. He was assured that no one would be."

Pirates Beat Cards, 10-1; Now Second in Race

St. Louis, Mo., May 27 (A.P.).—The Pittsburgh Pirates slugged their way to second place in the close National League race today by taking the third game of the series from the St. Louis Cardinals, 10 to 1. The Cards, who Saturday were in first place, now are in third place, a half game below the Pirates.

Petty was in form, allowing the Cards only seven hits. The visitors knocked Hallahan out of the box after three innings and were even more powerful against Sherdel, who relieved him. Grantham hit two homers. His first came in the third with two men on base and his second in the fifth with none on. High hit safely in his fifteenth consecutive game.

Philadelphia, May 27 (A.P.).—Ray Benge and Claude Willoughby pitched the Phillies to a double victory over the Boston Braves today by scores of 2 to 1 and 3 to 1. Willoughby, who allowed only seven scattered hits, had a shutout victory in the second game until Harper hit a homer in the ninth. Cantwell and Leverett, who relieved him in the eighth, were nicked for ten hits. Whitney hit a homer for the Phillies in the second game. Benge and Bob Smith had a keen hurling duel in the first game, Smith's wildness forcing in the winning run for the Phillies in the sixth inning, when he walked Friberg with the bases filled.

Reds Beat Cubs, 8 to 5, After Directors Meet

Cincinnati, Ohio, May 27 (A.P.).—The National League cellar occupants gave indications here today that they had not curled up passively for the remainder of the season, Cincinnati defeating the Cubs, 8 to 5, and thereby ending a string of nine defeats.

The Reds' victory followed a meeting of the club directors this morning. President C. J. McDiarmid, discussing the fate of Jack Hendricks, said it would not be wise for the Cincinnati Club to change managers at this time of the year, regardless of the poor showing Hendricks has made. Hendricks announced before the season started he would take all the blame, and likewise credit, for the position in which the Reds finished.

Big Ten Awaits Reaction of Expulsion

CHICAGO, May 27 (A.P.).—The Big Ten Conference athletic eruption, occasioned by the expulsion of Iowa, today had boiled down to silence and watchful waiting by member schools.

Iowa officials, professing to still be unenlightened as to specific causes of the disbarment, were preparing for an investigation and had invited Maj. John L. Griffith, conference athletic commissioner, to aid them. Griffith was to leave for Iowa City tonight.

Reports of impending action against other member schools, with Northwestern, Ohio State, Wisconsin, Minnesota and Michigan mentioned, remained unfounded. Maj. Griffith explained no action could be taken until the faculty committeee which penalized Iowa meets again and that no meeting of the body has been called.

While Iowa officials, students and alumni were professing bewilderment over the decision, Griffith declared the action "was not the result of sudden and unexpected disclosures, but was occasioned by a situation of which there had been general knowledge for some time." He said Iowa had been warned long ago to conform to the rules of the conference and since the order had not been taken seriously, only one course was open.

Griffith also definitely said today that Iowa's schedules until January 1, 1930, would be completed. Should the Hawkeyes finish at the top of the organization in football next fall they would be considered conference champions.

Griffith's Arrival Today Awaited by Iowa Officials

Iowa City, Iowa, May 27 (A.P.).—Arrival of Maj. John L. Griffith, Big Ten athletic commissioner, here tomorrow was expected by University of Iowa officials tonight to clarify the reasons for the school's ouster from the Wetsern Conference.

Hope was expressed in athletic quarters here that revelation of the exact charges against the university might result in their rectification, with eventual readmittance of the school into the Big Ten.

Decision to ask Griffith to reveal the accusation regarding subsidizing of athletes was made by the athletic council last night, while the home of Prof. Paul E. Belting, resigned director of athletics, was being rotten-egged by students. Belting, who was asked to withdraw from his post last March, had charged that President Walter A. Jessup was to blame for the university's dismissal from the conference.

President Jessup today ignored the accusations of Belting and expressed his faith in E. H. Lauer, Belting's successor. They have announced that a thorough investigation will be made of the charges.

Maj. Griffith will be asked to join in the inquiry with a complete housecleaning in view, if unfavorable conditions are found.

Gavuzzi Cuts Lead Of Salo in Foot Race

By today's victory Gavuzzi sliced 34 minutes and 20 seconds from the total elapsed time lead of Johnny Salo, Passaic, N. J., policeman, who finished fifth in 3:58 Salo's lead is 42 minutes and 30 seconds. Herbert Hedeman, New York, finished second in today's lap in 3:51:05.

TIGERS DROP 2 GAMES TO WHITE SOX

Lose First, 7-4, and Second in 14 Innings by 6-5 Count.

CHICAGO, May 27 (A.P.).—The White Sox gave a great exhibition of coming from behind today to take both games of a double-header. A late rally gave them the opener by a 7-to-4 count, while they pulled out the second game, 6 to 5, in a fourteen-inning struggle.

The Sox came from behind to tie up the second game by Bill Cissell's home run in the ninth inning after Earl Whitehill had let them down with one hit for the first seven frames. Each team scored once in the twelfth inning and again in the thirteenth to keep the battle on even terms.

Thomas' Single Drives Over Winning Run in 14th Inning.

Tommy Thomas, the fourth pitcher for the Sox, drove in the winning run with his single over second in the fourteenth. It brought in Hunnefield, who had walked and stolen second. Autry also got a homer for Chicago, the only hit off Whitehill until he weakened in the eighth. Shea hit one for the Tigers.

CHURCHILL DOWNS RACE TRACK, Ky., My 27 (A.P.).—The McLean Stables consistent colt Silverdale won his fourth straight victory when he captured th' Eminence, the feature event on today's card. Martinique, from the Goose and Stewart Stable, was second, and Golden Racket was third. There were only five starters, Cash Play having been scratched.

Silverdale, off to a good start, assumed the lead at once and was never headed. He was allowed to race wide into the stre h and began to tire slightly at the end, but held on gamely to win by a neck. Martinique, racing nearer up than is her custom, saved ground on both turns and ran a good race, but could not catch the leader, finishing in second place with four lengths to spare. Golden Racket, the contender during the early running, also came wide coming into the stretch and began to tire under punishment. He lasted to take third money with six lengths separating him from the rest of the field.

Silverdale's win enriched the McLean Stable $1,.150, and, being favorite, paid but $4.00 for a $2 ticket.

In Belmont Feature.

Belmont Race Track, N. Y., May 27 (A.P.).—George D. Widener's Arcturur, second choice in the betting, scored in a sentational finish in the Rock Sand purse, fourth race on the card, here today. It was a mile and a sixteenth gallop and he ran it n 1:46. Green Tree Stable's Cherry Pie was second and J. E. Widener's Indigo third. It was a very interesting race all the way.

Indigo, Soul of Honor and Arcturus ran head and head f r the first seven furlongs, with Cherry Pie fourth, several lengths back. Arcturus ran into the lead in the stretch and appeared a sure winner, but inside the sixteenth pole Indigo and Cherry Pie both closed with a rush, but Arcturus, showing great gameness, came again to win by a head. Cherry Pie beat Indigo a length for the place.

Misstep Easily Triumphs

In Washington Handicap.

Washington Park, Chicago, May 27 (A.P.).—Lemar Stock Farm's colors were triumphant this afternoon when Misstep, with C. McCrossen up, captured the Washington Park Handicap, the main attraction of the opening day's program at Washington Park. Golden Prince was second and Cayuga finished third.

The 4-year-old son of Upset-St. Theresa was away to a good start, and soon assumed the lead, which he maintained easily and went under the wire eased up, winning by two lengths. Golden Prince ran a good race, but was not good enough to catch Misstep, finishing in second position three lengths ahead of Cayuga, who was the early leader, but weakened through the stretch. Cayuga was game enough, however, to hang on to take third place. The race carried a valuation of $5,510 to the winner and Misstep paid $4.80 to win. His time for the 6 furlongs was 1:12 1-5.

The secondary feature on the program, the Olympia Fields, an allowance race for 3-year-olds and up, saw the track record for a mile and 70 yards shattered when M. Deatherage's 4-year-old Montanaro, making his first start since Tia Juana, went the distance in 1:43 4-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—TURN OVER, $8.76, $7.86, $4.26; THE BAT, $12.34, $7.88; SOUTHLAND BOY, $4.04.

TURN OVER, well up from start, but racing in tight quarters, came around leaders on the turn and, continuing gamely, got up last few strides. THE BAT, also in close quarters first part of it, worked way up on inside, took a momentary lead midway of the stretch, but weakened when put to a drive. SOUTHLAND BOY, outrun first half mile, moved up strongly last eighth and finished strongest of all. ROXIE WEIDEL showed a good effort from a slow beginning. MY DAN tired as if short. DAR FUR made his usual belated rush near end, but was too far back.

SECOND RACE—Five furlongs. Purse, $1,260; claiming. For 2-year-old fillies. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 2:32. Off at 2:33. Winner, D. Breckenridge's b. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—FAIR ROSALIND, $4.56, $2.92, $2.38; BETTY ANN, $3.30, $2.54; VIEUX CARRE, $2.84.

FAIR ROSALIND was reserved closely behind the pace to well into the stretch where, responding, overhauled BETTY ANN to draw far out last sixteenth. Latter displayed good speed to the final sixteenth, where she swerved badly when tiring. VIEUX CARRE, outpaced to the turn, closed an immense gap last eighth. DUSKY MAIDEN gave an even effort. YOUTHFUL WIDOW went well most of the trip and only began tiring near end.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,200. For maiden 2-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:06. Off at 3:11. Winner, H. P. Whitney's b. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—LATCH KEY, $15.40, $4.80, $3.06; THE SHOW OFF, $8.50, $3.68; DOCTOR PARRISH, $2.56.

LATCH KEY raced under a stout restraint to far turn, slipped through between leaders entering stretch and, responding courageously, gradually wore leaders down. THE SHOW OFF, outrun first half mile, moved up determinedly when straightened out in stretch and got up to outstay DOCTOR PARRISH. Latter took command immediately after start, held on gamely while using all possible ground and would have been second but for being held in close quarters near the end. PEGGY MAC closed resolutely.

FOURTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,400; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:36. Off at 3:36. Winner, C. H. Thatcher's b. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—LILLIAN T., $11.86, $5.80, $5.72; MAIDEN'S TRYST, $5.86, $4.56; ALCMAN, $13.80.

LILLIAN T., far back first part of it, came with a rush approaching the turn and, lucky to get through, held her opposition safe in drive. MAIDEN'S TRYST saved much ground on inside and, when seemingly done, came again near end to outstay ALCMAN. Latter was interested part of the turn but came again strongly when clear.

FIFTH RACE—Six and one-half furlongs. Purse, $1,500; allowances. The Eminence. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:03. Off at 4:03. Winner, E. B. McLean's ch. c. (3), by The Porter—Margaret Ogden. Trained by J. F. Schorr. Value to winner, $1,150; second, $259.50; third, $148. Time, 0:23 2-5, 0:46 4-5, 1:12, 1:18 3-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—SILVERDALE, $4.00, $2.80, out; MARTINIQUE, $6.32, out; GOLDEN RACKET, out.

SILVERDALE began fast, was allowed to race wide into the stretch and, swerving the last eighth, just lasted to outgame MARTINIQUE. Latter, closer up than usual, saved much ground on both turns and was going strongly near end. GOLDEN RACKET also went wide on the stretch turn and was tiring through stretch under pressure.

SIXTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,200. For maiden 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:27. Off at 4:28. Winner, Audley Farm's b c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—FAIRDALE, $12.42, $7.26, 3.10; JESSIE CAREY, $5.58, $2.60; YUCATAN, $2.30.

FAIRDALE, forward from start and saving ground, shook off repeated challenges through stretch and, continuing gamely, drew out decisively. JESSIE CAREY was sent into contention soon after start, made a game bid at winner midway of the stretch when taken to inside, but was not good enough. YUCATAN, used up forcing early pace, tired badly in the drive. MARY GARDNER raced improved.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:59. Off at 5:00. Winner, M Goldblatt's b. c (4), by Peter Pan—Pageant. Trained by owner. Value to winner, $900; second, $227; third, $118. Time, 0:24, 0:48 1-5, 1:13 4-5, 1:40 2-5, 1:54 1-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—SESQUI, $7.68, $4.56, $3.16; MARGATE, $4.92, $3.20; SPOTLIGHT, $3.02.

SESQUI raced into a long lead first quarter and, continuing well under clever rating, easily held MARGATE safe. Latter followed winner throughout under steadying restraint and, although closing some ground through stretch, could not seriously threaten winner. SPOTLIGHT began slowly and far back to stretch, came with a belated rush on outside to take third position in last few strides. MOUNT LOGAN had no excuses.

CURATE sprinted into a long lead in first half mile, but tired suddenly and just lasted to win. SUN VIR was bothered at the start when ALTITUDE interfered with him, saved ground and finished with a rush. He would have won in a few more strides. DAIL, well up, had no excuse. LISA finished fast. HOLIDAY quit badly.

FOURTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,500 added. The Rock Sand. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:55. Off at 3:56. Winner, G. D. ARCTURUS, on outside entire trip, took lead on stretch turn, but weakened in last sixteenth, then came again and got up to win. CHERRY PIE, outrun first six furlongs, closed gamely, got to the front inside the sixteenth pole, but hung badly. INDIGO had plenty of speed, but tired as if short. He was in close quarters right at end.

FIFTH RACE—Four and one-half furlongs (Widener course). Purse, $1,000. For maiden 2-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place, easily. Went to post at 4:21. Off at 4:23½. Winner, Catawba Stable's ch. c. (2), by Johnren—Mabel Trask. Trained by T. J. Tault. Value to winner, $700; second, $200; third, $100. Time, 0:53 1-5.

VETERANS EXTENDED IN CITY TENNIS TOURNAMENT

Welsh Beaten In Two Sets By Judd

BERNARD WELSH, youthful Western High School ranking tennis star, stepped out of the City of Washington men's tennis singles championship competition as swiftly yesterday as he had gained sensational recognition the day previous by eliminating Bob Considine, District Public Parks champion. Dean Judd conquered the boy hero in two hard-fought sets late yesterday, 9—7, 6—3.

Welsh was the same stubborn youth on the courts in the first set. His older opponent brought greater stamina into play and finally wore down the ambitious schoolboy ace. Judd had previously defeated Del Rosio in a second-round match.

All first-round men's doubles matches will be played today according to the previously published schedule. Two fourth-round singles contests are also carded, in which Tom Mangan and Dooley Mitchell, two of the chief title contenders, will participate.

Yeoman Defeats Burwell; Charest Pressed to Win.

Youth had another good day. Patrick J. Deck gave the veteran former District champion, Clarence M. Charest, a real battle before yielding in three sets. Clyde Yeomans, the North Carolina U. netman, showed improved form in defeating Bob Burwell in three sets, 6—4, 1—6, 6—4. Charest scored his third-round victory by 6—2, 5—7, 6—2.

Del Rosario fell a victim to Dean Judd in the only remaining second round match. The victory placed Judd in position to meet Bernard Welsh, the Western High School ranking star, who yesterday appeared out of obscurity to defeat Bob Considine, the District Public Parks champion.

In defeating Miss Virginia Irwin, 6—0, 6—1, in a second round match, Mrs. Charles E. Merry, former Maritime champion of the Province of Canada and a newcomer here from Chester, N. S., furnished the outstanding exhibition among the women singles contenders. Miss Josephine Dunham and Mrs. Ruth Marinez advanced to the fourth round by virtue of victories over Miss Mary Detwiler and Miss Elizabeth Moore, respectively.

Allen Steuby, Maj. J. H. Hills and Fred Doyle also withstood competition of the third round. William Seidel fell before Saubly. Henry Staunton was the victim of Maj. Hills, and Herman gave Doyle stubborn resistance before yielding in straight sets, 7—5, 6—2.

MEN'S EVENTS.

Yesterday's results—Judd defeated Del Rosario, 6—2, 6—3; Allen Staubly defeated William Seidel, 6—4, 6—1; Maj. Hills defeated Saunders, 6—0, 6—2; G. Yoemans defeated Burwell, 6—4, 1—6, 6—4; Mangan defeated C. Smith, 6—4, 6—4; Charest defeated Deck, 6—2, 5—7, 6—2; O'Neil defeated Moncure, 6—0, 6—3; F. Doyle defeated Herman, 7—5, 6—2; Martinez defeated Byrne, 8—6, 6—1; Edge defeated Kaufman, 6—3, 6—0; Mitchell defeated Howenstein, 6—3, 3—6, 6—0; Judd defeated Welsh, 9—7, 6—3; Ladd defeated Thomas, 9—7, 6—4; Haas defeated Garnett, 8—0, 2—6, 7—5; Shore defeated O'Brien, 6—2, 6—1.

Today's schedule—3 p. m., Shepherd vs. Mitchell; 3:30, Mangan vs. Martinez; 4, all first round doubles matches as previously announced.

WOMEN'S SINGLES.

Yesterday's results—Mrs. Charles E. Merry defeated Miss Virginia Irwin, 6—0, 6—1; Josephine Dunham defeated Mary Detwiler, 6—0, 3—6, 6—2; Ruth Martinez defeated Elizabeth Moore, 6—2, 6—2; Kingsbury defeated Wilhelmsen, 6—3, 7—5.

No matches scheduled today.

PAIRINGS FOR MIXED DOUBLES.

Welsh and Considine vs. Wymore and Hubbard; Atkins and Baetzner vs. King and partner; Judd and Judd vs. Rowan and Rowan; Judd and Hill vs. Wilhelmsen and Gober; Smith and Smith vs. Shelling and Deck.

FAVORITE TO WIN WOMEN'S TITLE

high ranking Canadian player whose early victories in the women's singles of the City of Washington tennis championships, being held at the public courts, Sixteenth and Kennedy streets, have stamped her a dangerous contender for the title.

Two Broken Legs Fail to End Sandlot Career of Ross Fisher

TWO years ago Ross Fisher, veteran sandlot pitcher, received two broken legs in an automobile accident and it was taken for granted in sandlot circles that his baseball days were ended. Although Fisher had the sympathy of all sandlot players in his misfortune, there were doubtless many who were glad that they would not be called upon to face his left-handed speed ball in the future. Fisher had had his day. He had helped to pitch the famous Knickerbockers to victory after victory and was quitting the game at a ripe old baseball age. Fisher's fast inside curve was to be a memory.

The other day, Fisher was on the Monument Grounds. Not in a wheel chair nor as a spectator. Fisher was in a baseball suit and no wonder the sandlot veterans rubbed their eyes. A little larger around the waist and a little unsteady afoot, but with that same left arm that years ago made the Georgetown boys put their "foot in the bucket." Fisher proceeded to pitch for the Chestnut Farms Dairy Team against Thompson's Dairy in the Industrial League.

Given a one-run lead in the first, Fisher began reeling off scoreless innings. It was not until the seventh that Thompson's could score off the veteran. With the game over and Fisher and Chestnut Farms a 7-to-2 winner, the box score showed seven hits off Fisher and eleven strikeouts and six assists to his credit. He walked three.

Receiving congratulations from the sandlotters after the game, Fisher was willing to talk only of the one hit he made.

FISHERMAN'S LUCK

ALTHOUGH local anglers have been casting baited hooks in local and nearby waters for a matter of five weeks or more and some have reported real success, the customary opening of the fishing season, that is, when the real orgy begins, is not due until Thursday, Decoration Day, when thousands of District fishermen will seek the elusive finny tribe.

Early spring sportsmen, particularly those who have taken week-end fishing trips, have been in the majority of cases disappointed, as for about six consecutive Sundays the heavens have conspired with the fish to make their capture more difficult.

The rainy Sundays naturally have hampered the sport throughout the week but like all things this doleful tale must have an end and the climax to this is that rivermen and veteran anglers state that water conditions promise much for angling for the remainder of the week.

Sunday was a poor day in the upper Potomac but boatmen in that vicinity stated last night that the current is becoming normal and by Thursday the perch and rock, which are reported to be in abundance this season, should give the fishermen thrill aplenty.

Large Catches Reported At Solomons Island.

Fishing in the salty areas has been far more productive than a year ago, when many were about ready to admit that there were "no fish in the sea." Old timers along the Maryland and Virginia shores are predicting a banner year. Trout and channel bass are being caught with regularity at these points, while rock and striped bass are being hauled in at several points along the Chesapeake.

Solomons Island, which afforded fishermen with sport with consistency last season when other favorite spots appeared barren, is reported to be again abounding in sea life. Last week there were numerous reports of large catches of sizable rock, one of which is reported to have been nearly 3 feet in length and 12 pounds in weight.

Decoration Day will mark the opening of the bass season here and officials in charge of the fishing arrangements at the Tidal Basin have prepared for a record throng who are expected to angle for the bass that have had practically a two-year vacation from baited hooks. All last season water and weather conditions were such that the anglers had less than half a dozen days of worth while bass fishing.

A new boathouse has been built at the basin and sufficient boats are on hand for all who desire to row out in the placid waters to cast their lines. Bait may be purchased at the boathouse, as can refreshments, &c.

Judging from reports that have come in, the best bets for fishing Thursday are: Copel Point, Solomons Island, Rock Point, Benedict and Herring Bay.

ST. JOES DRILL.

St. Josephs drill tomorrow on the Plaza diamond at 5 o'clock in preparation for next Sunday's game. All players are requested to report.

Larkin Makes 17 Pars For 68 at Chevy Chase

June Larkin, assistant professional at the Chevy Chase Club, yesterday played that course with a remarkable score of 34 out and 34 in for a total of 68—one stroke under par.

His card, which does not contain a single 2 or 5, shows 17 holes played in exactly par figures, with a birdie on the eighth, and was as follows:

Out .....4 4 4 3 4 4 4 4 3—34
In .....3 4 4 3 4 4 4 4 4—34—68

Clark Enters Marathon At Freeport on June 8

Haskell F. Clark, local runner, will represent the Knights of Columbus in the Sunrise Highway modified marathon, to be run Saturday, June 8, at Freeport, Long Island.

Clark was the first Washington runner to finish in the City Club marathon recently and hopes to better his showing in his next effort. The run is under the auspices and sanctioned by the Metropolitan Association and A. A. U.

ATHLETES ARE OUT WITH TALKIES HERE

there occurre words which could not be expunged from the record and which certainly could not be presented for the approval of any board of censors. So the reeling would begin all over only to be marred by some shouted remark from one of the other athletes playing nearby. And, finally, when the athletes had all been cautioned to speak with the greatest reserve and the filming began again, there was a rush from the side lines and a customer dashed up, asking the athlete to autograph a baseball, whereat he yelled, "Get the hell out of here."

The profession of journalism still remains open to the boys, of course, because they are all absentee journalists and commit their literature with the irreducible minimum of talent and effort. Mr. Dempsey testified on the witness stand that he wrote without volition on a typewriter several thousand miles away on a topic that he had never heard of, through the intermediary of a ghost. Perhaps the time will come when literature will be broadcast through television, in which case the field of literature also will be closed to the champions in various lines of sport. When that time comes the championship will be much less lucrative than they are at present and the boys and the girls, too, will be reduced to defending their titles for their revenue.

Mellon Trophy Sought By Department Golfers

The largest field of golfers ever to seek the Andrew Mellon trophy, emblematic of the team championship of the Interdepartmental Golf League, will compete in the annual tournament over the Manor Club course next Monday and Tuesday. Forty four-man team entries were submitted to the league board of governors at a meeting yesterday at the Treasury Building.

Entries from the Navy and Commerce Departments, Government Printing Office, Shipping Board and Tariff Commission have not been filed. These must be filed Wednesday when a second meeting will be held in room 180 of the Treasury at 4:45 o'clock.

PIGEON OWNER SOUGHT.

F. S. Key Smith, 704 the Woodley, 1851 Columbia road northwest, is hunting the owner of a carrier pigeon which last night flew into his home exhausted apparently from a long flight. The pigeon is identified by a silver band on its right leg on which is inscribed "B. A. L. 5337 1928," and also has a blank brass band on its left leg.

BLACK SOX TO PLAY.

The Washington Black Sox will meet the Myrtle A. C. in a double-header Decoration Day and on Sunday will face the St. Joseph's A. C. in two games. Both attractions are scheduled at Union Park, Fifteenth and H streets northeast, starting at 2:30 o'clock.

The Return of OLD KING BRADY

THE BRADYS AFTER "BAD MAN BROWN."

In chapter two Badger Bill Smith offers to fight Ginger Joe and takes advantage of the latter, infuriating Old King Brady, who proceeds to knock him out in a fair fight, and wins the admiration of the crowd. Pedro's sister Inez rushes in followed by Bad Man Brown. Old King Brady accuses him of Benjamin's murder.

CHAPTER THREE.
POLITICS IN SUNFLOWER CITY.

"WELL, Mr. Brady," said Keen Carter, "what do you think of the chances we hev agin Barton Brown?"

"So far as that goes," said the old detective, "our chances are quite good. In fact, in an ordinary community I should arrest my man at once. But I can see that it would not do here, for there is a powerful element thoroughly in sympathy with Brown. Our only chance is to get complete evidence and turn sentiment against him."

The detective's reasoning was correct. Bad Man Brown was merely looked upon as a partner in crime, by part of the citizens, the other half lacked the moral force to overcome this sentiment. It looked as if the game would be one of politics as well as force.

Politics in a Western mining community are rather intricate. Keen Carter had held the job of mayor and chief of vigilants for a year. Previous to this there had been six incumbents in as many months. All of these were now sleeping quietly in the Sunflower Cemetery. Carter alone had held his own against the "ring." He had displayed the most absolute and reckless courage. But now that Barton Brown had suddenly decided to take a hand in politics it was predicted by Carter's foes that he must go.

The gritty mayor had no intention of yielding. Now that he had enlisted the aid of the Bradys he felt confident of ultimately "turning down" Brown and his gang.

"Waal, pards, we understand each other. It's likely there'll be hot work in Sunflower in a few days. Jest keep yer eyes peeled an' hang together, an' if we don't win out we'll die with our boots on."

"Well said, friend Carter," said Old King Brady. "But we'll live through it, all right."

"Well, Harry," said Old King Brady. "It looks as if we might get the murderer of Luther Benjamin, after all."

"So we have, boy. The next thing is to catch him."

"Well, let's get some sleep now. First though, let us see if we have good bolts on our door. It would be unpleasant to have some sneaking foe creep in upon us during the night." With a slight wrench Harry had removed the bolt and its entire socket, as he spoke. "By jingo! what do you think of that?" The screws had been cut and the lock would have been of no use. It was easy for the Bradys to comprehend the narrowness of their escape.

"It looks as if we might have some visitors before mo ning," said Harry. "It makes me feel creepy."

Old King Brady reflected a moment. "I have it!" he cried finally. "We will meet these yellow dogs halfway!" He took one of the candles from the shelf, went to the rude stone fireplace and rubbed some of the candle-grease into the soot. Then he traced on the outside of the door the following:

"To the Sneaking Coyote that Comes this Way: Fair Warning! Death is behind this Door!"

Then he closed the door, drew the cot up in front of it, and soon both the detectives were sound asleep upon it. Their sleep was not disturbed.

When they went down to breakfast the Bradys saw a number of miners lounging about and there was an air of suppressed excitement. Outside men were galloping about excitedly on bronchos. In the distance came the blare of a brass band. Jeff, in the goodness of his heart informed them it was election day, and warned them that it was a bad day for tenderfoots and they had better find business somewhere outside of Sunflower City for the day. Keen Carter was to be run out of office, it seemed.

"A caucus will be held at Jeff Colton's Alhambra on Wednesday at 10 o'clock to elect candidates for mayor and city offices.

"Per order TOWN COMMITTEE. People's Party."

As they came out of the dining room a man handed them a slip of paper on which was printed:

"Vote for Barton Brown, The Only Candidate."

The streets were now black with miners, and from far and near all the available men had flocked to the caucus. Most of them were pledged to the Brown standard because they knew no other.

Ginger Joe came up and greeted the detectives. In answer to their inquiry about Carter, he informed them the mayor would be there when the caucus opened.

The crowd began to pile into the Alhambra. A moderator was quickly chosen—no other than Gospel Jake. When he announced nominations were in order, Badger Bill sprang up. "I nominate ther Hon. Barton Brown, ther squarest man an' ther most respectable citizen we hev got. I call on ye all to support this man as ther patron of free government an' ther friend of ther miner."

In an instant there was an uproar in the hall. When they had somewhat subsided the Badger, with sweeping gestures, went on with the nominating speech. At the close of his speech there was a mad rush for the bar, and not until after hundreds of glasses of whisky had been absorbed was there a chance for the taking of a ballot. Of course, this resulted in the choice of Brown for the party's candidate.

Carter had already been nominated on the opposition ticket and there was nothing to do now until election day, a week off.

The detectives all this time had kept in the background. They were not courting trouble. Ginger Joe was downhearted about it, but there was a stubborn light in old King Brady's eyes.

"Desperate cases require a desperate remedy," said the old detective. "It is always best to fight a foe with his own weapons. If we are going to beat Brown we have got to do it at his own game."

Ginger Joe looked thoughtful. "By jingo! I see it, too. Let somebody nominate you for mayor agin Brown and you would win hands down. People's party an' Sunflower would be on earth agin. Whoop-la!" The excited miner forgot himself and fairly yelled these last words.

A Declaration of War.

They were hardly out of his mouth before Badger turned. It was like tossing a match to inflammable material. Up went the desperado's hand and his pistol cracked. One shot smashed a bottle on the bar. The second shattered the cobwebs over the old detective's hat. The third went through Old King Brady's head. The fourth—but that was never fired.

Crack! With a yell of agony the Badger held his hand up. The revolver went flying across the room. Old King Brady with lightning aim had struck the revolver of the desperado at the butt and shattered one of his fingers. The old detective quietly replaced his pistol as if nothing had happened.

The denizens of Sunflower City were rough, lawless men. But they could respect superior mental and physical force. This was the second time Old King Brady had displayed this faculty to them.

The Badger was nursing his injured hand, when suddenly into the barroom strode a familiar figure. Brown walked directly to the bar. He flung down a coin. "Whisky!" he said tersely.

He drank a copious draught and then glared at the Badger. "What's the matter with ye?" he demanded.

"That's good! You git out of this town afore twelve hours, or you'll be unable to git out. This place ain't big enough for you an' me!" Brown strode toward the door.

"Stop!" Mechanically, Brown whirled about.

"I want to tell you that I intend to leave this town only when you do. If I am carried out in a box, you will be treated the same," said Old King Brady. "I'll meet you halfway every time. That means war."

"As we will," said Bad Man Brown. "I'm ready." Then he walked out of the room.

"Come," said the detective to Harry and Ginger Joe. "Let's go find Carter."

So they left the barroom and passed down the main street of the town to Keen Carter's cabin. They knocked on the door, but there was no response. Just then a passing miner stopped and said:

"Yes!" replied Old King Brady.

The words had barely left his lips when a startling cry came from Ginger Joe.

BOND PRICES SWING TO LOWEST LEVELS

FOREIGN LOANS WEAKER

New York, May 27 (A.P.).—Bonds maintained their downward course today and the close saw numerous new lows, notably in the railroad and United States Government divisions of the list. Price averages, for the fifth consecutive day, sank to a new minimum, although the decrease was the smallest since the Associated Press composite figures passed below the March level last Wednesday.

Demand for the better grade securities was virtually at a standstill. Banks are reported to be largely out of the market for the reason that they already have losses on bonds purchased at the bottom of the early spring slump and prefer to await a clearing of the present situation before making further substantial commitments. The investing public, too, apparently prefers to disregard yields offered by numbers of well-rated bonds, and to follow the leadership of the larger purchasers.

Time money held at last week's rates, which were the highest since the financial crisis of 1907, except for a brief interval in 1920. The reparations situation was also credited with having some influence on bond prices, especially in the foreign list, which was noticeably soft.

With stocks on the toboggan, convertible securities were heavy. American Telephone 4½s led the downward procession, dipping 3½ points to the new low of 119¼, contrasted with a high of 142. American I. G. Chemicals surrendered 1¼, while Commercial Investment Trust 5½s and International Telephone 4½s sold off 1⅝ and 2¾, respectively.

Offerings of rails were for the most part small and prices were whittled off because of lack of interest rather than because substantial liquidation was in progress in this group. Issues making new lows included Great Northern 7s and 4½s, Illinois Central Refunding 4s, Missouri, Kansas & Texas Adjustment 5s, Prior Lien 5s and Prior Lien 4s, New York Central Refunding 5s and Consolidated 4s, Pennsylvania Gold 4½s, Texas & Pacific 5s and Union Pacific 4½s.

Two of the Liberty bonds also touched new bottoms on liberal selling. The 3½s were off nearly ¼ and the first 4½s sagged ¾.

Industrials and utilities showed scattered price changes, but the trend was irregularly lower. Transactions in both groups, however, were small.

Foreign government bonds have lost ground generally, although French Republic 7s were firm at a fraction above Saturday's close on the largest turnover in this section of the list. Argentine government 5s resisted the general downward trend and moved up 2 points.

BANKERS' PROGRAM PRAISED BY WRITER

BOND TRADING EXPANDS

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Praise for the program of the eleventh annual convention of the District of Columbia Bankers Association at Montauk Point, Long Island, N. Y., is contained in the May issue of the United States Investor, which compliments the association for consideration of three practical banking problems, credit departments, secondary reserve and bank committees.

"The District of Columbia Bankers Association has very definite notions on the subject of annual conventions," the magazine states, "which means that these gatherings shall have all of the pleasant features of an outing and this year, as last, the convention will be held far beyond the confines of the District, out on the extreme end of Long Island, N. Y., at Montauk Beach.

"It believes, however, that the convention do something for the practical problems of banking and it has chosen three general lines of discussion which will appeal to bankers everywhere. These three general topics are: Secondary reserve of banks, relations of loan and other committees to the boards of the bank and functions of the credit department.

"The choice of the one who is to discuss each of these problems has been very carefully made. On the subject of the secondary reserve, the speaker will be Henry H. McKee, who, besides being president of the National Capital Bank and well known to bankers everywhere for the helpful contracts he has enabled the American Bankers Association to maintain with members of the committees of Congress, is chairman of a principal committee of the Washington Clearing House. As such he has seen how many bank men fail to realize what should be the correct type of investments for a secondary reserve of any bank and his address will be a very practical paper.

"On the subject of relation of loan and other committees to the board of directors of banks, the speaker will be Robert V. Fleming, president of Riggs National Bank and president also of the District of Columbia Bankers' Association. Mr. Fleming will discuss the all too common practice among banks of letting a single individual dominate the situation, instead of getting the full benefit of a bank, of the entire membership of committees.

"John Poole, president of the Federal-American National Bank, will discuss the credit department. Mr. Poole has a forward-looking policy regarding credit departments, believing that the practice of requiring operating statements should become more common among banks; and he is even inclined to the belief that auditors from banks should be more generally permitted to have intimate knowledge of the affairs of large borrowers.

"All of these are intensely practical papers and the program of the District of Columbia Bankers Association may well be commended to the other conventions which are to gather this year."

E. J. McQuade, vice president and assistant trust officer, Liberty National Bank, said yesterday it would be of interest to the banking institutions in the District doing a trust and fiduciary business, to know that a new code has been enacted in New York which represents the greatest reform in the law of property and decendent estates in that State in the past hundred years.

Important among the substantive changes, he explained, is the removal of obsolete distinctions in dealing between real estate and personal property as assets of an estate; a uniform system of descent and distribution; a new bill of rights for women as regards distribution of property and intestacy; wider grants of power of sale of real estate to executor and trustee and simplified proceedure for fiduciaries.

"Those of us who heard Mr. Theodore F. Cogswell, register of wills of the District of Columbia, at a recent meeting of the fiduciaries section of the District of Columbia Bankers Association," said Mr. McQuade, "will recall that he recommended several changes in the probate laws of this jurisdiction, one having particular reference to shortening the period of administration and the other to the investing of trust funds.

"The suggestion of Mr. Cogswell that steps be taken to correct the defects in the laws of estates of the District of Columbia might well be heeded at this time to meet present-day conditions and remove the many restraints that now exist with reference to distribution of estates, particularly where persons die leaving small estates and including real property."

Reserve Board's Report.

Declines for the week of $151,000,000 in loans and investments, $329,000,000 in net demand deposits and $12,000,000 in borrowings from Federal Reserve Banks were revealed yesterday in the Federal Reserve Board's condition statement of weekly reporting member banks in 101 leading cities on May 22.

Loans on securities declined $77,000,000 at all reporting banks, $50,000,000 in the New York district, $10,000,000 in the Chicago district and $6,000,000 in the Philadelphia district. "All other" loans declined $15,000,000 in the New York district, $11,000,000 in the Chicago district and $36,000,000 at all reporting banks.

Capital Traction Income.

Net income of the Capital Traction Co. for the month of April was $68,-451.22, its statement of operations filed yesterday with the Public Utilities Commission shows. This was a decrease of $3,636.76 under the preceding month and one of $3,053.63 under April, 1928.

The total net income of the company for the first four months of 1929 is $216,-386.29, a decrease of $25,885.17 under the corresponding period a year ago.

Freight Cars on Order.

Freight cars on order on May 1, 1929, by the railroads of this country totaled 44,429, compared with 22,242 on the same date last year, according to reports received yesterday from the carriers by the car service division of the American Railway Association. On April 1, this year, 42,561 freight cars were on order.

Of the freight cars on order on May 1, 1929, reports showed 19,579 were box cars, an increase of 11,178 compared with the same date last year. Coal cars for which orders have been placed number 20,040, an increase of 13,035 compared with the number of such cars on order on May 1, last year.

B. & O. Net Income Gains.

A net railway operating income for April of $3,519,290 against $3,094,650, a gain of $424,640 over the month last year, was reported yesterday by the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Co. For the first four months of the present year a net railway operating income of $12,740,861 was reported, a gain of $3,403,845 over the same comparative period last year.

Waller to Be Named President.

Wilmer J. Waller, vice president of the Federal-American National Bank, has now been in the banking business for nearly 23 years, starting with the old American National Bank and joining the Federal-American National Bank at the time of the consolidation of the two institutions.

Mr. Waller is first vice president of the District of Columbia Bankers Association, and according to its policy will be elected president at the coming convention of the association in June.

Bond Sales Move Upward.

The upward trend of bond sales on the Washington Stock Exchange which became apparent Thursday continued through the week's opening session yesterday when the total of transactions reached $14,500, a $4,000 advance from Saturday. The tone of the stock market was generally improved, sales of 361 shares being recorded, an increase of 107 over the week-end session.

The Washington Gas Light bonds, series A and B and the 5s, were the popular issues. There was a $6,000 turnover in the 5s at 99¼, one of $2,000 in the A bonds at 102, and one of $500 in the Bs at 103½, fractional recessions. Real Estate Mortgage & Guaranty preferred led the stock trading in volume, 100 shares moving at 7½, last sale price. Mergenthaler Linotype followed, 59 shares selling at fractional gains over last sale figure, 106¼. There were small sales of Riggs National Bank, American Security & Trust Co. and Union Trust Co., at 577, 456, and 340 and 335 respectively.

Erskine Report Is Denied.

The persistent rumor in financial circles that the Studebaker Corporation is planning to discontinue the Erskine line was emphatically denied yesterday by Paul G. Hoffman, vice president.

"The small car is not being pushed as it was in 1927 and 1928 because of the great increase in the more profitable eight-cylinder business," he said. "We are selling at the rate of 30,000 Erskines per year, nevertheless."

GILLIGAN INDORSED TO SERVE AGAIN ON EDUCATIONAL BOARD

ENGINEER ADVOCATES WIDER 13TH STREET

Midcity and Georgetown Associations Also Discuss Civic Plans.

Henry Gilligan last night received the unanimous endorsement of members of the North Capitol Citizens Association for reappointment as a member of the Board of Education. Two other citizens' organizations also met.

Mr. Gilligan's three-year term as a member of the Board of Education expires in June. The resolution adopted by the association will be sent to the justices of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, who make the appointments to the Board of Education. The association, which holds its meetings in the new McKinley High School, adjourned until next September. Mrs. Harriet Lawless presided.

Street Widening Urged.

Capt. H. C. Whitehurst, coordinator and chief engineer of the District of Columbia, declared the exigencies of traffic and the growth of Washington's business district make it imperative that Thirteenth street northwest be widened to the present width of its downtown area within the next few years, over its entire length. Capt. Whitehurst spoke before the Midcity Citizens Association at the meeting held last night in the Thomson School.

Capt. Whitehurst, in explaining the efforts made by the local Government to provide better streets and sidewalk facilities, declared the District of Columbia spends annually less than one-tenth as much as other cities of the same size for the widening and improvement of its streets.

L. J. Simmons was appointed chairman of a committee composed of Michael Mahaney and Joe High to inquire of property holders on Thirteenth street northwest between Massachusetts avenue and Iowa Circle whether they favor the widening of this arterial highway between these two points, as has recently been proposed.

Finance Program Endorsed.

A resolution, introduced by A. J. Driscoll, president of the association, indorsing the five-year finance program for the District as outlined by Maj. Daniel J. Donovan, District auditor, was passed unanimously.

Plans were formulated at the meeting of the Georgetown Citizens Association in the Potomac Bank Hall, Wisconsin avenue and M street northwest, to participate in the regional convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars which convenes here Thursday. John Paul Jones, secretary of the organization, announced he was preparing a history of the association, the oldest in the city, to be read at the convention.

Representative Ross A. Collins, of Mississippi, who made the principal address, told members of the association he would aid them in their fight to obtain a number of local improvements, in the next Congress.

Townsend Bid Is Valid Despite His Senatorship

The fact that Senator John G. Townsend, jr., of Delaware, is president of the Highway Improvement and Construction Co., will not make any difference in the signing of a contract by the District for street repair work to be done by that company, it was indicated by District officials yesterday.

The contract which has been awarded to the Delaware concern, but which has not been formally executed, was approved because the bid submitted by it was the lowest one received, it was said. Under the law the District must award contracts to the low bidder unless it can be proved that the bidder is not capable of fulfilling the contract. It is not unlawful for members of the Senate to be interested financially in public contracts let by the District, it was said, although senators may not be so interested in contracts with the Federal Government.

Divorce Suit Charges Cruelty to 3 Children

Charging cruelty and misconduct, John A. Graeber, of 31 Q street northeast, petitioned the District Supreme Court yesterday to grant him an absolute divorce from Naomi E. L. Graeber, of Winchester, Va., and custody of their three children.

The husband declared he was married to the defendant at Frederick, Md. on December 22, 1916. Cruel treatment of their children, the husband said, forced him to move with his children to the District in 1925. Through Attorney David A. Hart, the plaintiff charged that his wife is now living with another man, who was named corespondent.

BISHOP ADDRESSES SCHOOL GRADUATES

EXERCISES TO LAST WEEK

The spiritual quest by men of science and the spiritual idealism of American business in research work comprise the most remarkable development in the last 50 years, the Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Bishop of Washington, told the graduating class of St. Albans, the National Cathedral School for Boys, at its commencement in Bethlehem Chapel of Washington Cathedral yesterday afternoon.

The office for commencement was read by the Very Rev. G. C. F. Bratenahl, dean of Washington, the Rev. James Henderson, chaplain of St. Albans School, and Canons W. L. Devries and A. B. Rudd, of the Cathedral staff.

Bishop Freeman reminded the graduates and the entire membership of the school that distinction comes only through hard labor and that he did not know a single man occupying a position of eminence in the life of the Nation today who had not blazed his own trail to that post.

The candidates for graduation were presented to Bishop Freeman by William H. Church, headmaster of St. Albans School, who will close fifteen years of service to that institution on July 1, his recent resignation taking effect at that time.

The seven graduates who received diplomas yesterday were all Washington boys and were as follows: Raymond Hitchings Carter, William Garfield Gallilher, John Wharton Hazard, Parker Haddaway Jones, Tyler Gatewood Kent, Charles Adrlance Rudd and Wilson Grubb Shugerman.

The rest of the program for the commencement week at St. Albans includes the annual field day on Thursday, with luncheon in the woods; the annual open air service at 4 p. m. at the Peace Cross, and the annual prize day on Monday, with final chapel at 9:30 a. m., followed by the public speaking contest and the award of prizes for the year.

Quarantine Is Topic Of Sanitary Bureau

Prevention of disease in international commerce and standardization of quarantine procedures occupied the attention of the Pan-American Sanitary Bureau at the opening of its sessions yesterday at the Pan-American Union.

Short talks were made by Dr. L. S. Rowe, director general of the Pan-American Union, Dr. Hugh S. Cumming, United States surgeon general, as director of the Pan-American Sanitary Bureau, and Dr. Mario G. Lebredo, of Havana, Cuba, as its vice director.

Other officers of the bureau, who also spoke, included Dr. Sebastian Lorente, of Lima, Peru; Dr. Solen Nunez, of San Jose, Costa Rica; Dr. Ramon Baoz Soler, of the Dominican Republic; Dr. Justo F. Gonzalez, of Uruguay; Dr. Joao Pedro de Albuquerque, of Brazil, and John D. Long, of the United States Public Health Service.

St. Elizabeth Patient Held for Grand Jury

John Herds, a patient at St. Elizabeth's Hospital, was held for the grand jury yesterday, following an inquest by a coroner's jury into the death of Edward C. Taylor, another patient at the hospital, who is reported to have been pushed to the floor by Herds.

The coroner's jury disclosed in its report that it was doubtful whether the injuries received by Taylor when he was pushed over were the direct cause of his death. Taylor received a fracture of the hip. Hospital authorities maintain that the fact that Taylor died after receiving the injury was a coincidence. No charge was placed against Herds, the coroner's jury deciding to send the case to the grand jury.

Public Must Use Fort Gate on Memorial Day

Persons going to Arlington National Cemetery on Memorial Day should go by way of the Key Bridge and enter the cemetery by the Fort Myer gate, Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police, announced yesterday. Pratt said he made the announcement at the request of Federal officials who would have charge of the memorial services, at which President Hoover will speak.

The Highway Bridge and the Military Road will be closed to general traffic as a means of getting to the cemetery, it has been decided. This is the route the President will use going to and from the services. The general public will be admitted to the cemetery only by way of the Fort Myer gate. This plan will be in effect throughout the day.

Picking Park Flowers Brings Arrest of Man

Clement B. Hilliard, 45 years old, of 404 A street southeast, was arrested yesterday morning on a charge of picking flowers in Potomac Park. He was taken to the First Precinct where he posted $10 collateral. Park Policeman L. D. Mason arrested him.

Capt. P. J. Carroll has issued an order to all his men to arrest all persons caught picking flowers in the parks. With the approach of Memorial Day Capt. Carroll said, many persons become lax in their observance of this perk regulation.

Suit Lays Love Tangle To Temporary Absence

Suit for absolute divorce was instituted against Mrs. Irene A. Owens, of 4913 Rock Creek Church road northwest, yesterday in the District Supreme Court by William A. Owens, who complained his wife transferred her affections to another man while he and their two children were absent from home because of illness of one child.

Through Attorney Henry Gilligan, the plaintiff declared he was married in Baltimore, Md., on October 28, 1921, and lived with his wife and children until a week ago. On last April 10, Owens stated, one of their children contracted scarlet fever and, as a precautionary measure, he and the children took up residence with his mother. They returned home on May 12, and he later discovered that his wife had been associating with another man during the month's forced separation, he said.

GEORGETOWN HOLDS MEMORIAL EXERCISE

Memorial exercises honoring the 54 graduates of Georgetown who died in the service of their country during the World War were held yesterday afternoon on the campus of Georgetown College.

Headed by the senior class in caps and gowns and the R. O. T. C. unit, the student body assembled in front of the Healy Building, where it was addressed by the dean, Rev. R. Rush Rankin, who served in France as chaplain of the Forty-seventh United States Infantry, Fourth Division of regulars, and was decorated for bravery in action. Music was furnished by the R. O. T. C. band.

Dean Rankin told the students they could best honor Georgetown's heroic dead by imitating their manly virtues. Above all, he cautioned them to practice in their home communities those qualities of patience, obedience and respect for authority that the men they had assembled to honor had exemplified in the service of the country.

Lieut. Col. Augustus F. Dannemiller, commandant at Georgetown, was in charge of the military review, the infantry battalion being commanded by Cadet Lieut. Col. Edward J. Kelley. Music was furnished by the cadet band and Bugler Joseph J. Grzebik sounded "taps."

The seniors at the Georgetown Law School will hold similar services Thursday morning at 10 o'clock in the law library for former students who gave their lives during the World War.

Foreign News Men Press Club Guests

Films of Capital Shown to Visitors During Reception.

A reception in honor of a number of distinguished foreign newspaper men was tendered by the National Press Club in its clubrooms last night. The United States Marine Band Orchestra played, and motion pictures of "Washington, Past, Present and Future" were shown the distinguished visitors, many of whom expressed themselves as "unbelievably impressed" with the marvelous development of the National Capital of the United States.

The visitors arrived from New York, and, after seeing the National Capital, will depart for Richmond, Va., on their tour of the United States under the patronage of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace.

The party includes:

J. Edwin Young, representing the Carnegie Endowmant for International Peace; Italy, Conte Leone Fumasone Biondi, of Milan; Signor Filippo Bojano, of Milan; Signor Salvatore Cortesi, of Rome; Jugoslavia, Dr. Paul Breznik, of Ljubljana; Latvia, Dr. Alfred Bihlmans, of Riga; Poland, M. Man's Will Leaves Cash To First, Second Wives

Edward Breck, formerly of Bradford, Pa., who died May 1, provided for his first wife as well as his widow and two daughters in his will filed for probate yesterday in the District Supreme Court.

The will leaves the bulk of the estate to his widow, Mrs. Mary Stanley Breck, with the provision that upon her death it go to his first wife, Mrs. Antoine Breck. In addition an annuity of $150 a month was bequeathed to his first wife. The will provides bequests of $2,000 to each of his daughters, Mrs. Ellen F. B. Macnee and Mrs. Margaret B. Miller. Provision also is made that in event of the death of Mrs. Antoine Breck the daughters are to divide the estate. Attorney Enoch A. Chase appeared for the estate.

Swallowing of Poison By Man Laid to Illness

He was taken to Casualty Hospital in the Eleventh Precinct patrol wagon. His condition was reported to be fair. Police reported that they were unable to find the bottle which contained the poison.

PRATT PLANNING NO ARRESTS CAMPAIGN TO END JAYWALKING

QUESTION BEING STUDIED IN SURVEY OF 35 CITIES

Jailing of Traffic Violators Among Pedestrians Urged by Business Club.

There will be no campaign of arrests of pedestrians for jaywalking if the decision is left to the Police Department, it was said yesterday.

"I see no necessity for a campaign at this time," Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police, said yesterday.

That the question is under serious study by District officials, however, is indicated by the fact that police officials have begun a canvass of 35 other cities to learn what is their practice. This inquiry was initiated at the order of Commissioner Proctor L. Dougherty, president of the Board of Commissioners.

Club Urges Arrests.

Arrest of pedestrians, who jaywalk, was urged on the Commissioners last week by the American Business Club of Washington, which was instrumental in initiating the recent effort of the police to educate pedestrians to cross the streets by way of cross walks in conformity with signal lights.

The present traffic law forbids jaywalking but the enforcement of this provision by means of arrests has fallen into the discard because the law does not provide any specific penalties and there is, apparently, a question as to just whether the general penalty for violation of the law's provisions applies to pedestrians.

Police officials, including Maj. Pratt, believe that jaywalking is a matter of serious importance and improper crossing of streets by pedestrians results in many unnecessary accidents. Eventually, they believe, some regulation will be necessary, but just what or when they are not prepared to say.

Prefer Autoist Curbing.

"I would rather see at this time," Pratt said, "a rigid and effective enforcement of the regulations forbidding motorists to encroach on the cross walks and those governing right-hand turns.

"What will be done about the matter is, of course, something for the District Commissioners to decide and the Police Department will carry out its orders, but I do not intend to recommend a campaign for arrests of pedestrians. Future developments, of course, may make another course advisable."

Wife Lets Office In Home; Is Sued

Husband Requests Divorce, Naming Contractor as Corespondent.

Eight years ago Mrs. Susan Eva Leland, of 420 Second street northwest, is alleged to have offered a jobbing contractor use of the reception hall and telephone facilities of her home as an office. The offer, it was said, was accepted and yesterday Allison W. Leland, of 610 H street northeast, instituted suit for absolute divorce against his wife in the District Supreme Court, naming the contractor as corespondent.

Leland said he disapproved of his wife's offer from the start and was greatly annoyed through the ensuing years to find the contractor coming to his "office" about the time that he was departing from home for work.

Last year, he said, he requested his wife to do away with the contractor's office and charged that she struck him when he uttered the request. Declaring that his home life unnerved him, Leland declared he was forced to leave his wife a month ago. He filed the suit through Attorney Frank B. Hoffman.

Veteran Cabman Fined For Driving While Drunk

Memories of the "gay nineties" were recalled at Police Court yesterday when Nell Carter, colored, attired in the familiar high silk hat and long, brass-buttoned coat of the fast-vanishing cabman, appeared to answer a charge of intoxication.

According to testimony, Carter was arrested while driving his horse-drawn vehicle at a high rate of speed. An occupant of the cab escaped at the approach of police, it was said. Judge John P. McMahon found the defendant guilty and imposed a $10 fine.

Suspended Sentence Granted Ax Wielder

Frank B. Fields, 28 years old, of 1106 L street northwest, was given a suspended sentence of 180 days in jail yesterday in police court by Judge Gus A. Schuldt, after witnesses testified he struck Ralph Mitchell, 28 years old, of 710 H street southwest, over the head with an ax during an altercation Sunday night at 712 H street southwest.

Mitchell was treated at Emergency hospital for a scalp wound. Ill feeling between the two men was said to have been responsible for the altercation.

Police Abandon Theory Youth Was Drowned

Three missing boys, one of whom might have been drowned in the first opinion of police, returned to their homes yesterday. Police believe that the clothes belonged to some youngster who had been swimming in the river and was frightened away

POWER OF WOMEN TOLD AT BANQUET

LAUD POLITICS AS CALLING

Organized groups of women have become a potent factor in government and development of this country, two women members of Congress, Representative Ruth Hanna McCormick, of Illinois, and Representative Ruth Bryan Owen, of Florida, told those present at the annual banquet of the Business and Professional Women's Club of the District of Columbia at the Hamilton Hotel last night.

Mrs. McCormick, who is a candidate for senator from Illinois, announced that she is a politician by profession and a ward, precinct, county and State one at that. She said that business and professional women must take not only a civic, but a political part in the government of the Nation, if they would be worthy of the vote for which they fought so hard.

Mrs. McCormick, in describing the power of some of the organized groups of women, said that the well-known political steamroller of Cook County, Ill., is not to be compared with the steamroller in some of the women's organizations.

"Don't wait to see what 'They,' meaning the political machine, will do in naming a candidate and then vote for the best man," she advised the women. "Rather see that this mythical 'They' choose the man or women as a candidate the people want. The machine is composed of elected members chosen by the people at primary elections. The women as well as the men are responsible as to the kind of bosses in the machines."

Representative Owen described a congressional committee meeting as being as proper as a church gathering. She said that the work of politician and public servant is as high a calling as any citizen could possibly select.

Representative Owen said that America can not have 1,000 per cent government with only 50 per cent of the franchised voting. She urged the women of the Nation to do their duty as voters.

Many distinguished business and professional and women executives in the Government departments were among the guests and members.

The president, Mrs. Sheppard Knapp Haynes, acted as toastmistress. An address was given on the work of the organization by Miss Emily R. Kneubuhl, national executive secretary. A program of songs was given by Miss Jane Daniel, accompnied at the piano by Miss Pearl A. Griffith.

"Dude" Ranch Agent Corrals Capital Men

"Dude" ranches, vacation centers in the cowboy country for Eastern "dudes," are opening their annual season June 1 with accommodations on 150 ranches in northern Wyoming and southern Montana for an expected record crowd of 10,000, according to T. Joe Cahill, executive secretary of the Dude Ranchers Association.

Mr. Cahill, with headquarters at Billings, Mont., visited Washington yesterday on the first educational trip of the organization to acquaint residents of Eastern States with the vacation advantages of these ranches in horseback riding, hunting, fishing and hiking.

First Division Appoints Mother to Honor Dead

Mrs. Harry Kimmell has been selected by officers of the wartime First Division to place a wreath on the First Division Monument at the rear of the State, War and Navy Building on Memorial Day.

Mrs. Kimmell is the mother of Maj. Harry Kimmell, Sixteenth Infantry, First Division, who was killed in action October 8, 1918, during the Meuse-Argonne drive.

SIMMONS TO PUSH CITY CENTER BILL

Nebraska Representative to Ask $3,000,000 if Any Sum Is Voted.

PUT ON PAR WITH AIRPORT

If the House decides to approve any appropriation bill at the special session, Representative Simmons (Republican), of Nebraska, is going to ask that $3,000,000 be appropriated to purchase land for Washington's proposed municipal center.

In making this announcement yesterday, Simmons declared that, in his opinion, the municipal center project is every bit as important as the airport project, and perhaps more important.

Simmons, who is chairman of the District subcommittee of the House Appropriations committee, introduced and had enacted in the last Congress a bill authorizing purchase of the land needed for the proposed group of municipal buildings. This area is bounded by Third and Sixth streets, Pennsylvania avenue, Indiana avenue and Louisiana avenue northwest.

Sees Economy in Speed.

Discussing the proposed airport here, Simmons announced that he would withhold his approval of the airport resolution until a definite understanding is reached with regard to just how the District is going to pay its share of the total cost of the project.

The resolution recently approved by the Congressional Airport Commission provides for an immediate appropriation of $500,000 to start work on the project, the whole of this sum to come out of the Federal Treasury. While nothing is said in the resolution about what the District is to pay ultimately, members of the commission expect that future appropriations will be carried in the District appropriation bills.

Wants Definite Understanding.

This would suit Simmons, but he wants some definite understanding on the question right now, otherwise he is going to withhold his approval of the $500,000 Federal appropriation.

If, after the initial Federal appropriation of $500,000, the subsequent appropriations are carried in the District appropriation bills, local taxpayers will have to pay far more than 50 per cent of the total cost of the project. The greater the amount that is spent on the airport, or airports, the greater will be the percentage that the taxpayers here will have to bear.

The District Commissioners have recommended that $6,000,000 be spent ultimately for an air terminal at Gravelly Point, and that this sum be shared by the Federal and District governments on a 50-50 basis.

For several years now, the Federal Government has been contributing $9,000,000 toward the District appropriation bill, a sum which represents between 25 and 30 per cent of the total cost of operating the local government.

Journalists Named As Contest Judges

Experts, Nationally Known, Will Decide Winners in College Competition.

Nationally known newspaper men have consented to act as judges in the news story and editorial competitions for college journalists sponsored by Pi Delta Epsilon, the honorary college journalism fraternity, according to announcement yesterday by Henry Grattan Doyle, dean of men at George Washington University, under whose direction the competitions will be conducted.

Karl Bickel, president of the United Press; Kent Cooper, general manager of the Associated Press; Russell Kent, president of the National Press Club; David Lawrence, president of the Consolidated Press and editor of the United States Daily, and Richard V. Oulahan, Washington correspondent of the New York Times, will act as judges in the news-story competition, initiated this year.

In the editorial competition, all the judges of last year's successful competition have consented to serve again. They are Ira E. Bennett, of The Washington Post; Claude G. Bowers, of the New York World; Louis Ludlow, representative from Indiana, and former president of the National Press Club; Maj. Oliver P. Newman, vice president of Thomas R. Shipp, Inc., and former commissioner of the District, and Frederic William Wile, of the Frederic William Wile News Service.

COMMISSION PICKS TWO NEW BOARDS FOR HEALING ARTS

Personnel of Examining and Basic Science Bodies Is Made Public.

APPOINTMENTS MADE UNDER LICENSING LAW

Chiropractors Are Called Into Conference for Discussion of Permits.

The Commission on Licensure of the Healing Arts yesterday named two boards authorized under the new healing arts licensing law.

The Board on Basic Sciences is composed of Dr. George W. McCoy, of the United States Public Health Service, for a term of five years; Dr. Paul Bartsch, of the National Museum, four years; Dr. William B. Holton, of the American University, three years; Dr. James P. Leake, United States Public Health Service, two years, and Dr. John B. Parker, of Catholic University, one year.

Examining Board Chosen.

In addition to this general board the commission appointed the examining board for the examination of doctors of medicine and osteopathy. This board follows: Dr. George C. Birdsall, homeopathist, five years; Dr. Chester D. Swope, osteopathist, four years; Dr. Oscar B. Hunter, of George Washington University, three years; Dr. Caryl Burbank, Howard University, two years, and Dr. Prentiss Wilson, Georgetown University Hospital, one year.

Representatives of chiropractic in the District were called into conference with commission officials and discussed the procedure which should be followed in carrying out the provisions of the licensing law in so far as it applies to their profession. Dr. William C. Fowler, District health officer and secretary-treasurer of the commission, said that the commission was desirous of meeting the views of the various divisions of the healing arts in so far as it could do so and conform with the provisions and purpose of the law.

Board to Go Slowly.

The commission, Fowler said, intends to proceed slowly in working out its methods and procedure. "I expect we will make mistakes and do something which we later will have to undo," Fowler said. "But we want these mistakes to be as few and far between as possible and we want to be fair to every one. One of our problems is to define just what constitutes a person qualified to practice this or that branch of the healing arts. Under some of the definitions submitted to the commission and expressed to Congress certain branches cover such a broad field that it might well be said that a person licensed under that head would be equally qualified to practice under almost any other classification.

"We want each of the branches to help frame a clear-cut definition which will stand the test of practice."

Affiliation With American Bar Association to Be Sought.

Traffic men and attorneys practicing before the Interstate Commerce Commission yesterday perfected a temporary organization, which, they announce, will seek affiliation with the American Bar Association. C. C. McChord, of Washington, former chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission, was named temporary chairman and Paul A. Walker, of Oklahoma City, Okla., secretary.

Chairman McChord appointed the following committee on constitution and by-laws: John J. Esch, Washington; R. J. Hagman, St. Paul, Minn.; S. H. Wettrick, Seattle, Wash.; James W. Carmalt, Washington; Elmer A. Smith, Chicago; W. H. Chandler, New York, and John E. Benton, Washington.

The organization is a result of regulations of the commission requiring all persons who expect to practice before that body to register on or before July 1, the organizers said.

E. L. Kneessi Files Bankruptcy.

Edward L. Kneessi, well-known District merchant, asked the District Supreme Court yesterday to adjudge him a voluntary bankrupt. His petition was filed individually and as copartner of Samuel Lacher, trading as Edward L. Kneessi. Through his counsel, James M. Proctor, the merchant declared his debts totaled $16,447.97 and his assets $14,304.51.

Avenue's Closing Requested For Carrying of Large Flag

The District Flag Association yesterday requested District officials to close Pennsylvania avenue to traffic on Saturday, June 8, at 1:15 o'clock in the afternoon so that they may carry a large American flag down the Avenue from the White House to the Capitol.

The flag is to be carried by many persons. It is said to be the largest in the country and, unfurled, will take up almost the entire width of the street. It is to be used in vestal memorial services at the Capitol at 5 o'clock the next day.

District officials, however, are pondering just what will happen if they grant the permission requested. The Government departments will close at 1 o'clock on that day and traffic congestion will be at its peak at the time the association wants to hold its parade. Another hour will be suggested, even if permission is granted, it was intimated.

Guns Found in Georgetown Believed Braddock Army's

Guns that even the oldest members of Georgetown can not identify have been discovered in this historic section of the District, and data are now being unearthed which may link the old-time weapons with Gen. Braddock, it was disclosed last night at a meeting of the Georgetown Citizens Association.

The ancient weapons, it was announced, were recently dug up at the lower end of Thirty-fourth street, near K, where an excavation is being made for a new building. They were brought to the attention of the Georgetown Citizens Association.

The Smithsonian Institution was notified, and the opinion was at first expressed that the guns were struck at the old Foxhall Foundry. This theory has been abandoned, however, and it is now thought that the arms were part of the equipment of Gen. Braddock's army.
